I am very glad to know that the Sacred Books of the East, published years ago by the Clarendon Press, Oxford, which have been out-of-print for a number of years, will now be available to all students of religion and philosophy. The enterprise of the publishers is commendable and I hope the books will be widely read.

PREFATORY NOTE TO THE NEW EDITION

Since 1948 the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), upon the recommendation of the General Assembly of the United Nations, has been concerned with facilitating the translation of the works most representative of the culture of certain of its Member States, and, in particular, those of Asia.

One of the major difficulties confronting this programme is the lack of translators having both the qualifications and the time to undertake translations of the many outstanding books meriting publication. To help overcome this difficulty in part, UNESCO's advisers in this field (a panel of experts convened every other year by the International Council for Philosophy and Humanistic Studies), have recommended that many worthwhile translations published during the 19th century, and now impossible to find except in a limited number of libraries, should be brought back into print in low-priced editions, for the use of students and of the general public. The experts also pointed out that in certain cases, even though there might be in existence more recent and more accurate translations endowed with a more modern apparatus of scholarship, a number of pioneer works of the greatest value and interest to students of Eastern religions also merited republication.

This point of view was warmly endorsed by the Indian National Academy of Letters (Sahitya Akademi), and the Indian National Commission for Unesco.

It is in the spirit of these recommendations that this work from the famous series "Sacred Books of the East" is now once again being made available to the general public as part of the UNESCO Collection of Representative Works.

PUBLISHER'S NOTE

First, the man distinguished between eternal and perishable. Later he discovered within himself the germ of the Eternal. This discovery was an epoch in the history of the human mind and the East was the first to discover it.

To watch in the Sacred Books of the East the dawn of this religious consciousness of man, must always remain one of the most inspiring and hallowing sights in the whole history of the world. In order to have a solid foundation for a comparative study of the Religions of the East, we must have before all things, complete and thoroughly faithful translation of their Sacred Books in which some of the ancient sayings were preserved because they were so true and so striking that they could not be forgotten. They contained eternal truths, expressed for the first time in human language.

With profoundest reverence for Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, President of India, who inspired us for the task; our deep sense of gratitude for Dr. G. D. Deshmukh & Dr. D. S. Kothari, for encouraging assistance, esteemed appreciation of UNESCO for the warm endorsement of the cause; and finally with indebtedness to Dr. H. Rau, Director, Max Müller Bhawan, New Delhi, in procuring us the texts of the Series for reprint, we humbly conclude.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE

SÂÑKHÂYANA-GRÎHYA-SÛTRA.

THE Grîhya-sûtra ascribed to Sâñkhâyana, which has been edited and translated into German by myself in the XVth volume of the Indische Studien, is based on the first of the four Vedas, the Rig-veda in the Bâshkala recension¹, and among the Brâhmana texts, on the Kaushîtaka. Its reputed author, whom we ordinarily find called by his family name, Sâñkhâyana, had the proper name Suyagñâ. This we may infer from the lists of Vedic teachers given in different Grîhya texts where they describe the Tarpana ceremony. Though in these lists the order of names varies very much, yet the two names Suyagñâ and Sâñkhâyana are constantly placed side by side, so that this fact alone would render it probable that they belonged to the same person. Thus we read in the Sâñkhâyana-Grîhya IV, 10 = VI, 1:

*Kahola*m *Kaushîtaki*m, *Mahâkaushîtaki*m, *Suyagñâ*m Sâñkhâyanam, Âsvalâyanam, Aitareyam, Mahaitareyam.

Here we have grouped together the two Brâhmana authors (with the fictitious doubles, the great Kaushîtaki, the great Aitareya) and the two corresponding Sûtra authors belonging to the two chief branches of the Rig-veda literature; first comes one Brâhmana author (for Kahola Kaushîtaki is one person) with the Sûtra author connected with him, then the second Sûtra author and the corresponding Brâhmana teacher.

In the Sâmbavya-Grîhya (Indische Studien, XV, 154) the corresponding passage runs thus:

Gârgya-Gautama-Sâkalya-Bâbhavya-Mândattavya

[sic]- Māṇḍūkyaśāh Suyagñā- Sāṁkhyāyana- Gātukarnyeyāś [sic] Paimga [sic]- Sāmbavy'-Aitareyāś.

The same Grīhya still more explicitly bears witness to the name of Suyagñā Sāṁkhāyana, by adding at the end of the list from which these names are quoted the following words. Suyagñā Sāṁkhāyanas [sic] tri[pya]tu, i. e. 'May Suyagñā Sāṁkhāyana satiate himself (with the water offering).'

In the Āsvalāyana-Grīhya III, 4, we read :

Kaholaṁ Kaushītakaṁ Mahākaushītakaṁ Paingyaṁ
Mahāpaingyaṁ Suyagñāṁ Sāṁkhāyanāṁ Aitareyaṁ Mahaitareyaṁ.

We may also quote here a Kārikā given by Nārāyaṇa¹ in his great commentary on the Sāṁkhāyana-Grīhya (I, 1, 10):

Atiāraṇipradānaṁ yad adhvaryuḥ kurute kvaṇit²
matam tan na Suyagñāsyā, mathitam so 'tra nekṣhati.

It would perhaps be hazardous to claim for the author of this Kārikā the authority of an independent witness, for very likely he may have derived his knowledge from the lists of teachers which we have quoted before. But at all events the concordance of the three Grīhya texts furnishes a proof which, I think, cannot be set aside by another testimony which we must mention now. At the end of the Kaushītaki-Āraṇyaka (Adhyāya 15) we find a Vamśa or list of the teachers by whom the knowledge contained in that Āraṇyaka is supposed to have been handed down. The opening words of this list run thus :

'Om! Now follows the Vamśa. Adoration to the Brahman! Adoration to the teachers! We have learnt (this text) from Guṇākhyā Sāṁkhāyana, Guṇākhyā Sāṁkhāyana from Kahola Kaushītaki, Kahola Kaushītaki from Uddālaka Āruṇi, &c.'

It is a very natural supposition that the author of this list intended to begin with the name of the Doctor eponymus, if we may say so, of the Sūtras of his school, and then to proceed to name the Doctor eponymus of the Brāhmanas, and after him the more ancient teachers and sages. But whether the author of this passage really supposed this Guṇākhyā Sāṅkhāyana to be the author of the Sāṅkhāyana-sūtras, or not, we shall be justified in following rather the unanimous statements of the texts previously quoted, and in accepting in accordance with them, as the full name of our Sūtrakāra, the name Suyagñā Sāṅkhāyana.

The Gr̥hya-sūtra which has been here translated presupposes, as all Gr̥hya-sūtras do, the existence of the Srauta-sūtra, with which it is intimately connected and which is referred to in the Gr̥hya in several instances¹.

Here the question arises whether the Gr̥hya-sūtra was composed by the same author to whom the authorship of the Srauta-sūtra belongs, so that the two texts form together, and would, in the conception of their author, be intended to form, one great body of Sūtras, or, on the other hand, whether the Gr̥hya-sūtra is a later addition to the Srauta-sūtra. On this question I have ventured, in the preface to my German edition of *Sāṅkhāyana*², to offer a few remarks which, however, I feel bound to say do not seem to myself quite decisive. I there pointed out that the Gr̥hya-sūtra contains a few aphorisms which we should rather expect would have found their place in the Srauta-sūtra, if the two texts were composed by the same author and on a common plan³. But, apart from the possibility that in a work of such considerable extent as that collection of Sūtras would be, such trifling incongruences or irregularities might very easily escape the attention even of a very careful author, there is still another objection that may be urged against the inference drawn by me from such passages. It can be shown⁴ that the Gr̥hya texts which we possess are based to some extent on one common original, from which they have taken verbatim, or nearly verbatim, a certain number of aphorisms. Thus if we were to suppose that Sāṅkhāyana,

² Indische Studien, vol. xv, pp. 11, 12.

³ The Sūtras with reference to which I made that observation are I, 8, 14; 14, 13-15; II, 15, 10. Comp. Srauta-sūtra II, 7, 12, IV, 21.

or whosoever the author of this Grīhya-sūtra may have been, found the aphorisms on which I once based my argument, in that original text, this would explain the occurrence of those passages in a portion of the great body of Sūtras different from that in which we should expect, to meet them. Now several of the passages in question recur identically in other Grīhya texts, so that we may infer indeed that they are taken from that lost original, and we have no means to judge whether the other similar passages are not taken from it also. I believe, therefore, that the opinion which I once pronounced regarding the relation in which the two Sūtra texts stand to each other, cannot be vindicated, and that it is better to leave that question unanswered until perhaps further discoveries throw a new light on it.

For the reconstruction of the correct text of the Sāṅkhāyana-Grīhya, and occasionally also for its interpretation, it is of considerable importance that we possess, besides the Devanāgarī MSS. of the text and of the commentaries, a South Indian MS. written in the Grantha character (MS. Whish 78 in the library of the Royal Asiatic Society, London) which contains a Grīhya based on that of Sāṅkhāyana and following it, during the greater part of the work, nearly word for word¹. It is designated in the MS., at the end of the single Adhyāyas, as 'Kaushītaka-Grīhya.' It therefore professes to follow the teaching of the same Brāhmaṇa which is adhered to also by the Sūtra school of Sāṅkhāyana. A metrical commentary, which in the MS. follows after the text, names in its opening Sloka a teacher Sāmbavya as the author of this Sūtra. The Sloka runs thus: grīhyam tadīyam samkshipya vyākhyāsyē bahuvismrītam.*

*Naṭvā Kaushītakākāryam Sāmbavyam sūtrakṛittamam

('Having bowed to the most excellent author of Sūtras, to Sāmbavya, the Ākārya belonging to the Kaushītaka school, I shall compose a short commentary on his Grīhya, which has been forgotten by many.')

The name of this Sāmbavya does not occur among the teachers enumerated in the description of the Tarpana ceremony, neither in Sāṅkhāyana IV, 10, nor in Āśvalāyana III, 4; but in the list of the Sāmbavya-Gṛihya itself it is found (see above, p. 4); and besides it seems to me also to be mentioned in Āśvalāyana-Gṛihya IV, 8, 24, in which passage it will scarcely be considered too bold to conjecture Sāmbavya instead of Sāṃvatya.

Though the MS. of the Sāmbavya-Gṛihya is very confused, and full of blunders of all sorts, yet it deserves to be attentively studied by all scholars who are accustomed to look, if not in theory yet in practice, on the agreement of a few Vedic text MSS., or of a few Indian commentaries, as if it had a claim to an unassailable authority to which European Orientalists would have no right to deny their faith. In the Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛihya a number of passages are found in which corrupt readings or perverse explanations are supported by all the Sāṅkhāyana MSS. and by all the Sāṅkhāyana commentaries, and if, by a rare and fortunate chance, the Sāmbavya Grantha MS., which is unaffected by the blunders of the Devanāgarī MSS., had not been discovered in the south of the peninsula, these readings and explanations would seem to rest on the unanimous agreement of tradition. Perhaps it seems unnecessary to dwell on this point, for very few Orientalists, if any, would be prepared to assert that Indian tradition is infallible. But when looking over many of the editions and translations of the Vedic texts, even such as have been published in the last years, one finds plentiful occasion to observe that in hundreds of passages tradition has been practically treated, by scholars of very high merit, as if it had an authority not very far removed from infallibility. A case like that of which we have to speak here, in which a whole set of MSS., and occasionally also of commentaries, can be tested by a MS. of a nearly related text, written in a different character and in a distant part of India, will strengthen our belief that we are right in judging for ourselves, even if that judgment should oppose itself to such authorities as Nārāyaṇa or Rāmaṇdra or Gayarāma.

Perhaps it will not be out of place to add here, as an illustration of these remarks, a few observations on one of the passages in which the rejection of the traditional Sāṅkhāyana reading, together with the traditional Sāṅkhāyana explanation, is confirmed by the Sāmbavya MS., though no doubt, even without the aid of that MS., we ought to have formed the right conclusions for ourselves. At Sāṅkhāyana II, 4, 1. 2 the traditional reading is.

Mama vrate hrīdayam te dadhāmi mama kīrtam anu kīrtam te astu | mama vākam ekamanā gushasva Bṛihaspatish tvā niyunaktu mahyam iti | kāmasya brahmaṭyasyāśāv iti.

Sāṅkhāyana is treating here of the Upanayana, or the initiation of the student who is received by a teacher and intends to study the Veda with him. The teacher on that occasion is to pronounce the Mantra which we have just transcribed, and which translated into English would run thus :

‘Under my will I take thy heart; after my mind shall thy mind follow; in my word thou shalt rejoice with all thy heart; may Bṛihaspati join thee to me.’ ‘Of the Brahmaṭyā of Kāma (or lust), N. N.!’

The MSS. give the end of the passage as we have printed it above, kāmasya brahmaṭyasyāśāv iti. This Nārāyaṇa explains in the following way. Brahmaṭyā here means the observances which the student has to keep through certain periods of time before the different texts which he has to learn can be taught him. First comes the Sāvitrī verse, for which he prepares himself by observing the-sāvitra vrata; this lasts either one year, or three days, or the Sāvitrī can also be taught him immediately (see chap. 5, 1-3). Then follows the sukriya vrata, of three days, or twelve days, or one year, or any other period of time according to the teacher’s pleasure (chap. II, 10); by this vrata the student is enabled to study the main portion of the Veda. Finally come the sākvara, vrātika, aupanishada observances, each of which has to last one year, and which refer to the different parts of the Ātmanyaka (see chap. II, 11 seq., and the sixth book). Now the formula of which we treat here refers principally to the sāvitrī vrata. The teacher announces to the student how long he has to keep that vrata. He says (Sûtra 1), 'May Bṛihaspati join thee to me (Sûtra 2) for a brahmaṅkârya (i. e. a viata) of such and such (kâmasya) a time (one year, three days, &c.), N. N. 1' Kâma (the pleasure) would thus stand here as an expletive which was to be replaced in each single case by the indication of the real space of time that depended on the teacher's pleasure ('... niyunaktu mahyam sâmvatsarikasya trairâtrikasya vânvakshikasya vâ sâvitrasya brahmaṅkâryasyâmukâmukasarmann iti vâkyasamyogo gñe-ya'). The same should take place at the corresponding forms of Upanayana which had to precede the entrance of the student upon the sukriya, sâkvara, &c. observances. This is the explanation of Nârâyana, with which Râmakandra and all the other commentators agree. It will scarcely be necessary to observe that the singular use of kâma, on which this traditional explanation rests, is neither in accordance with the meaning of the word, nor supported by any parallel texts. So, even before I had the opportunity of collating the Sâmbavya MS., I had no doubt that the system of the Vratas has nothing at all to do with our Sûtra, and that its text should be made intelligible by a slight alteration touching only the quantity of the a in two syllables, by writing, Kâmasya brahmaṅkâryasyasâv iti (thou art the Brahmakârin of Kâma, N. N. 1), as we read in Ārvalâyana I, 20, 8, kasya brahmaṅkâryasi, prânasya brahmaṅkâryasi. Afterwards I found that the Grantha MS. of Sâmbavya gives the very reading which I had conjectured.

Passages like this are not very rare in the Grîhya-sûtras. In the other Sûtras we are not in the same favourable position of possessing a MS. which enables us, as the Grantha MS. of Sâmbavya does, to test their text.

We cannot conclude these introductory remarks without speaking of the later additions tacked on at the end of the original body of the *Sâṅkhâyana-Grîhya-sûtras*¹. There are unmistakable indications that the fifth and sixth books are later additions. The fifth book is designated as a parishishṭa in a Kārikā quoted by Nārāyaṇa:

parishishṭād āvasathye pārvaṇātikrame karuḥ
Vaisvānarāyāgnaye kṛāgnaye¹ tantumatē tathā.

(‘According to the Parishishṭa, if one of the half-monthly sacrifices has been omitted, a mess of rice should be offered on the sacred domestic fire to Agni Vaisvānara and to Agni Tantumāt’)

The passages of the ‘Parishishṭa’ here referred to are the two first aphorisms of V, 4:

‘Now if a half-monthly sacrifice has not been performed, one or the other of them, then a mess of rice (is to be offered)—

‘With (the words), “To Agni Vaisvānara svāhā! To Agni Tantumāt svāhā!’”

There are, besides, several passages in which Nārāyaṇa himself mentions the fifth book under the designation of *Parisheshādhyāya*². And even if we had not the authority of the Kārikā and of Nārāyaṇa, the contents alone of the fifth book would raise our suspicion against its genuineness. The matter ordinarily treated of in the Grīhya texts is brought to an end in Adhyāyas I–IV; in the fifth book we find diverse supplementary additions on points discussed before; rules, which no doubt would have been given at their proper place, had the fifth book been composed at the same time, and by the same author, as the preceding books³. Besides, we find different prāyaskītta oblations treated of, and a description of two ceremonies which are mentioned, as far as I know, in no other Grīhya-sūtra, but belong to the rites frequently described in such works as Purāṇas, Parishishṭas, and later Dharma texts: the consecration of ponds or wells (chap. 2), and the consecration of gardens (chap. 3).

There can thus be little doubt as to the secondary character of the fifth book. And this alone suffices to furnish an important argument in favour of the same view with regard to the sixth book also. This view is furthermore supported by the opening invocation in that book, addressed to Brahman and to a number of mythological beings and Vedic sages and teachers. It is evident that by such an invocation this book is characterised as a separate treatise, presupposing of course the main body of the Sāṅkhāyana sūtras, but not forming part of it in the same sense in which, for instance, the second or the third Adhyāya does. The object of that treatise is the exposition of the ritual connected with the study of the Rahasya texts. The sixth book, composed no doubt by a later adherent of the Sāṅkhāyana school, returns, in fact, to, and enlarges on, matters that have already found their proper place in the original Gṛhya-sūtra at II, 12, and partly also at IV, 7.

SÂÑKHÂYANA-GR/HYA-SÛTRA.

ADHYÂYA I, KHANDA 1.

1. Now henceforth we shall declare the Pākayagñas.

2. When (a pupil) is going to return (from his teacher), let him keep that fire (as his domestic fire) on which he has put the last piece of wood (as required by the regulations for a student),

3. Or (he should keep) his nuptial fire.

1, 1. The ceremonies to be treated of are defined here as the Pākayagñas (i.e. oblations of cooked offerings) just as in the opening sentence of the Pāraskara-Gr̥hya they are called gr̥hyasthālpākās. This is indeed the most characteristic form of offerings belonging to the domain of the Gr̥hya ritual, though it would not be correct to state that the Gr̥hya-sūtras treat exclusively of sacrificial ceremonies of this kind.

2. As to the duty of the Vedic student of putting every day a piece of wood on the sacred fire of his teacher, see below, II, 6, 8, and compare the Gr̥hya-saṃgraha-pariśiṣṭa II, 58. According to a Kārikā given by Nārāyaṇa, and the Karmapradīpa (I, 6, 13), the prescription of this Sūtra regarding the time for the kindling of the sacred fire refers exclusively to the case of vāgdāna (betrothal). Comp. also Dr. Bloomfield's note on the Gr̥hya-saṃgraha-pariśiṣṭa I, 76 (Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft, XXXV, 560). In the Kārikā it is stated that if the betrothed girl dies after the fire has been kindled, but before the marriage, the sacrificer is not to forsake his fire, but to marry another girl; if he cannot find a bride, he should make the fire enter into himself according to the rules given by Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya V, 1, and himself become uttarāśramin, i.e. enter one of the two final Āśramas.

4. Some declare (that the domestic fire should be kindled) at the time of the division of the inheritance.

5. Or that after the death of the householder the eldest one himself (should kindle it).

6. (It should be kindled) on the day of the new moon of the month of Vaisâkha or on another (new moon day).

7. Some say (that the fire should be kindled) according to the (sacrificer's) wishes under the (corresponding) constellation.

8. He should light his fire at one of the following places, viz. in the house of a Vaisya who is rich in

5. Nârâyana: 'If the fire has not been kindled at the time stated above, then, after the householder . i.e. the father, even if he should not have performed the âdhâna, or the elder brother has died, the eldest son (or the son who after his elder brother's death has become the eldest), after he has performed the Sapindikarâna (for the dead father or brother; see below, IV, 3, and the ninth chapter of the Parisishâ [book V]), even if he has not divided the inheritance with his younger brothers (so that the time stated in the fourth Sûtra would not have arrived), should kindle the fire himself, i.e. without an officiating priest (ṛtvig). . . . Or the Sûtra should be divided into two; prete vâ grihapatau (or after the death of the householder), and svayam gyâyân (the eminent one himself), i.e. of Brâhmanas, Kshatriyas, and Vâsya a gyâyân, which means a most eminent person, a Brâhmana, performs the Pâkayagñias himself; for the two other castes the Pâkayagñias have to be performed through an officiating priest: this is the meaning of this svayam (himself).' I have given this note of Nârâyana as a specimen of the entirely arbitrary and obviously misleading explanations which are unfortunately so frequently found in this author, as indeed in most of the other Sûtra commentators. As to the true meaning of this svayam I still adhere to the explanation which I proposed in my German edition of the text (p. 118), that in case no division of the inheritance takes place, the sacred fire should be kindled on behalf of all the joint-proprietors, but that only the eldest brother should act personally (svayam).

8. Or, 'at (the fire of) a person rich in cattle, in the house of a Vaisya,' &c.? The commentators (see p. 118 of the German cattle, at a frying-pan, or (at the fire of) one who offers many sacrifices.

9. Some say that (the fire should be fetched from one of the above-mentioned places) in the evening and in the morning.

10. The inauguration (of the fire) by an evening offering should be learnt from the Adhvaryus, according to (my) teacher.

11. In the morning he shall offer a full oblation with a verse sacred to Vishnu, or silently.

12. The time for setting it (i.e. the domestic fire) in a blaze and for sacrificing on it has been explained by (the rules given with regard to) the Agnihotra.

edition) differ as to whether in puruṣa-viśkula one or two alternatives are contained, and it is interesting to see that the Sūtra authors themselves differed in this respect; Pāraskara (I, 2, 3), when declaring from what place the fire should be fetched, speaks of the house of a Vaiśya rich in cattle; Āśvalāyana, on the contrary, who in the Grīhya-sūtra does not expressly treat of the kindling of the domestic fire, in the corresponding passage of the Śrauta-sūtra (II, 2, 1), gives the rule that the dakṣhiṇāgni is to be fetched 'from the house of a Vaiśya or from a rich person.'

9-11. I now differ from the opinion which I pronounced in my German edition with regard to the relation in which these three Sūtras stand to each other. I think they ought to be understood thus: 9. Some teachers say that the fetching of the fire from its yoni, as taught in Sūtra 8, ought to be done twice; in the evening, so that the fire, after the necessary rites have been performed, goes out, and then again in the morning. 10. But my (the author's) teacher (comp. as to ākāryāḥ, Kātyāyana's Śrauta-sūtra I, 3, 7; Professor Garbe's note on Vaitāna-sūtra 1, 3) is of opinion that the fire should be fetched only once, and that with this fire the ceremonies which are taught by the Adhvaryus are to be performed in the evening (see, for instance, Kāty. IV, 7, 8, which passage is paraphrased here by Nārāyaṇa). 11. In the morning (according to the same teacher, not, as I once understood this passage, according to the eke referred to in Sūtra 9), a full oblation is to be offered, &c.

12. Śrauta-sūtra II, 6, 2 seq.

13. And 'invested with' the sacrificial cord,' &c., all these rules, as far as they are applicable, should be applied (here also) in consequence of the unity of the ritual.

14. With regard to this they quote also (the following Sloka):

15. 'The kinds of Pākayagñas, the kinds of Haviryagñas, and again the kinds of Soma sacrifices, 'Twenty-one by number, these are proclaimed to be the kinds of sacrifice.'

KHANDA 2.

1. At the end of the sacrificial acts (follows) the distribution of food to Brāhmanas.

2. Voice, (pleasantness of) form, age, learning, moral character, (right) conduct are the qualities (required in the Brāhmanas who are to be invited thereto).

13. Srauta-sūtra I, 1, 6. 7: yagñopavīti devakarmāṇi karoti, prāśnāvīti pitryāṇi, &c. The unity of the ritual of course means the unity of the two great domains of the Srauta and Gṛhya ritual.

15. With regard to the twenty-one kinds of sacrifice compare, for instance, Gautama VIII, 18-20; Max Müller, Z.D.M.G. IX, p. lxxii; Weber, Indische Studien, X, 326. The seven kinds of Pākayagñas are the Aṣṭakā sacrifices (see below, III, 12 seq.), the sacrifices offered at each Parvan (I, 3), the Śrāddha (or funeral) sacrifices (IV, 1 seq.), the sacrifice of the Śrāvastī full moon (IV, 15), of the Āgrahāyanī (IV, 17 seq.), of the Kārtī (IV, 19), and of the Āsvayugī (IV, 16). The seven Havis sacrifices (belonging, as is the case also with the third division of sacrifices, to the Srauta ritual) are the Agnyādheya, the Agnihotra, the sacrifices of the full and new moon, the Āgrayana, the three Kāturmāsya sacrifices, the Nirūdhaparasubandha, and the Sautrāmanī. The seven kinds of Soma sacrifices (of which the more ancient texts mention only three or four samsthās, see Weber, Indische Studien, IX, 120) are the Agnishōma, the Atyagnishōma, the Ukthya, the Shodasin, the Atirātra, the Aptoryāma

3. Learning, however, outweighs every (other qualification).

6. 'A performer of the sacred rights, a man who has studied (the Veda), who is old in learning and devoted to austerities :

'He who gives food (even) once to such (a Brâhmaṇa), hunger will not befall that man any more.

7. 'Whatsoever deity he may wish to satiate at any sacrifice,

'Destining it to that (deity) in his mind, he shall give (the food) to a person like that.

8. 'An oblation deposited in a person like that will never miss its way to the deity;

'Treasure of men, vessel of gods (in which they receive what is given to them) he is called.'

3, 1. Most probably this rule should be divided into two Sûtras, so that atha darsapûrṇamâsau would stand as the heading of the chapter; comp. below, chap. 18, 1, atha âaturthîkarma; chap. 24, 1, atha gâtakarma, &c.

2. 'If this is expressly stated, the oblation is to be made in night-time; for instance, at the Vâstoshpatiya ceremony it is stated, "The tenth oblation of the Sthâlipâka, to Agni Svishakrit at night" (see below, III, 4, 8).' Nârâyana.

top of the great trees, that is the most auspicious time for all kinds of sacrifices, unless there be a special rule. •

3. With a genial mind, clean, on a pure, protected spot, having cooked a full, thin mess of rice, he offers that cooked oblation to the deities of the festivals of the new and full moon, distributing it in the due way.

4. In the oblations of cooked food the acts of taking (the intended oblation), of putting it down (near the fire), and of sprinkling it (with water) are performed with regard to the deities of the (respective) Mantras.

3. On vighana, which I have translated thin, see the note in the German edition, pp 119 seq.

The deities of the festivals of the new and full moon (i e. of the rites which in the Srauta ritual correspond to that taught here) are, at the full moon, Agni and Agnīshomau, at the new moon, Agni, Vishnu, and Indrāṅt, who are preceded in both cases by Agni and Soma as the deities of the two Āgyabhāgas (see below, ch. 9, 7), and followed by Agni Svishakṛāt. For more detailed statements see Hillebrandt, Das altindische Neu- und Vollmondsopfer (Jena, 1879), pp. 102 seq.

4. For instance, the taking of the portion of food destined to Agni should be performed with the Mantra: Agnaye tvā gushṭam grīhṇāmi, &c. A number of ceremonies common to the Sthālpāka ritual and to the ordinary ritual of Āgya oblations, such as the strewing of Kura grass round the fire, the ceremonies regarding the Pavitrās (strainers), &c, have to be supplied here from the Āgya ritual given below (ch. 7 seq.), this may be looked upon as an argument in favour of our conjecture which will be stated in the preface (vol. ii of the Gṛīhya-sūtras), that our text, as probably is the case also with the Pāraskara-sūtra, is based on an original, the opening sentences of which are preserved to us in Sāṅkh. I, 5, 1-5 = Pāraskara I, 4, 1-5, so that the first chapters of Sāṅkhāyana, and among them the exposition of the festivals of the full and new moon, would have been prefixed to the original commencement of the text.

5. And the rules about the portions to be cut off (from the sacrificial food, are valid).

6. But before the sacrifices of the new and full moon one should make offerings to the deities of the Anvārambhaṇīya ceremony.

7. The time for the new moon sacrifice is not elapsed until the full moon, nor that for the full moon sacrifice until the new moon.

8. And some say that the morning oblation may be made at the time of the evening oblation, in the case of danger.

9. But the time is fixed, as at the Agnihotra an expiation has been prescribed for him who has neglected the time.

10. At the two daily oblations one should use as sacrificial food either rice or barley or grains.

11. In case these are not at hand, other (sorts of sacrificial food are) not prohibited.

12. Some say that if he uses grains, he should wash them.

13. With the other (kinds of food) no such preparation takes place.

6. The Anvārambhaṇīya-ishṭi is the sacrifice taught in the Srauta texts which is to be performed before the sacrificer for the first time offers the Darsapūramāsa sacrifice. See Weber, Indische Studien, X, 330; Hillebrandt, loc. cit., p. 185. The deities of this ceremony are Agnīviśṇū, Sarasvatī, and Sarasvat.

7. Comp. the expiatory sacrifice prescribed in the Parishṭa book, V, 4.

8. The text here passes over from the two monthly sacrifices to the two daily ones, which correspond to the Agnihotra of the Srauta ritual.

14. In the evening (he makes the oblation) to Agni, in the morning to Sūrya,

15. And after both silently to Pragāpati.

16. Some (say that) before the first oblation a piece of wood (is to be put on the fire).

KHANDA 4.

1. When he has risen in the morning and has sipped water, let him daily repeat his recital.

2. (This consists of, or is accompanied by, the following texts :) the two verses, 'To-day, god Savitar' (Rig-veda V, 82, 4-5); the hymn, 'Go away, Manasaspati' (X, 164); the hymn, 'Right and truth' (X, 190); the verses, 'Look down, ye Ādityas,' to the end of the hymn (VIII, 47, 11-18);

14, 15. These are the same deities who are worshipped also at the Agnihotra.

17. Srauta-sūtra II, 6, 9-11. Comp. p. 120 of the German edition.

4, 1. The Paddhati of Rāmakāṇḍa understands svādhyāyam adhīyā as a prescription to perform the daily Brahmayaṅgīa (comp., for instance, Āśvalāyana-Gr̥hya III, 2; Āpastamba I, 11, 22 seq.), which consists in the recitation of portions of the Veda; the hymns and verses stated in Sūtra 2 are, according to the same authority, to be repeated immediately after the recitation of the svādhyāya ('svādhyāyānantaram'). Nārāyaṇa, on the contrary, considers that the svādhyāya prescribed in Sūtra 1 consists of those very hymns and verses which are indicated in the second Sūtra. As to the Brahmayaṅgīa, he says that the ka at the end of the second Sūtra may be referred to it ('the word ka means that texts procuring a long life, such as Rig-veda I, 89, should be murmured, or an injunction of the Brahmayaṅgīa is intended'). At all events it is very difficult to believe that the recitation of the texts stated in this chapter should be quite independent from the daily Brahmayaṅgīa. About the performance of the Brahmayaṅgīa in our days comp. the note of Professor Bühler, Sacred Books of the East, vol. ii, p. 43.

This Sūtra and the following ones down to the fifth are identical with Pāraskara I, 4, 1-5; it seems to me that we have here before us the opening Sūtras of a lost text from which this passage has been copied both by Sāṅkhāyana and Pāraskara. KHANDA 6.

1. If he will acquire a wife, let him recite over the wooers (whom he sends to the girl's father) when they go away, the verse, 'Thornless' (Rig-veda X, 85, 23).

2. When they arrive, they take flowers, fruits, barley, and a pot of water.

3. They say thrice, 'Here I am, sir!'

4. When these words have been uttered, they ask the girl in marriage, reciting the clan names, the dwellers turning their faces to the east, the visitors to the west.

6. The position of the words as well as the sense favours combining the genitive kanyāyāḥ with ātāryaḥ, not with mār-dhani, though Rāmakaṇḍa says that the varapakshāatārya is to be understood.

7, 1 seq. Here follows a description of the sacrifice which is to be performed when the girl's father has declared his assent (pratirute) to give her away in marriage: this is the general model for all Grīhyā sacrifices — 'Varo guhoti,' Nārāyaṇa.

3. 'He here states an exception to the rule, "The ceremonies sacred to the Manes are directed towards the south" (Śrauta-sūtra I, 1, 14) He should consider the south-eastern direction, sacred to Agni, as that to which the ceremonies are to be directed (prāṇm pūrvām kalpayet) which are sacred to the Manes, such as

12. The place for the insertion is the interval between the Mahâvyâhritis, the general expiation, and the oblation to Pragâpati.

11. See chap. 8, 13.

12. This Sûtra prescribes where the âvâpa, i.e. the special characteristical offerings of each sacrifice, is to be inserted between the regular offerings that belong to the standing model. The same subject is treated of in the Srauta-sûtra in the two rules, I, 16, 3 and 4: 'Whatsoever is offered between the two Âgya portions and the Svishakṛit, that is called âvâpa; this is the chief part (pradhâna) (of the sacrifice); the other (oblations) are subordinate thereto (tadangâm).' The position of the âvâpa among the other oblations is indicated by Pâraskara in the following rule (I, 5, 6). 'Between the general expiation and the oblation to Pragâpati, this is the place for the âvâpa.' (The word vivâhe at the end of this Sûtra seems to me to belong not to this rule, but to Sûtra 7.) Our Sûtra is identical with that of Pâraskara word for word; only instead of sarvaprâyaścitta, as Pâraskara has, we read here, mahâvyâhṛtisarvaprâyaścitta. This means, I believe, that the âvâpa, preceded and followed by the Mahâvyâhṛti oblations (comp. below, I, 12, 13), should be placed between the Sarvaprâyaścitta and the Pragâpatya oblation. The oblations made with the *Mahâvyâhṛti*ayas are four in number; the corresponding formulas are: bhûh svâhâ, bhuvaḥ svâhâ, svâh svâhâ, bhûr bhuvaḥ svaḥ svâhâ (comp. below, chap. 12, 12). The Sarvaprâyaścitta (general expiation) consists of two oblations, one with the three *Mahâvyâhṛti*ayas, the other with the verse ayâs kâgne, quoted in the Srauta-sûtra III, 19, 3, and in Âśvalâyana's Srauta-sûtra I, 11, 13. (On the Sarvaprâyaścitta in the Srauta ritual, compare Hillebrandt, Neu- und Vollmondsopfer, p. 166.) The Pragâpatya oblation is performed with the formula Pragâpataye svâhâ. The discussions of Nârâyana on this Sûtra (see p. 125 of the German edition) evidently fail to bring out the true meaning of the text; according to this commentator the oblations follow each other in this order: the two Âgyabhâgas, the principal oblations (pradhânâhutayaḥ), the Svishakṛit, the four Mahâvyâhṛti oblations, the two Sarvaprâyaścitta oblations, the Pragâpatya oblation. Finally we may mention the corrupt form in which the corresponding passage of the Sâmbavya-sûtra is pre-

13. If the oblation consists in Āgya, let him seize the Kusa blades in his left hand with his right hand at their points and with the left at their roots, and let him wet their points (with Āgya) in the Sruva, the middle and the roots in the Āgya pot;

14. In the oblations of cooked food, however, the points in the Sruva, the middle in the Sruva, the roots in the Āgya pot.

15. When he then has thrown them (into the fire) with the words, 'Agni's garment art thou,'

16. And has put on (the fire) three pieces of wood,

17. (Water) is sprinkled round (the fire) as stated above.

18. Oblations for which only the deities are indicated, but no texts prescribed, are to be made merely with the word SVĀHĀ, 'To such and such a deity svāhā! To such and such a deity svāhā!'

19. The ritual (here) declared of the sacrifice (to served in the MS. There the two Sūtras 10 and 11 are placed before the Mantra in Sūtra 9. This Mantra then is given down to svāheti, then follows āgyena, which seems to me to form part of the same Sūtra, and to refer to the oblations to which the Mantra belongs. Then the MS. goes on: mahāvyaḥṛtiśhu sarvaprayaskittāram (sic) etad āvāpasthānam āgyahaviṣi vyāhṛtiśhu sarvaprayaskittāram (the syllables prayaskittāram seem to be expunged) svishṭakṛito sthālīpāke. In the commentary I find the following Slokas, which I give exactly as they are read in the MS.: tīrtinām vyāhṛtinām ka prayaskittāhutir api yad antaram tad āpāpasthānam sarpiṇpradhānake. sthālīpāke vyāhṛtinām yat tat svishṭakṛitottaram śhutinām pradhānānam nānādaivataḥḥandasām yas tu kālas tad āvāpasthānam itākyate budhaiḥ tatas tat tam ma ārabhya prayaskittāhutiḥ kramāt.

17. See above, chap. 8, 17.

19. This Sūtra, though reckoned in the Indian tradition to be performed) when (the father's) assent (to give away his daughter) has been declared—

KHANDA 10.

1. Forms the standard for all sacrifices that procure happiness,
2. And for all Āgya offerings,
3. For the sacrifice of animals which are tied to a branch,
4. And for the offerings of boiled (rice) grains and of cooked food.
5. These are performed, all the offerings of cooked food, without PRAYĀGA and ANUYĀGA oblations, without (the invocation of) the ILĀ, without NIGADA recitation, and without SĀMIDHENĪ verses.
6. There are also the following Ślokas :

chap. 9, seems to me clearly to belong to the next chapter, and to contain the subject, to which the predicate is given in 10, 1. For pratisrute, see chap. 7, 1.

10, 1. 'As in the Srauta ritual the sacrifice of the full and new moon forms the standard for the ishās, the parubandha, &c., thus the pratisrut-kalpa is the standard for the vikṛtis of the Smārta ritual, such as the gātakarman (chap. 24), &c.' Nārāyaṇa.

3. 'It is the standard of the sacrifices prescribed in the rules, "The animal (offered) to the teacher is sacred to Agni; to an officiating priest, to Bṛihaspati, &c." ' Nārāyaṇa. This refers to the sacrifice of animals which forms part of the Arghya ceremony; see II, 15. 4 seq.

4. Karūṇām pākayagñānām ka. Nārāyaṇa.

5. On the five Prayāgas and the three Anuyāgas (introductory oblations and oblations following on the principal offerings) prescribed in the Srauta ritual, comp. Hillebrandt's Neu- und Vollmondsopfer, pp. 94 seq.; 134 seq. On the ILĀ, see ibid., 122 seq.; on nigada, Weber's Ind. Studien, IX, 217, &c.; on the Sāmidhenī verses, Hillebrandt, loc. cit., pp. 74 seq. On this Sūtra compare also the passage in Kātyāyana's Srauta-sūtra, VI, 10, 22 seq.

7. '(An oblation is called) HUTA, (if made) by the performing of the Agnihotra; AHUTA (i.e. unsacrificed, if) by the Bali offering; PRAHUTA (i.e. sacrificed up, if) by a sacrifice to the Manes; PRĀSITA (i.e. tasted, if) deposited as an offering in a Brāhmaṇa.

8. 'Without raising his knees, with spread knees let him always offer his oblation; for the gods never accept an offering (that has been made holding the hand) not between (the knees).

9. 'But when he has repeated a text sacred to Rudra, to the Rakshas, to the Manes, to the Asuras, or that contains an imprecation, let him touch water, and so also when he has touched his own body.'

KHANDA 11.

1. Now when the bride is to be carried away (to the bridegroom's house) that night, or on the next, or on the third night,

2. On that night, when (the darkness of) night is gone, they wash the girl up to her head with (water that has been made fragrant by) all sorts of herbs and the choicest fruits together with scents;

7. Comp. chap. 5, 1.

8. Comp. the Gṛhya-saṃgraha-pariśiṣṭa I, 46, and the note, Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenl. Gesellschaft, XXXV, 556. Nārāyaṇa: dakṣiṇam bāhum gānvor antare kṛtvety arthaḥ, sarvadā sarvasmīn api karmaṇi havir homadrayam guhuyāt.

9. This verse is found also in the Karmapradīpa III, 8, 4.

11, 1. The ceremony described in this chapter is called Indrāṇī-karman. The goddess Indrāṇī is mentioned in Sūtra 4 among the deities to whom Āgnyā oblations are made.

* 2. Nirākāle, nirā madhyastham praharadvayam, tasmin kāle atīte. Nārāyaṇa.

On the anvārambha, comp. Weber's Indische Studien, IX, 224.

3. They put on her a newly-dyed garment or (a new one) which has not yet been washed ;

4. Then (the Âtârya of the bride's family) makes the girl sit down behind the fire, and while she takes hold of him he sacrifices with the Mahâvyâhritis, and then he makes Âgya oblations to Agni, to Soma, to Pragâpati, to Mitra, to Varuna, to Indra, to Indrânt, to the Gandharva, to Bhaga, to Pûshan, to Tvashar, to Brîhaspati, to the king Pratyântika.

5. After they have regaled four or eight women, who are not widows, with lumps of vegetables, Surâ, and food, these should perform a dance four times.

6. The same deities (they worship also) on behalf of the man,

7. And Vaisravana and Îsâna.

8. Then follows the distribution of food to Brâhmanas.

KHANDA 12.

1. The bridegroom, who has bathed and for whom auspicious ceremonies have been performed, is escorted by happy young women, who are not widows, to the girl's house.

2. To these he shall not behave unobsequiously, except where forbidden food or a transgression is concerned.

3. Having obtained their permission, he then gives her the garment with (the verse), 'The Raibht was' (Rig-veda X, 85, 6).

4. The 'king Pratyântika' has given origin to a very curious misunderstanding in the Sâmbavya-Grîhya and its commentary; see p. 127 of the German edition.

✓ 4. With (the verse), 'Mind was the cushion' (ibid. 7) he takes up the salve-box.

5. The verse for the anointing is, 'May the Visve devās anoint (or, unite),' (ibid. 47.)

6. 'As this (has protected) Sañt the beloved one, and Aditi the mother of noble sons, and Apālā who was free from widowhood, may it thus here protect thee, N. N.!'—with these words (the bridegroom) gives her into her right hand the quill of a porcupine (and) a string of three twisted threads,

✓ 7. With the verse, 'Shape by shape' (Rig-veda VI, 47, 18) a mirror into the left.

8. Her relations tie (to her body) a red and black, woollen or linen cord with three (amulet) gems, with the verse, 'Dark-blue and red' (Rig-veda X, 85, 28).

✓ 9. With the verse, 'Full of honey the herbs' (Rig-veda IV, 57, 3), (the bridegroom) ties (to her body) Madhūka flowers.

12, 5. On the ceremony of 'salving together' (samañgana), comp. Pāraskara I, 4, 14; Gobhila II, 2, &c. Professor Stenzler is certainly wrong in translating Pāraskara's samañgayati by 'heisst sie beide zusammentreten' (according to Gayarāma's explanation, sammukhikaroti). It is clear from Sāṅkhāyana, that a real anointing of bridegroom and bride took place. This was performed, according to Gobhila, by the 'audaka' (this seems to be the same person that is mentioned in Pāraskara I, 8, 3), of whom it is said, pānigrāham (i. e. the bridegroom) mārhdadese 'vasiñkati, tathetarām. Nārāyana, on the contrary, in his note on our passage, says that it is the bridegroom who anoints the eyes of the girl with the verse quoted. But the word sam-añgana, and the obvious meaning of the whole rite, make it rather probable that both were anointed, and that this was done by a third person.

6. Comp. below, chap. 22, 8, where the use of a porcupine's quill is prescribed at the śimantonnayana ceremony, and see chap. 22, 10.

10. At the wedding one cow, when the Argha ceremony has been performed; in the house one cow: these are the two Madhuparka cows.

11. (The bridegroom) makes the girl sit down behind the fire, and while she takes hold of him he makes three oblations with the Mahāvyaḥritis.

10. As to the meaning of arhayitvā I differ from the opinion of Nārāyaṇa (see his note on p. 127 of the German edition), who takes gām as the object of this verb (gām arhayitvā pūgayitvā mātā rudrānām ity rikam gapitvā [comp. Pāraskara I, 3, 27]). The real meaning of arhayati is, to perform the Agha ceremony for a guest. Evidently in this Sūtra two different occasions are stated on which the Argha reception, eventually with the killing of a cow, should be performed; firstly, the bridegroom should be so received in the house of the bride's father; secondly, when the newly-married people have arrived at their own house, an Argha reception should there be offered to them, perhaps, as the commentaries state, by the Ātārya.

11. According to Nārāyaṇa it is the Ātārya who performs the rite prescribed in this Sūtra; Rāmakaṇḍa, on the contrary, refers it to the bridegroom, which seems to me right. Comp. Gobhila II, 1.

In Sāṅkhāyana's description of the wedding ceremonies the point at which the bride passes over from the paternal power into that of her new husband is not expressly indicated. Pāraskara (I, 4, 15) clearly indicates it (pitṛā prauṣṭhā ādāya), and in the Parisiṣṭa of the Āśvalāyana-Grhya this act of handing over the girl is treated of in detail (I, 22). On this depends the description in the Prayogaratna, fol. 69; comp. also Colebrooke's Miscell. Essays, I, 210. The Paddhati of Rāmacandra does not fail to mention the kanyāpradāna, but I do not think that the succession of the different rites is stated there correctly. According to the Paddhati the bridegroom goes to the house of the girl's father, and there, after the madhuparka has been offered, the bride is given over to him; he then (labdhavedhūkaḥ) goes (chap. 12, 1), accompanied by young women, to the kautukāgāra, where the ceremonies described in chap. 12, 3 seq. take place. Pāraskara, on the contrary, describes the handing over of the garments, the anointing, &c., as preceding the giving over of the girl, and indeed it is scarcely possible to see in the acts of dressing, adorning the girl, &c., in what he is the bridegroom and her relations

12. A fourth (oblation) with (the three Mahāvya-hritis) together is to be understood from this rule.

13. In this way, where no express rule is stated, in all sacrifices that procure happiness, one is to sacrifice before and afterwards with these same (Mahāvyaḥritis).

KHANDA 13.

1. 'Be queen with thy father-in-law,' with this verse (Rig-veda X, 85, 46) her father or brother sacrifices with a sword's point on her head, or with the Sruva, standing while she is sitting, with his face turned to the west, while her face is turned to the east.

2. 'I seize thy hand for the sake of happiness' (Rig-veda X, 85, 36), with these words (the bridegroom) seizes with his right hand her right hand with the thumb, both hands being turned with the palms upwards, he standing while she is sitting, with his face turned to the west, while her face is turned to the east.

3. And when he has murmured the following five verses,

4. (He continues thus,) 'This am I, that art thou; take part, anything but preparatory performances that precede the decisive moment. The sacrifice, on the contrary, which the bridegroom performs, according to chap. 12, 11, in common with his bride, seems to presuppose that he has already received her from her father; and the ceremonies described in chap. 13, the pânigrahana, the pronouncing of the Mantra, chap. 13, 4, which reminds one of the Roman formula ubi tu Gaius, the seven steps—all that should be understood not as intended to establish the power of the husband over his wife, but as presupposing that power and showing an exercise of it.

• 1. Nārāyaṇa states that here four Brāhmanas should repeat that art thou, this am I ; the heaven I, the earth thou; the Rik art thou, the Sāman I. So be thou devoted to me.

‘Well! Let us here marry. Let us beget offspring. Let us acquire many sons who may reach old age.’

5. (The Ācārya) fills, with the words bhūṛ bhuvāḥ svaḥ, a new water-pot,

6. Throws into it (branches) with milky sap and leaves, of a tree the name of which is masculine, together with Kusa grass,

7. And gold, according to some (teachers),

8. And hands it over to a student who observes silence.

9. They should walk round this Stheyā water, (placed) to the north-east, so that they turn their right sides towards it.

the Sūryā hymn (Rig-veda X, 85) to the bride. That, according to Sāṅkhāyana, that hymn is recited at the wedding, is clear from chap. 14, 12.

6. Sakshīrānt sapalāśānt sakurān. Nārāyaṇa’s commentary divides sa kurān, and refers sa to the ācārya. But this sa would be superfluous, and the substantive to which sakshīrān and sapalāśān are to be referred, is, as both the nature of the case and the corresponding passages show, sākhlān and not kurān. Comp. the Stautā-sūtra IV, 17, 5: palāśasākhlām sapalāśām nikhāya, and a passage concerning the very rite here described, Āśvalāyana-pariśiṣṭa I, 24. audumbaryāddhayā (read, ādrayā?) sākhayā sapalāśayā sahiranyapavitrayā sadūrvāpavitrayā. The MS. of the Sāmbavya-sūtra has sakshīrān palāśān sakurān.

9. ‘The Stheyā water has to be so placed that when the bride and the bridegroom walk (their seven steps, see chap. 14, 5 seq.), their right sides are turned towards it.’ Nārāyaṇa. Comp., regarding the Stheyā water and its bearer, the Grīhya-samgraha-pariśiṣṭa II, 26. 30. 35.

10. And after (the Ājārya) has placed a stone towards the northern direction,

11. (The bridegroom) makes her rise with the words, 'Come, thou joyful one,'

12. And makes her tread with the tip of her right foot on the stone, with the words, 'Come, tread on the stone; like a stone be firm. Tread the foes down; overcome the enemies.'

13. He then leads her round the fire so that their right sides are turned to it,

14. And gives her a second garment with the same text (chap. 12, § 3).

15. Her father or brother pours out of a basket fried grain mixed with Samī leaves into her joined hands.

16. The spreading under, the sprinkling over, and the second sprinkling over (are done) with Āgya.

17. She sacrifices those (fried grains).

KHANDA 14.

1. 'This woman, strewing grains, prays thus, "May I bring bliss to my relations; may my husband live long. Svāhā!"'—while the husband murmurs (this) text, she sacrifices standing.

2. (All the ceremonies,) beginning from the tread-

17. I believe that the words forming this Sūtra, tāṅ guhoti, are taken from the same lost old Gṛ̥hya text which Sāṅkhāyana has followed word for word also in I, 5, 1-5 and elsewhere. This is made probable by the comparison of Pāraskara I, 6, 2. The author of our text, while literally adopting the words of his original, has not quite succeeded in welding them together with his own statements; thus the sacrifice of grains is treated of in this Sūtra and in the first Sūtra of the next chapter, as if there were two different acts, while indeed it is one and the same.

14, 2. The treading on the stone is prescribed in chap. 13, 12.

ing upon the stone, (are repeated) in the same way for a second time,

3. And in the same way a third time.

4. Silently, if they like, a fourth time.

5. (The Ātārya?) makes (them) step forward in a north-eastern direction seven steps (with the words),

6. 'For sap with one step, for juice with two steps, for the prospering of wealth with three steps, for comfort with four steps, for cattle with five steps, for the seasons with six steps. Friend be with seven steps.'

7. (The Ātārya?) 'appeases' those (foot-steps) with water.

8. With the three Āpohishṭṭiā verses (Rig-veda X, 9, 1-3) he wipes (them) with the Stheyā water,

9. And sprinkles it on their heads.

10. (The bridegroom then) says, 'I give you a cow.'

11. Let him give something to the Brāhmanas each time at the Sthālpākas and other rites;

12. To him who knows the Sūryā hymn the bride's shift.

5, 7. According to Nārāyaṇa it is the teacher who makes them walk the seven steps; the Paddhati says that the bridegroom or the Ātārya causes her to do so. Comp. Pāraskara I, 8, 1; Āvalāyana I, 7, 19, &c.

8. Comp. chap. 13, 9.

9. Probably we should read mūrdhanī (acc. dual.), not mūrdhani. Āvalāyana has sirasī. Of course the heads of both the bridegroom and the bride were sprinkled with water; comp. Āvalāyana I, 7, 20, &c.

12. The Sūryā hymn is Rig-veda X, 85. Comp. the note above on chap. 13, 4.

13. A cow is the optional gift to be given by a Brāhmaṇa,

14. A village by a Rājanya,

15. A horse by a Vaisya.

16. A hundred (cows) with a chariot (he gives to a father) who has only daughters.

17. To those versed in the 'sacrificial rites he gives a horse.

KHANDA 15.

1. The three verses, 'I loosen thee' (Rig-veda X, 85, 24), when she departs from the house.

2. 'The living one they bewail' (Rig-veda X, 40, 10), if she begins to cry.

3. The wife then smears the axle of the chariot with clarified butter with this (verse), 'They feasted, they got drunk' (Rig-veda I, 82, 2), 13-15. These Sūtras, treating of the fee for the sacrifice, are identical with Pāraskara I, 8, 15-18. Apparently they are taken from the same lost original from which several identical passages in the Sūtras of Pāraskara and Sāṅkhāyana seem to be derived (see the notes on chap. 5, 1; 13, 7). They stand rather out of place here, for they return to the same subject which had already been treated of in Sūtra 10, though in that Sūtra, as very frequently is the case in our text and in similar ones, only the case of the bridegroom being a Brāhmaṇa has been taken notice of.

16. Comp. the passages quoted by Professor Stenzler on Pāraskara I, 8, 18. Nārāyaṇa has the following note: 'To a duhitṛmat, i. e. to the father of a girl who has no brother, he shall give a hundred cows and besides a chariot, in order to destroy the guilt brought about by marrying a girl who has no brother.' Possibly we should here emancipate ourselves from the authority of the commentators, and explain duhitṛmat 'he who gives his daughter in marriage,' the bride's father. Comp. Āpastamba II, 11, 18; II, 13, 12; Weber, Indische Studien, V, 343, note 2.

15, 3. Probably the use of this verse on this occasion rests on the assonance of its opening word akṣhaṇ and akṣha (rathākṣha).

4. And with the two (verses), 'Pure are thy wheels,' 'Thy two wheels' (Rig-veda X, 85, 12. 16), of the two wheels the first with the first (verse) and the second with the second (verse),

5. And the two bulls.

6. After (the wife?) has put, with this (verse), 'In the box of the wheel' (Rig-veda VIII, 80, 7), a branch of a fruit-bearing tree into each of the holes destined for the pins,

7. Or, if (such branches) are (already) fixed, has recited (that verse) over them,

8. They then harness the two bulls with the two (verses), 'Harnessed be thy right one' (Rig-veda I, 82, 5-6), (the bridegroom) reciting the half-verse, 'White the two bulls' (Rig-veda X, 85, 10), over them when they have been harnessed.

9. Now should any part of the chariot break or burst, let him take the girl to the house of one who keeps the sacred fires,

10. And repair (the damage) with the verse, 'Cover thyself with the Khadiras' (Rig-veda III, 53, 19).

11. A knot with the verse, 'Him like a horse' (Rig-veda X, 143, 2).

12. He then murmurs the five verses, 'May prosperity give us' (Rig-veda V, 51, 11-15).

13. 'Adorned with Kimsuka flowers' (Rig-veda X, 85, 20), when she mounts the chariot;

14. 'May no waylayers meet us' (ibid. 32), at a cross-way;

15. 'Which the woman's' (ibid. 31), near a cemetery;

16. The half-verse, 'O tree with thy hundred

6. See Nārāyaṇa's note on samyāgarta, p. 129 of the German edition.

branches' (Rig-veda III, 8, 11), he mutters near a big tree; .

17. 'The good protectress' (Rig-veda X, 63, 10), when she ascends a ship;

18. 'Carrying stones' (Rig-veda X, 53, 8), when she crosses a river;

19. Optionally (he) also (murmurs the same verse, if that is done) with the harnessed chariot;

20. 'Up may your wave' (Rig-veda III, 33, 13), at deep places (in the river);

21. And (at such places) let her not look out.

22. The seven verses, 'Here may delight' (Rig-veda X, 85, 27 seq.), when she has reached the house, omitting the verses already employed.

KHANDA 16.

1. 'A bull's hide'—this has been declared.

2. On that hide the husband makes her sit down and sacrifices, while she takes hold of him, four oblations (with the following formulas),

3. 'With god Agni, with the earth-world of the worlds, and the Rig-veda of the Vedas: therewith I appease thee, N. N., svâhâ!

'With god Vâyu, with the air-world of the worlds,

16, 1. In chap. 15, 22 it is said that the bride arrives at the house; in 16, 12, that she enters the house. Probably we are to understand, therefore, that the sacrifice prescribed in this chapter, Sûtras 2 seq., is performed before the house, like the Vâstosh-pattya karman (below, III, 4). The words, 'has been declared,' refer to the Śrauta-sûtra (IV, 16, 2), 'Having spread a red bull's skin, with the neck to the north or to the east, with the hair outside, behind the fire, they sit down,' &c.

2. On anvârambha comp. the quotation in the note on chap. 11, 2.

with the Yagur-veda of the Vedas : therewith I appease thee, N. N., svâhâ !

'With god Sūrya, with the heaven-world of the worlds, with the Sâma-veda of the Vedas : therewith I appease thee, N. N., svâhâ !

'With god Kandra, with the world of the quarters (of the horizon) of the worlds, with the Brahma-veda of the Vedas : therewith I appease thee, N. N., svâhâ !'

4. Or, 'Bhû! What harm dwells in thee, bringing death to thy husband, death to thy husband's brother, that I make death-bringing to thy paramour, N. N., svâhâ!'—thus the first (of the before-mentioned formulas) may be joined with the first Mahâvyâhṛiti, the second with the second, the third with the third, the fourth with (the three Mahâvyâhṛitis) together.

5. With (the verse), 'With no evil eye' (Rig-veda X, 85, 44), let him besmear (her) eyes with Āgya salve.

6. (The bridegroom,) having touched the ends of her hair with the three (verses), 'How may us the resplendent one . . .' (Rig-veda IV, 31, 1-3),

7. And having quickly recited the four verses, 'And those divine medicines' (Rig-veda VIII, 18, 8), at the end (of that text) with the word svâhâ (pours out) the remainder on (her) head.

8. Here some place a boy of good birth on both sides, in her lap, with this (verse), 'Into thy womb' (see below, chap. 19, 6),

8. It should be noted that the verse â te yonim is quoted here only with the Pratîka, while its full text is given below, chap. 19, 6. Can the Sûtras describing this ceremony with the kumâra ubhaya-taṅ-sugâta be a later addition ?

9. Or also silently.

10. Into this (boy's) joined hands (the bridegroom) gives fruits and causes (the Brāhmaṇas) to wish an auspicious day.

11. Thus she becomes the mother of male children.

12. With the rest of the hymn, 'Stay ye here both' (Rig-veda X, 85, 42 seq.), they make them enter the house.

KHANDA 17.

1. With the verse, 'I praised Dadhikrāvan' (Rig-veda IV, 39, 6), let them drink together curds.

2. Let them sit silent, when the sun has set, until the polar-star appears.

3. He shows her the polar-star with the words, 'Firm be thou, thriving with me!'

4. Let her say, 'I see the polar-star; may I obtain offspring.'

5. Through a period of three nights let them refrain from conjugal intercourse.

6. Let them sleep on the ground.

'To god Varuṇa the girls have made sacrifice, to Agni; may he, god Varuṇa, &c.

'To god Pūshan the girls have made sacrifice, to Agni; may he, god Pūshan, &c.'

20, 3. On suṅgā compare the note of Nārāyaṇa and the verse quoted from the Karmapaddīpa, p. 131 of the German edition.

On kusakan/aka Nārāyaṇa says, kusakan/akam kuso darbhās tasya kan/akāḥ sūkī (sūka, MS. Berol. Orient. fol. 602) tām vā peshayitvā. I do not understand why the commentators of Pāraskara, whom Professor Stenzler has followed in his translation of Pār. I, 14, 4, make kan/aka equal to mūla.

8. (The husband then) parts her hair, upwards, beginning from the middle, with a porcupine's quill that has three white spots, or with a Darbha needle together with unripe Udumbara fruits, with the words, 'Bhūr bhuvaḥ svaḥ.'

9. He lays down (the thing he has used) in her lap,

10. Ties (the fruits) to a string of three twisted threads and fastens them to her neck with the words, 'Rich in sap is this tree; like the sappy one be thou fruitful.'

11. (The husband) then says to lute-players, 'Sing ye the king—

10. Nārāyaṇa: tisrībhis tantubhir vṛtite sūtre udumbaraphalāni . . . gale . . . badhnāti. I have translated accordingly. Pāraskara I, 15, 6 uses the same expression trivṛit. Professor Stenzler there translates it, on the authority of Gayarāma, 'dreifache Haarflechte,' and says in his note on that passage that, according to Sāṅkhāyana, he would have to tie the things with a threefold string to the neck of the woman, as if Sāṅkhāyana's statement were different from that of Pāraskara. But both authors have the same word, and only the commentators differ in their explanations thereof.

11. Āśvalāyana more explicitly says (I, 14, 6), Soinam rāgānam samgāyetām iti.

13. In my German translation there is a mistake which should be corrected. I have there referred shalrīka to the verses Rākām

'May Vishnu take care of thy womb,' 'I call Râkâ' (Rig-weda X, 184, 1; II, 32, 4-8).

14. Let him then touch her (with the words),

ADHYĀYA II, KĪṆANDA 1.

1. In the eighth year after the conception 'let him initiate a Brāhmaṇa,
2. With an antelope-skin,

1, 1. With regard to the standing terminology of the Upanayana, or the initiation of the student, we may observe that upa-nī does not mean, as, for instance, Professor Stenzler seems to understand it, 'to introduce a student to his teacher.' Thus Pāṇskara's Sūtra II, 2, 1, ashvavarshaṃ brāhmaṇam upanayet, &c., is translated by that distinguished scholar, 'Den achtjährigen Brāhmaṇa soll er (beim Lehrer) einführen,' &c. (comp. also Āśvalāyana-Grīhya I, 19, 1). The texts clearly point to another translation of upa-nī, for they show that the person that introduces the student (upanayati or upanayate; the middle is used very frequently, for instance, Satapatha Brāhmaṇa XI, 5, 4, 1, Sāṅkh. II, 1, 25) is not the father or a relation of the youth who could be supposed to lead him to the teacher, but the teacher himself; he introduces (upanayati) him to the brahmaṇyā, or introduces him with himself, and the student enters upon (upaīti) the brahmaṇyā, or enters with (upaīti) the teacher; he who has thus entered upon studentship, is consequently designated as upeta (Sāṅkh. IV, 8, 1, Pāraskara III, 10, 10), and for the initiation, which is usually called upanayana, occasionally also the word upāyana is used (see the Mānava-Grīhya I, 22, quoted by Professor Jolly in his article, Das Dharmasūtra des Vishnu, p. 79). The following passages may be quoted here as supporting our opinion on this terminology. At Satapatha Brāhmaṇa XI, 5, 3, 13 Saukeya says to Uddālaka Āruṇi, 'I will enter (as a student) with the reverend One' (upāyāmi bhāgavantam); and Āruṇi replies, 'Come, enter (with me)!' (ehy upehi), 'and he initiated him' (tam hopaninye). Ibid. XI, 5, 4, 16 it is stated that according to some a teacher who has initiated a Brāhmaṇa as a student (brāhmaṇam brahmaṇyam upaītiya) should abstain from sexual intercourse, for a student who enters upon studentship (yo brahmaṇyam upaīti) becomes, as it were, a garbha, &c. Finally we may add that the Buddhist terminology regarding the entering into the order or upon a life of righteousness is clearly connected with that followed, for instance, in the dialogue between

7. Until the twenty-second for a Kshatriya,
8. Until the twenty-fourth for a Vaisya.
9. After that (time has passed), they become patitasāvitrika (men who have lost their right of learning the Sāvitrī).

Saukeya and Āruṇi. As Saukeya there says, upāyāni bhagavantam, we frequently read in the Pāli books expressions like this, upemi Buddhāṃ saraṇaṃ dhammaṃ kappi anuttaraṃ, &c. (Dhammap. Atthakathā, p. 97, ed. Fausbøll), and as Āruṇi replies, ehi upehi, Buddha says to those who wish to be ordained, ehi bhikkhu, svākkhāto dhammo, kara brahmacariyaṃ, &c. (Mahāvagga I, 6, 32, &c.; S. B. E., vol. xiii, p. 74, note).

The counting of the years not from the birth but from the conception occurs both in the Brahmanical and in the Buddhist ordinances, comp. H. O., Buddha, sein Leben, seine Lehre, seine Gemeinde, p. 354, note 1. Several Gr̥hya texts (for instance, Āsv. I, 19, 1. 2) admit both ways of counting the years. The number of years given for the Upanayana of persons of the three castes (Brāhmaṇas 8-16, Kshatriyas 11-22, Vaisyas 12-24) is evidently derived from the number of syllables of the three metres which are so very frequently stated to correspond to the three castes, to the three gods or categories of gods (Agni, Indra, Virve devās) &c., viz. the Gāyatrī, the Trishubh, and the Gagatī. This is a very curious example, showing how in India phantastical speculations like those regarding the mystical qualities of the metres, were strong enough to influence the customs and institutions of real life.

9 seq. All these are standing expressions recurring nearly identically in most of the Gr̥hya and Dharma-sūtras. In the rule contained in Sūtra 13 a number of the parallel texts have vivah-eyuḥ or vivāhayeyuḥ, others have vyavahareyuḥ. Comp. Vasishṭha XI, 75; Indische Studien, vol. x, p. 21.

14. Or (let them initiate students of) all (castes) wearing a (new) garment that has not yet been washed.

And wearing a girdle.

15. The girdle of a Brâhmana (shall be) made of Muṇḍa grass,

16. That of a Kshatriya (shall be) a bowstring,
17. That of a Vaisya a woollen thread.
18. The staff of a Brâhmana (shall be) made of Palâsa or of Bilva wood,
19. That of a Kshatriya of Nyagrodha wood,
20. That of a Vaisya of Udumbara wood.
21. That of the Brâhmana shall reach the tip of the nose,
22. That of the Kshatriya the forehead,
23. That of the Vaisya the hair.
24. Or all (sorts of staffs are to be used) by (men of) all (castes).
25. Whatsoever (the student) wears at his initiation, is at the disposal of the teacher.

14. This Sûtra should rather be divided into two, as indicated in the translation. As to the mekhalâ (girdle) comp. below, chap. 2, 1.

21. There is no doubt that piâṇasammito (which Nârâyaṇa explains thus, 'piâṇa is the wind [or breath]; [the staff should] reach to the place where the wind leaves the body, i. e. to the tip of the nose') should either be corrected into, or explained as, ghrâṇasammito; the Sâmbavya MS. has ghrâṇântiko brâhmanasya. Comp. Gautama I, 26, &c. The parallel texts agree in assigning the longer staff to the higher, not as Sâṅkhâyaṇa does, to the lower caste.

26. Having had him shaved all round (his head) he should initiate him.

27. After (the student) has washed and adorned himself,

28. (And) after (the teacher) has sacrificed, both station themselves behind the fire, the teacher with his face turned to the east, the other with his face to the west.

29. Let him initiate him standing while (the other also) stands.

30. ['The firm, powerful eye of Mitra, glorious splendour, strong and prosperous, a chaste, flowing vesture, this skin I put on, a valiant (man).']

KHANDA 2.

✓ 1. 'Here has come to us, protecting (us) from evil words, purifying our kin as a purifier, clothing herself, by (the power of) inhalation and exhalation, with strength; this friendly goddess, this blessed girdle'—with these words, three times repeated, he ties the girdle from left to right thrice round.

26. After the introductory remarks given in the preceding Sūtras the ritual itself of the Upanayana is now described.

28. Nārāyaṇa : hutvā 'nādesaparibhāshātaḥ (see above, I, 12, 13) purastātsamgñakam hutvā agnim sthāpitāgnim (see above, I, 5, 2) gaghanena . . . tishṭhataḥ.

30. This Sūtra is wanting in most of the MSS. (see the note, p. 48 of the German edition). It contains the Mantra with which the Agina (the hide mentioned in Sūtras 2, 4, 5 of this chapter) is put on. Nārāyaṇa gives the Mantra which he says is taken from the Mādhyandina-Gr̥hya (in the Pāraskara-Gr̥hya it is not found), after chap. 2, 3, and he states that the corresponding act to which it belongs has its place after the rites concerning the girdle (chap. 2, 1) and the sacrificial cord (2, 3).

2. (There should be) one knot, or also three, or also five.

3. He adjusts the sacrificial cord with (the words), 'The sacrificial cord art thou. With the cord of the sacrifice I invest thee.'

4. He fills the two hollows of (his own and the student's) joined hands (with water), and then says to him: 'What is thy name?'

5. 'I am N. N., sir,' says the other.

6. 'Descending from the same R̥ishis? ' says the teacher.

7. 'Descending from the same R̥ishis, sir,' says the other.

2, 2. Rāmañandra: 'Let him make one, or three, or five knots, according to (the student's) Ārsheya,' i. e. accordingly as he belongs to a family that invokes, in the Pravara ceremony, one, or three, or five R̥ishis as their ancestors. Comp Weber, Indische Studien, vol x, p. 79.

3. On the sacrificial cord (upavīta) comp. the Gr̥hya-saṃgraha-pariśiṣṭa II, 48 seq.

4. Nārāyaṇa: Ātmanyā ātmano mānavakasya kṣāṇigant udakena pūrayitvā, &c.

6, 7. A similar dialogue between the teacher and the student at the Upanayana is given in the Kausika-sūtra (ap. Weber, Indische Studien, X, 71). The student there says, 'Make me an Ārsheya (a descendant of the R̥ishis) and one who has relations, and initiate me.' And the teacher replies, 'I make thee an Ārsheya and one who has relations, and I initiate thee.' As in this passage of the Kausika-sūtra the teacher is represented as having the power of making, by the Upanayana ceremony, an Ārsheya of the student, thus, according to the view expressed by Professor Weber (loc. cit., p. 72 seq.), Sāṅkhāyana would even give it into the teacher's power to make the student his saṃānārsheya, i. e. to extend his own Ārsheya on as many pupils as he likes. Professor Weber understands the sixth Sūtra so that the teacher would have to say, saṃānārsheyo bhavān brūhi (Nārāyaṇa: bhavān brūhīti brahmaṣārī bhavān brūhīty ataḥ [Sūtra 8] siṃhāvalokananyā-yenātrānushagayate. According to Rāmañandra's Paddhati he is

8. 'Declare (that thou art) a student, sir.'

9. 'I am a student, sir,' says the other.

10. With the words, 'Bhûr bhuvah svaḥ' (the teacher) sprinkles thrice with his joined hands (water) on the joined hands (of the student),

11. And seizing (the student's) hands with (his own) hands, holding the right uppermost, he murmurs,

12. 'By the impulse of the god Savitar, with the arms of the two Asvins, with Pûshan's hands I initiate thee, N. N.'

13. Those who are desirous of a host (of adherents, he should initiate) will (the verse), 'Thee, (the lord) of hosts' (Rig-veda II, 23, 1).

14. Warriors with (the verse), 'Come here, do not come to harm' (Rig-veda VIII, 20, 1).

only to say samânârsheyaḥ). The student answers, samânârsheyo 'ham bho; Professor Weber, who supplies the imperative asâni, translates this, 'May I have the same Ârsheya, sir'

I think it more natural to simply translate the teacher's question, 'Art thou samânârsheya?' (or, supplying bhavân brâhi from Sûtra 8, 'Declare that thou art samânârsheya'), and the student's reply, 'I am samânârsheya, sir!' Thus we ought possibly to consider these formulas, which state a fictitious, ideal samânârsheyaṭva of the teacher and the students as a trace, and as far as I can see as the only trace, of an ancient rule requiring a real samânârsheyaṭva of teacher and student. As long as the ritual differences between the different Gotras, of which, as is well known, only a few traces have survived in the Vedic tradition, had retained their full importance, it can indeed scarcely have been considered as admissible that a young Brâhmaṇa should be confided to the guidance of a teacher who sacrificed and invoked the gods in another way than the customs of the pupil's own family required.

KHANDA 3.

1. 'Bhaga has seized thy hand, Savitar has seized thy hand, Pūshan has seized thy hand, Aryaman has seized thy hand. Mitra art thou by right, Agni is thy teacher, and I, N. N., both of us. Agni, I give this student in charge to thee. Indra, I give this student in charge to thee. Sun, I give this student in charge to thee. Visve devās, I give this student in charge to you, for the sake of long life, of blessed offspring and strength, of increase of wealth, of mastership of all Vedas, of renown, of bliss.'

2. 'In Indra's course I move; in the sun's course I move after him'—with these words he turns round from left to right,

3. And grasping down with the span of his right hand over (the student's) right shoulder he touches the place of his heart with the words, 'May I be dear to thy inviolate heart.'

3, 1. Nārāyaṇa: 'Instead of asau (N. N.) he puts the name of the student in the vocative case.' I think rather that the teacher here pronounced his own name. Comp. asāv aham bho, chap. 2, 5, &c., and the Mantra in Pātiskara II, 2, 20.

The text of the Mantra shows that the Ātārya here seizes the hand of the Brahmaṇin; comp. Ārvalāyana I, 20, 4-6, where it is stated that he seizes the student's hand together with the thumb, quite in the way prescribed for the wedding at Sāṅkh. I, 13, 2. Comp. also Pātiskara II, 2, 17. Nārāyaṇa: mānavakasya grīhita-samputa evātāryo Bhagas ta imam mantram gagan, &c.

2. Literally, 'he turns round, following his right arm.' Nārāyaṇa here has the following note, 'Ātāryo baśor dakṣiṇam bāhum hastam aindrīm āvṛtam iti mantrenānvāartayet. ayam arthak, ātārya imam mantram gaptvā tam baśum ka vākyitvā pradakṣiṇāvartam kārayet.' I believe that the commentator here, as he frequently does, instead of interpreting the text of Sāṅkhāyana, fathers

2. 'Thou art the *Brahma*śārin of Kāma, N. N. !'

3. With the same text (see chap. 3, 2) he turns round as before,

4. And touching with the span of his right hand (the student's) right shoulder, he murmurs :

on him statements belonging to other Sūtras, in this case probably to Āsvalāyana I, 20, 9. As our text has not anvāvartya but anvāvṛitya, and in the Mantra not āvartasva but āvarte, we must conclude that he turned round himself, and, as far as the statements of the text go, did not cause the pupil to do so.

5. The gesture is the same as that prescribed in the Pāraskara-Gr̥hya I, 8, 8 to the bridegroom at the wedding ; the Mantra there is identical with Sākh. II, 4, 1, the only difference consisting in the name of the god who is invoked to unite the two : at the wedding this is Piagāpati, of course, because he is 'lord of offspring,' at the Upanayana, Bṛihaspati, the Brahman kar' īṣṭya among the gods. It is very natural that at the Upanayana and at the Vivāha, which both are destined to establish an intimate union between two persons hitherto strangers to each other, a number of identical rites should occur, for instance, the seizing of the hand ; see the note on Sūtra 1.

5. 'A student art thou. Put on fuel. Eat-water. Do the service. Do not sleep in the day-time. Keep silence till the putting on of fuel.'

3. Or immediately.

4. Let him recite a Gâyatrī to a Brāhmaṇa,

5. According to Nārāyaṇa the student correspondingly answers, to the teacher's word, 'A student art thou,' 'I will' (asāni), to 'Put on fuel,' 'I will put it on,' &c. Eating water means sipping water after having eased oneself. On the putting on of fuel, comp. Sūtra 6 and chap. 10. The whole formula given in this Sūtra is already found in the Satapatha Brāhmaṇa XI, 5, 4, 5.

5, 1. The study of the Veda is opened by the Sāvitrī. Comp. Satapatha Brāhmaṇa, loc. cit., §§ 6 seq.

4-6. The Gâyatrī which the teacher shall recite to a Brāhmaṇa is the same verse of which it is said below, chap. 7, 11, that it belongs to Virvāmītra (Rig-veda III, 62, 10); the Trishṭubh which is taught to the Kshatriya is a verse ascribed to Hiraṇyastūpa, Rig-veda I, 35, 2; the Gagatī which is to be repeated to a Vaisya is Rig-veda IV, 40, 5, belonging to Vāmadeva, or Rig-veda I, 35, 9, belonging to Hiraṇyastūpa. See the note on chap. 7, 10.

the study of the Āraṇyaka the position is slightly different (VI, 3, 2). According to Nārāyaṇa this Sūtra would contain a nishedha of the Sūtras 828 and 829 of the Rig-veda-Prātisākhya (p. ccxcii of Professor Max Müller's edition).

10, 11. The Indian tradition divides these Sūtras after ākāryaś, so that the words adhīhi bho would have to be pronounced by the teacher. Thus also Nārāyaṇa explains, ākārya adhīhi bho 3 iti mānavakam uktvā, &c. In my opinion it is the student or the students who say adhīhi bho. Thus the Prātisākhya (Sūtra 831, ed. Max Müller) says, 'They invite him with the words adhīhi bho 3, all the students the teacher, having embraced his feet.' three times . . . He (the teacher) then gives him again the staff, which he had given him before silently.' I do not think that this double handing over of the staff agrees with the real meaning of the text; Gobhila also (II, 10) and Âsvalâyana (I, 22, 1) prescribe the dandapradâna after the repetition of the Sâvitri, without mentioning that the same had been already done before; Pâraskara II, 2, 11 speaks of the handing over of the staff before the recital of the Sâvitri, and does not state that it should be repeated afterwards.

All these ceremonies, the teaching of the Sâvitri as well as the dandapradâna, were considered as forming part of the Upanayana, even though a longer or shorter space of time (chap. 5, 1-3) might elapse between the first arrival of the student at the teacher's house and the performing of these rites. This follows from chap. 11, Sûtras 2-4.

7, 1. Nārāyaṇa: 'Now (atha), i.e. after the observance of the Sukriya vrata,' &c. On the Sukriya vrata which has to be undergone before the Anuvāṇa treated of in this chapter can be performed, see the note on chap. 4, 1, and below, chap. 11, 9. One would have expected that in the arrangement of Sāṅkhāyana the rites belonging to the Sukriya vrata would precede the exposition of the Anuvāṇa. Perhaps it was in consequence of the exact analogy of the Sukriya with the Sākvara, Vratika, Aupanishada vratas, that the description of the former has been postponed till the latter had to be treated of.

Rāmaśandra's Paddhati has the following remark here, 'Now the way of studying the Veda, called Anuvāṇa, is set forth. This can be done only after the Sukriya vrata has been enjoined on the student; before that nothing but the Sāvitrī can be taught to him.'

Nārāyaṇa states, in accordance with these Sūtras of the fifth chapter, that in case the student belongs to the second or third caste, an Ūha (i.e. a corresponding alteration of the formulas; from the Śtauta-sūtra, VI, 1, 3 the definition is quoted here sabdavicāram ūham bruvate) takes place. If he is a Kṣatriya, he has to say, 'Recite the Trishṭubh, sir!'—'Recite the verse of Hiranyastūpa (Rig-veda I, 35, 2), sir!' A Vaiśya has to say, 'Recite the Gaṇā, sir!'—'Recite the verse of Hiranyastūpa (or, of Vāmadeva, Rig-veda I, 35, 9 or IV, 40, 5), sir!'

17. Comp. Indische Studien, X, 132, note 1.

18. In that way, according to what Rishi each hymn belongs to and what its deity and its metre is, thus (with the corresponding indications of Rishi, &c.) let him recite each hymn;

19. Or also, if he does not know the Rishis, deities, and metres, the teacher recites this verse, 'That glorious (splendour) of Savitar' (Rig-veda III, 62, 10), pāda by pāda, hemistich by hemistich, (and finally) without a stop, and says, when he has finished, 'This (verse belongs to Savitar; it is a Gāyatrī; Viśvāmitra is its Rishi).'

18-20. I do not think that Professor Weber (Indische Studien, X, 132) has quite exactly rendered the meaning of these Sūtras when he says, 'The teacher then (i. e. after the formula of Sūtra 17 has been pronounced) teaches him first the Rishi, the deity, and the metre of each Mantra. In case he does not know them himself for a Mantra, he recites the holy Sāvitrī (tat Savitur vareṇyam). After this he teaches him in due order either (1) the single Rishis, i. e. the hymns belonging to each Rishi, or (2) the single Anuvākas,' &c.—It does not seem quite probable to me that the student should have had to learn first the Rishis, deities, and metres of the whole Veda, before the text of the hymns was taught him; I rather believe that hymn by hymn the indication of the Rishis, &c. preceded the anuvākana of the text itself, and with this opinion the statement of Nārāyaṇa agrees, 'Evam pūrvoktena prakāreṇa rishidevatākāṇḍaḥpūrvakam tam tam Agnim itā ityādikam mantram mānavakāyākāryo-nubrūyāt.'

19. According to Nārāyaṇa by esheti (literally, 'This [is the Rik]') it is meant that the teacher, after having recited the Sāvitrī in the three ways mentioned, should say to the student, 'This Rik is in the Gāyatrī metre. If recited pāda by pāda, it has three pādas. Thus also this Rik, if recited hemistich by hemistich, has two Avasānas (pauses), the first at the end of the hemistich, the second at the end of the third karana (or pāda). Thus also this Rik is recited without stopping, at the end of the three karanas, or of the twenty-four syllables, the pause (avasāna) should be made. Thus I recite to thee the Sāvitrī; I recite to thee the Gāyatrī; I recite to thee the verse of Viśvāmitra.' 'For,' adds Nārāyaṇa, 'if the Gāyatrī has been recited, the whole complex of the Veda being of that very substance, a complete knowledge thereof has been produced.' The commentator then indicates a shorter form for the teacher's words which our Sūtra prescribes by esheti, 'This verse belongs to Savitā; it is a Gāyatrī; its Rīshi is Viśvāmītra.'

21. The Kshudrasūktas are the hymns Rig-veda X, 129-191.

24 seq. This seems to be an abridged method by which students who had not the intention of becoming Vedic scholars, and probably chiefly students of the Kshatriya and Vaiśya caste, could fulfil their duty of learning the Veda; a student who knew the first and last hymn of a Rīshi, or of an Anuvāka, was, as would seem from these Sūtras, by a sort of fiction considered as though he had known the whole portion belonging to that Rīshi, or the whole Anuvāka.

27. Nārāyaṇa explains Rīshisvādhyāya by mantrasamhitā. He says, 'The Anuvākaṇa which has been declared here, is to be understood also with regard to the svādhyāya, i.e. to the Samhitā of the Mantras.' I think there is a blunder in the MS., and instead of tad api svādhyāye . . . gñeyam we ought to read tad rīshi-svādhyāye . . . gñeyam. In this case we should have to translate the quoted passage, ' . . . is to be understood with regard to the Rīshisvādhyāya, i.e. to, &c.'—I think, however, that the true meaning of the Sūtra is different from what Nārāyaṇa believes it to be. The expression vyākhyātam apparently conveys a reference to another treatise in which the rules regarding the Rīshisvādhyāya would seem to have been fully set forth. The Śrauta-sūtra contains no passage which could be the one here referred to, we may suppose, therefore, that either a chapter of a Prātisākhya is quoted here, or a separate treatise on the special subject of the R̥ṣhisvādhyāya. References to such treatises are found in the Sūtra texts in several instances, of which the most important is that in the Gobhila-Gṛhya I, 5, 13, 'On what day the moon becomes full, the knowledge thereof is contained in a special text; that one either should study or ascertain when the Parvan is from those who have studied it.'

28. Nārāyaṇa: 'First stand the Mantras, then the Brāhmaṇa, because it contains the vinīyoga (the ritual use of the Mantras), then the Smṛti texts such as Manu, &c. When he has repeated these texts to the student, after the end of the Anuvāṭana, the teacher should take from the student the Kuṣa blades which had been taken up before for the sake of the Anuvāṭana (see Sūtras 5 seq.),' &c.—The teacher is made the subject of this rule also by Rāmaṇḍia. On yathāśūktam Nārāyaṇa observes that according to some teachers these water oblations were directed to the R̥ṣhis of the different hymns (r̥ṣhīn uddīṣyeti keṇit). 4. Nârâyana: samidham iti mantralingât samidhâm homaâ, mantraprîthaktvât karmaprîthaktvam iti nyâyât

In the Atharva-veda XIX, 64, 1 the MSS. have Agne samidham âhârsham. Professors Roth and Whitney have conjectured in this passage agre instead of Agne. It is shown by our passage and the corresponding ones in the other Sâtras that the true reading is Agnaye. Instead of âhârsham we should read âhârsham, as all the parallel texts have. In the passage 'Firewood art thou; might we prosper,' there is a play upon words untranslatable in English, 'edho-sy edhishîmahî.' Perhaps instead of samiddho mâm samardhaya we should read samriddho mâm samardhaya. As the Mantra referred to the Samidh-offering, samriddha could very easily be supplanted by the participle of sam-îdh. In the parallel texts indicated p. 139 of the German edition it should be, Vâg. Samh. II, 14 a.

12, 1 seq. The Indian tradition (with the exception only, as far as is known to me, of the Sāmbavya commentary) refers the ceremonies described in this chapter, like those treated of in chap. 11, as well to the Sukriya as to the Sākvara and the other Vratas. This is not correct. The eleventh chapter gives the rites common to the four Vratas; the Sukriya vrata is connected with no special ceremonies beside those, so that the exposition of this Vrata is brought to an end in that chapter. The last Sūtra of chap. 11 marks the transition to the special rites which are peculiar to the three other Vratas, and are connected with the character of mystical secrecy attributed to the Āraṇyaka, and thus it is with the exclusion of the Sukriya that the twelfth chapter refers only to those Vratas. The difference which we have pointed out between the two chapters finds its characteristic expression in Sūtras 9 and 11 of chap. 11, compared with chap. 12, 13, 14; in the former Sūtras the statements there given are expressly extended to the Sukriya, the Sākvara, the Vrātika, and the Aupanishada, while in the latter passage mention is made first of the *Mahānāmni*s, i. e. the text corresponding to the Sākvara vrata, and then the uttarāṇi prakaraṇāni (the following sections) are referred to, i. e. the Mahāvratā and the Upanishad, so that the Sukriya vrata or the texts, the study of which is entered upon by that Vrata, are left out here.

There is a good deal of confusion in the several commentaries

2. Having sacrificed, the teacher then asks him with regard¹ to those deities to whom he has been given in charge (see above, chap. 3, 1), 'Hast thou fulfilled the duties of holiness before Agni, Indra, the Sun, and the Visve devâs?'

with regard to the succession of the different ceremonies taught in this chapter. They all agree in stating that after the lapse of the year through which the Vrata is kept, a ceremony is performed called Uddîkshāṇikā, i.e. the giving up of the Dîkshā, or preparatory observance. This Uddîkshāṇikā consists chiefly in the teacher's ascertaining whether the student has fulfilled the duties involved by the Vrata (see Sûtras 2 and 3). Besides that, there is no doubt that a repetition of the Upanayana (chap. 11, 2) also formed part of the preparatory rites for the study of the Âranyaka. As to the way in which these different ceremonies and the other rites described in this chapter would have to be arranged according to our text, it is perhaps best to follow the statements given in an epitome from the bâlâvabodhanârtham Rîshidaivataâkhandopaddhati (MS. Beiol. Chambers, 1992, fols. 13-16); the slight confusion therein is not difficult to get rid of. There we read, 'The Sâkvara, however, is to be kept one year (chap. 11, 11). When the Uddîkshāṇikā has been performed, and three nights (chap. 12, 6) or one day and one night (ibid. 7) have elapsed, the Upanayana should be performed as above (chap. 11, 2), with this difference that at the end of the formula mama vrata, &c. (chap. 4, 1) one should say, "May Bṛhaspati join thee to me for the holy observance of the Sâkvara through one year, O Devadatta!" (On this formula, resting on a misunderstanding of chap. 4, Sûtra 2, see the Introduction, p. 8.) The rest is the same as at the Sukriya. Then, when the year (chap. 11, 11) has elapsed, and the Uddîkshāṇikā has been performed, and the three days or the night have passed (chap. 12, 6, 7), he should go out of the village... and in the north-eastern direction,' &c. (here follows the description of how the secret doctrines should be taught to the student, according to Sâṅkh. VI). The confusion showing itself in the double mention of the Uddîkshāṇikā, before and after the Upanayana, should no doubt be put to the account of the excerptor or perhaps even of the MS.; what the meaning of the original Paddhati was is sufficiently shown in the remarks on the following Vratas, for instance, on the Vrâtika (fol. 16), 'Now follows the Vrâtika vrata. It lasts one year (chap.

3. If he answers, 'I have fulfilled them, sir!'—

4. The teacher three times envelops, from the left to the right, with a fresh garment the face (of the student) who is standing behind the fire, in front of the teacher, with his face to the east.

5. He turns the skirt (of that garment) upwards so that it cannot slip down,

6. (And says :) 'Leaving off for three days the putting on of fuel, the going for alms, the sleeping on the ground, and the obedience to the teacher, fast in the forest, in a god's house or in a place where Agnihotra is performed, keeping silence, with earnest care.'

11, 12). When the Sākvara has reached its end [here we find added at the margin of the MS., "After the Uddīkshavikā has been performed." These words ought not to be received into the text; in the corresponding passage on the Aupanishada vrata they are not found] he performs the whole ceremony, beginning from the smearing (of the Sthandila with cow-dung), the drawing of the lines, &c., as at the Upanayana . . . and then, when one year has elapsed, he performs the Uddīkshavikā, and the rules [given in chap. 12, 9 seq.] are observed as above' I think that here the meaning of the text is correctly represented; first comes the Upanayana, then follows the Vrata lasting one year, then the Uddīkshavikā. After this ceremony the teacher gives to the student the directions mentioned in chap. 12, 16; then follow the three days, or the one night (chap. 12, 6. 7), and finally they both go out of the village to the north-east, and in the forest they recite the Rahasya.

On the whole ceremonies connected with the study of the Ātmanya the sixth book should be compared.

5. Nārāyaṇa : Vastrasya daśāḥ prāntabhāga[m] upariśatāḥ kṛtvā tathā badhnīyād yathā na sambhṛāyeta adhistān na patati tathā vidheyam.

6. The things which the student here is ordered to leave off for three days are the same that are mentioned above, chap. 6, 8, as his standing duties. According to Nārāyaṇa this would be the Ādeśa mentioned in chap. 11, 13.

7. Here some (teachers) prescribe the same observances only for one night, during which he is to stand.

8. The teacher refrains from eating flesh and from sexual intercourse.

9. When those three days or that night has elapsed, going out from the village he shall avoid to look at the following (persons or things) that form impediments for the study (of the Veda):

10. Raw flesh, a Kandāla, a woman that has lately been confined, or that has her courses, blood, persons whose hands have been cut off, cemeteries, and all sorts of corpse-like (animals ?) which enter (their dens ?) with the mouth first (?), keeping them away from the place where he dwells.

8. Comp. chap. 11, 6.

10. With Sâtikā is meant a woman during the first ten days after her confinement, for which period the asauka lasts.—Apa-hasta is rendered by Nârâyana by khinnahasta; the comment on the Sāmbavya-Grihya mentions âyudhânkita-hastâms ka. The translation of the last words of this Sûtra (sarvâni ka savarûpâni yâny âsyena na [or âsyena?] praviseyuḥ svasya vâsân nirasan) is absolutely uncertain. Nârâyana says that such animals as lions, serpents, &c. are designated in common use as savarûpâni. (This literally means, 'having the form of a corpse' Immediately afterwards Nârâyana gives a nearly identical explanation of savarûpa as different from the one stated first. So perhaps we may conjecture that his first explanation rests on a reading sarpârûpâni; comp. the reading sarvarûpa of Pâraskara.) Of these the animals entering their dwelling-places with the mouth first (âsyena) are to be understood here as forming, when looked at, an impediment for the study. Nârâyana then says that other authorities understand sava in the sense of a dead human body; then savarûpâni are beings having the form thereof (tadrûpâni), such as dogs, jackals, &c. The words yâny âsyena praviseyuḥ signify that the study is impeded also on the sight of lions, tigers, &c.; for these enter their dwelling-places with their faces first (? anumukhaiḥ kṛtvā). The words svasya vâsân nirasan mean,

11. Going out (from the village) in a north-eastern direction the teacher sits down on a clean spot, turning his face to the east.

12. When the sun has risen, he recites, in the way prescribed for the Veda-study, (the Āraṇyaka texts to the student) who is to keep silence and who wears a turban.

13. This rule is to be observed only for the Mahānāmni verses.

14. At the sections however that follow (after the *Mahānāmni*s) the other one hears while the teacher recites them for himself.

15. He gives (to the teacher) the turban, a vessel, a good cow.

16. (The teacher accepts the gifts) with the verses, according to Nār., 'when he—i. e. the teacher—goes out of his dwelling-place.' Rāmañdra says that savarūpa either means lions, snakes, and other dangerous animals, or nails, horns, and other such things that fall off or are severed from the body. The text of the Sāmbavya MS. is sarvāni ka syāmarūpāni yāvānyā (?) praviseyuḥ, which the commentary explains, sarvāms ka bhakshyavargāms ka. I think there can be little doubt that the text of Sāṅkhāyana is correct (except that some doubt will remain as to āsyena or āsyē na), the more so as the passage reoccurs, nearly identically, below at VI, 1, 4. 5. As to the translation we can only go so far as to venture the opinion that the Sāṅkhāyana text does not admit the interpretation given by Gayarāma, and accepted by Professor Stenzler (who compares Āpastamba I, 11, 27; Gautama XVI, 41) in Pāraskara II, 11, 3 for sarvarūpa, which consequently should, in our opinion, be rejected also in that passage of Pāraskara. For ascertaining the true meaning of savarūpa we shall have to wait until new parallel passages have been discovered.

12. The rules for the Anuvāhana have been given above in chap. 7.

13. The Mahānāmni verses are given in the fourth Āraṇyaka of the Aitareyinas. See Sacred Books of the East, I, p. xlii.

8. Nārāyaṇa here quotes Rig-veda I, 24, 6, which is the first verse in the Rig-veda addressed to Varuṇa (i.e. to Varuṇa alone, not to Mitra and Varuṇa, &c.).

14, 1. The rules regarding the Vaisvadeva sacrifice stand here, as I have already pointed out in the German edition, p. 142, in a very strange position amid the matter that concerns the student, and before the description of the ceremony that concludes studentship (the Samāvartana; III, 1). On the first word of the chapter, atha, Nārāyaṇa observes that thereby the householder is marked as the subject of the following rules. It seems rather forced to explain the position of this chapter, as Nārāyaṇa does, by pointing out that in some cases, for instance when the teacher is away on a journey, a student also can eventually be called upon to perform the Vaisvadeva sacrifice (comp. below, chap. 17, 3).

2. This Sūtra shows, according to Nārāyaṇa, that the Vaisvadeva offering does not follow the ordinary type of sacrifice (the Pratisrute homakalpa, as it is termed above, I, 9, 19), but the form described in the Agnikāryaprakaraṇa, above, chap. 10, 3 seq.

6, 7. The distribution of Balis begins in the east, which is the part of the horizon sacred to Indra ; it then proceeds to the south, the west, the north, which are sacred respectively to Yama, Varuna, and Soma. Finally the Bali belonging to Br̥haspati and the Bārhaspatyas is offered, according to Nārāyaṇa, to the north-east.

8. The commentators (see p. 142 of the German edition) differ as to whether ādityamaṇḍala means the disk of the sun towards which this Bali should be offered, or a place or an apartment of circular form (ādityamandalarūpe maṇḍalāgāre, as in my opinion we ought to correct the reading in Nārāyaṇa's note).

Here the fourth person mentioned is the svasura, while in the Grihya text the expression vaivāhya is used. It is difficult not to believe that both words are used in the same sense, and accordingly Nārāyaṇa says vivāhyaḥ svasuraḥ. Comp. 4. The animal (offered) to the teacher is sacred to Agni;

5. If offered to an officiating priest, to Brīhaspati ;

6. If to the father-in-law, to Pragāpati ;

7. If to a king, to Indra ;

8. If to a friend, to Mitra ;

9. If to a Snātaka, to Indra and Agni ;

10. Even if he performs more than one Soma sacrifice during a year, let only priests who have received (from him) the Arghya reception officiate for him, not such who have not received it.

11. Here it is said also :

Sūtra 10. Probably Pāraskara here represents the text which both Sūtrakāyas follow, more exactly, and the enumeration given by Sāṅkhāyana in Sūtras 4-9 of the different categories of Arghyas with the corresponding deities, is an addition to that original stock of rules.

Apparently the two Sūtras 2 and 3 stand in contradiction to each other, as Sūtra 2 seems to prescribe that at the Arghya meal in every case flesh should be given to the guest, and Sūtra 3 specifies only two occasions on which the killing of the Arghya cow cannot be dispensed with. Perhaps the meaning is this, that it is not necessary, except in the cases of a sacrifice and of a wedding, to kill a cow expressly for that purpose, but that in any case, even if the cow offered to the guest be declined by him, the host should take care that some flesh be served at that meal. So says Nārāyaṇa in his note on Ārvalāyana-Grīhya I, 24, 33, 'Pasukaranapakshe tanmāṃsena bhōganam, utsarganapakshe māṃsāntareṇa.' Similarly the Buddhists distinguish between eating flesh and eating the flesh of an animal expressly killed in order to entertain that very guest.

6. The literal translation of vaivāhya would be 'a person related by marriage.' But comp. the note on Sūtra 1.

Priya of course does not mean gāmātar, as is stated in a number of commentaries. Gobhila says, priyo-lithi.

11. Other persons, for instance a king, can claim the Arghya reception not more than once a year. Comp. Āpastamba, II, 8, 7; Gautama V, 28, 29, &c.

KHANDA 16.

1. 'At the Madhuparka and at the Soma sacrifice, at the sacred rites for fathers (Manes) and gods only animals may be killed, not elsewhere: thus has Manu said.

2. 'Both his teacher and his father, and also a friend who does not stay in his house as a guest: whatever these dispose, that let him do; such is the established custom.

3. 'Let him not consider as a guest a person living in the same village, or one that comes in returning from a journey; (but let him consider as a guest only) one who has arrived at his house where the wife or the fires (of the host) are.

4. '(The fire of) the Agnihotra, bulls, and a guest that has come in at the right time, children and persons of noble families: these burn up him who neglects them.

5. 'A bull, the Agnihotra, and a student, these three prosper only if they eat; there is no prosperity for them, if they do not eat.

6. 'Day by day the domestic deities approach the man who performs the domestic rites, in order to receive their share; (that) let him pour out to them.

KHANDA 17.

1. 'Even if a man constantly gather grass and perform the Agnihotra, a Brāhmaṇa who stays (in his house) without receiving honour takes away all his good works.

2. 'One should give (even) if it were only a water-pot; one should sacrifice (even) if it were a piece of wood; (even) down to one hymn or to one Anuvâka the Brahmayağña is enjoined.

3. 'When on a journey let him not fast; (during that time) the wife keeps the vow. Let his son, his brother, or his wife, or his pupil offer the Bali oblation.

4. 'Those who perform this Vaisvadeva sacrifice in the evening and in the morning, they will prosper in wealth and (long) life, in fame and offspring.'

KHANDA 18.

1. A student who is going to set out on a journey, speaks thus to his teacher:

2. 'Of inhalation and exhalation'—(this he says) in a low voice; 'Om, I will dwell'—this aloud.

3. (The teacher) in a low voice (replies), 'To inhalation and exhalation I, the wide-extended one, resort with thee. To the protecting god I give thee in charge. God Savitar; this student belongs to thee; I give him in charge to thee; protect him; do not forsake him.'

4. 'Om, hail!' the teacher aloud. 'Hail!' the teacher aloud.

Here ends the Second Adhyâya.

18, 2. Perhaps vatsyâmi (I will dwell) is a sort of euphemism for pravatsyâmi (I will go away).

ADHYĀYA III, KHANDA 1.

1. A bath (shall be taken by the student) when he is going to return home (from his teacher).

2. 'A bull's hide'—this has been declared. On that hide he makes him sit down and have his hair and beard cut and the hair of the body and the nails.

3. Having had (the cut-off hair-ends, &c.) thrown away together with rice and barley, with sesamum-seed and mustard-seed, with Apāmārga and Sadāpushpt flowers,

4. Having sprinkled him (with water) with the Āpohishtīya-hymn (Rig-veda X, 9),

5. Having adorned him,

6. Having dressed him with two garments with (the verse), 'The garments both of you' (Rig-veda I, 152, 1),

7. He then puts on him a golden ornament (with the words), 'Giving life and vigour' (Vāgasaneyi Samhitā XXXIV, 50).

8. With (the verse), 'Mine, Agni, be vigour' (Rig-veda X, 128, 1), the veiling (of the head is done).

9. With (the verse), 'House by house the shining one' (Rig-veda I, 123, 4) (he takes) the parasol,

10. With (the verse), 'Rise up' (Rig-veda X, 18, 6), the shoes,

4. Nārāyaṇa says here, enam mānavakam abhishiṭya abhishekam snānam kārayatīvā. Comp. Pāraskara II, 6, 9 seq.

11. With (the verse), 'Long be thy hook' (Rig-veda VIII, 17, 10) he takes a bamboo staff.

12. Let him sit that day in solitude.

13. With (the verses), 'O tree! with strong limbs,' and, 'A ruler indeed' (Rig-veda VI, 47, 26; X, 152, 1) let him mount the chariot.

14. (Before returning home) let him first approach a place where they will perform Argha for him with a cow or a goat.

15. Or let him return (making his start) from cows or from a fruit-bearing tree.

16. With (the verses), 'Indra, give us best goods,' and, 'Be friendly, O earth' (Rig-veda II, 21, 6; I, 22, 15) he descends (from the chariot).

17. Let him eat that day his favourite food.

18. To his teacher he shall give (that) pair of garments, the turban, ear-rings and jewel, staff and shoes, and the parasol.

KHANDA 2.

1. If he wishes to have a house built, he draws with an Udumbara branch three times a line round (the building-ground) with (the words), 'Here I include the dwellings for the sake of food,' and sacrifices in (its) centre on an elevated spot,

'Thou art the gods' share on this (earth). From here have sprung the fathers who have passed away. The ruler has sacrificed, desirous of (dwelling in the) village, not omitting anything that belongs to the gods. Svāhā!'

3. Having had the pits for the posts dug,

4. He pours water-gruel into them,

5. And with (the verse), 'This branch of the immortal one I erect, a stream of honey, promoting wealth. The child, the young one, cries to it; the cow shall low to it, the unceasingly fertile one'—he puts an Udumbara branch which has been besmeared with ghee into the pit for the right door-post.

6. 'This branch of the world I establish, a stream of honey, promoting wealth. The child, the young one, cries to it; the cow shall low to it that has a young calf'—thus to the left.

7. In the same way at the two (pits) to the south, to the west, and to the north.

8. With (the verse), 'This branch of this tree, that drops ghee, I erect in the immortal. The child, the young one, cries to it; cows shall flock to it, unceasingly fertile ones'—he erects the chief post.

9. 'May the young child come to it, may the calf . . . ; may they come to it with a cup of Parisrut, with pots of curds.

9. On parisrut, see Zimmer, Altindisches Leben, p. 281. The words bhuvanas pari give no sense; Pāraskara probably gives the true reading, â vatso gagadaiḥ saha (III, 4, 4; comp. Sūtra 8: Vastūḥ ka Rudrān Ādityān Īśānam gagadaiḥ saha; gagada is explained in Gayarāma's commentary by anuga, anuḥara). The word gagada of course was exposed to all sorts of corruptions,

KHANDA 3.

1. 'Stand here, O post, firm, rich in horses and cows, . . . ; stand safely, dropping ghee ; stand here, fixed in the ground, prosperous, long-lasting(?), amid the prosperity of people who satiate themselves. May the malevolent ones not reach thee !

'Hither are called the cows ; hither are called goats and sheep ; and the sweet essence (?) of food is called hither to our house.

'Stand fast in the Rathantara ; recline on the Vāmadevya ; establish thyself on the Br̥hat'—with (these texts) he touches the chief post.

2. When the house has been built conformably (to its proper dimensions), he touches the posts.

3. The two (posts) to the east with (the words), 'Truth and faith !'

4. Those to the south with (the words), 'Sacrifice and gift !'

5. Those to the west with (the words), 'Strength and power !'

6. Those to the north with (the words), 'The Brahman and the Kshatra !

7. 'Fortune the pinnacle, law the chief post !

thus the text of Āśvalāyana has gāyatām saka ; the Atharva-veda (III, 12, 7) gagatā saha ; and from this gagat to the bhuvana found in our text the way is not very long.

3, 1. According to Nārāyaṇa the verse given in chap. 2, 9 forms one Mantra with those in 3, 1. The meaning of sīlamāvati is uncertain. The word reoccurs in Rig-veda X, 75, 8. Pāraskara (III, 4, 4) has sūnṛtāvati. On tīlvi, comp. Rig-veda V, 62, 7. The following word is quite uncertain both as to its reading and its meaning. Comp. p. 143 seq. of the German edition. KHANDA 4.

1. At the sacrifice to Vâstoshpati—

2. Having established the (sacred) domestic fire outside with (the words), 'I place (here) Agni with genial mind; may he be the assembler of goods. Do no harm to us, to the old nor to the young; be a saviour to us, to men and animals!'

3. Having put a new water-pot on fresh eastward-pointed Kusa-grass,

1. 'To every able one, to every blissful one, to you I turn for the sake of safety, of peace. Free from danger may we be. May the village give me in charge to the forest. All! give me in charge to the great one,'—thus (he speaks) when leaving the village.

2. 'May the forest give me in charge to the village. Great one! give me in charge to the all'—thus (he speaks) when entering the village, not without (carrying) something (with himself, such as fuel, flowers, &c.)

3. I enter the blessed, joyful house, which does not bring death to men; manly (I enter) that which is rich in men. Bringing refreshment, dropping ghee (we enter the house) in which I shall joyfully rest'—this verse is constantly to be pronounced (when he enters the house).

5, 3. For anyeshv aham we should read perhaps yeshv aham. Ārvalāyana-Sraut. II, 5, 17 has teshv aham.

KHANDA 6.

1. One who has not set up the (sacred Srauta) fires, when setting out on a journey, looks at his house.

2. (He murmurs the text,) 'Do ye both, Mitra and Varuna, protect this house for me; unscathed, undisturbed, may Pûshan guard it till our return;'

3. And murmurs (the verse), 'Upon the path we have entered' (Rig-veda VI, 51, 16).

KHANDA 7.

1. When he then returns from his journey, he looks at his house (and says),

3. He thrice eats of it, sprinkling it with water, with (the verse), 'From the good you have led us to the better, ye gods! Through thee, the nourishment, may we obtain thee. Thus enter into us, O potîon, bringing refreshment; be a saviour to us, to men and animals!'

4. With (the verse), 'This art thou, breath; the truth I speak. This art thou; from all directions thou hast entered (into all beings). Thou driving away old age and sickness from my body be at home with me. Do not forsake us, Indra!'—he touches the place of the heart;

3. 'May they whose udder with its four holes is full of sweet and ghee, be milk-givers to us; (may they be) many in our stable, rich in ghee'—and, 'The cows have come' (Rig-veda VI, 28), when they have come back.

The last Ashvakâ, which is celebrated in the dark fortnight of Mâgha, is called Ekâshvakâ; this Ashvakâ is called the 'wife of the year,' 'the image of the year,' 'the disposer of the days.' If the Phâlguna month is reckoned as the first of the year, this Ashvakâ precedes the year's beginning only by a few days; there are also some Vedic passages which point to the Ekâshvakâ's following shortly after the beginning of the year; see Weber, loc. cit., p. 342.

3. Instead of navakṛit the parallel texts (except the Mantrabrâhmaṇa II, 2, 12) have navagat, which is explained by nûtanavivâhavatî (Ludwig, loc. cit.); the 'three powers' are understood by Mâdhava (in the commentary on Taitt. Samh. IV, 3, 11) as Agni, Sûrya, and Kândia.

Nârâyana understands not 'in the middle of the rainy season,' but 'in the middle of the year' (see his note, p. 146 of the German edition). I cannot help thinking that the word madhyâvarshe, given by the MSS. here and in Pâraskara III, 3, 13, and explained by Nârâyana, is a corrupt reading which we should correct into mâghyavarsha ('the festival celebrated during the rainy season under the Nakshatra Maghâs'), or something like that. The MSS. of Âvalâyana-Gr̥hya II, 5, 9 have mâghyâvarsham, mâghâvarsham, mâdhyâvarsham. Vishnu (LXXVI, 1, comr. LXXVIII, 52, and Professor Jolly's note, Sacred Books of the East, VII, p. 240) mentions 'the three Ashvakâs, the three Anvashvakâs, a Mâgha day which falls on the thirteenth of the dark half of the month Praushlapada.' Here ends the Third Adhyāya.

14, 3-6. This is one of the passages which the author has taken unchanged from a more ancient Sūtra; see Âsv. II, 4, 8-11; Gobhila IV, 1 (end of the chapter). The Sūtras do not refer, as their position would seem to indicate, to the third, but to the second Ash/akā.

ADHYĀYA IV, KHANDA 1.

1. Let him offer (Śrāddha oblations) every month to the fathers.

2. Having invited an uneven number of Brāhmanas, versed in the Veda, at least three, to sit down as (representing) the fathers,

1, 1. Khandas 1-4 contain the rules regarding the Śrāddha oblations directed to the Manes. The dinners offered in connection with these Śrāddha sacrifices to Brāhmanas and also—though of this of course no notice is taken in Vedic texts—to Sramanas stood in the first line among the exhibitions of liberality of lay people towards priests and monks. Thus we find among the stock phrases that constantly reoccur in the Pāli Piṭakas, the mention of Samanas and Brāhmanas 'who have eaten the food given to them out of faith' (saddhādeyyāni bhogaṇāni bhuṅgītvā)—wherein the 'food given out of faith' (saddhādeyya) either chiefly or exclusively means the Śrāddha dinners, which are so called because the sacrificer gives them 'full of faith' (śrāddhāsamanvita, Manu III, 275) to the Brāhmanas and through them to the Manes.

The principal form of Śrāddha is that treated of in chap. 1, which is designated in other texts (see, for instance, Āśvalāyana-Grīhya IV, 7, 1) as pārvana śrāddha. There are, however, besides the parvan of the new moon, other times also considered as admissible for the performing of this monthly Śrāddha; see Gautamā XV, 2 seq.; Āpastamba II, 16, &c.; and comp. on the Śrāddhas in general the passages quoted by Professor Jolly, Das Dharma-sūtra des Viṣṇu (Sitzung der Bair. Akademie, phil. Classe, 7 Juni, 1879), pp. 46 seq.; Max Müller, 'India, what can it teach us?' pp. 234 seq., 374 seq.

2. "As the fathers" means: he invites the youngest, middle-aged, and eldest Brāhmanas to sit down in the place of the father, the grandfather, and the great-grandfather' (Nārāyaṇa). A similar explanation of pitṛivat is mentioned by Nārāyaṇa on Āśvalāyana-

3. And having strewn sesamum into an uneven number of water-pots,

4. He shall pour them out over the hands of the Brāhmanas, assigning (this gift) to them with the words, 'N. N. ! This to thee !'

5. After this they should be adorned ;

6. And after he has (respectfully) spoken to them, and has put food into the fire,

7. Assigning (the food) to them with the words, 'N. N. ! This to thee !' he shall cause them to eat.

8. While they are eating, he shall murmur the Mahāvyaḥritis, the Sāvitrī, the Madhuvāṭīya-verses (Rig-veda I, 90, 6 seq.), and verses addressed to the Manes and to (Soma) Pavamāna.

Grihya IV, 7, 2. My German translation of this Sūtra ought to be altered accordingly

Besides the Brāhmanas mentioned in this Sūtra, who represent the fathers, according to all the commentaries, other Brāhmanas had to be invited as representing the Visve devās. Nārāyaṇa gives detailed statements as to the number of the paitrīka and of the daivika Brāhmanas to be invited, and though at first sight a European reader would rather be inclined to doubt whether at the Srāddha ceremony, as the author of the text intended to describe it, any Brāhmanas at all had to be present except the paitrīkas, the Sūtra 2, 5 shows that the commentators are quite right in their statements regarding both categories of Brāhmanas.

5-7 It would be more natural to alter the division of the Sūtras, so as to bring āmantrya in the fifth, annaṁ & in the seventh Sūtra. In this case we should have to translate : 5. After this, having (respectfully) spoken to them who have been adorned (by him with flowers, ornaments, &c.) ; 6. And having put (food) into the fire, 7. And having assigned the food to them, &c., he shall cause them to eat.—The respectful address mentioned in the fifth Sūtra consists, according to Nārāyaṇa, in the announcement, 'Ye Brāhmanas, I will put (food) into the fire !' (comp. Āsv.-Grihya IV, 7, 18), which he subsequently does with the formulas, 'To Agni Kavyavāhana svāhā ! To Soma Pitṛmat svāhā ! To Yama Aṅgirasvat Pitṛmat svāhā !' Comp. Baudhāyana II, 14, 8.

9. When they have finished with eating, he shall offer the lumps (of flour).

10. Before (their dinner he shall offer) the lumps, according to some (teachers).

11. Behind (these he places the lumps) for their wives, putting something between (these and the preceding ones).

12. To the Brāhmanas he shall announce the remnants.

13. The rites of the putting (of food) into the fire (see Sūtra 6), &c. have been declared (in the Śrauta-sūtra) by the Pindapitriyagñā.

KHANDA 2.

1. Now (follows) the Ekoddishṭa (i.e. the Śrāddha ceremony directed to a single dead person),

2. With one strainer,

3. One (pot of) Argha-water,

4. One lump (of flour).

5. No inviting (takes place here), nor the putting

9. As to the way in which the Pindas should be offered, Nārāyaṇa refers to the Śrauta-sūtra (IV, 4).

10, 11. Pindān evidently belongs to the tenth Sūtra, not, as the Indian tradition takes it, to the eleventh. Between the Pindas of the fathers and those belonging to the mothers he puts, according to Nārāyaṇa, for instance, Daibha grass.

13. Śrauta-sūtra IV, 3 seq.

2, 1. Eka uddishṭo yasmin śrāddhe tad ekoddishṭam (Nār.). This is the kind of Śrāddha sacrifice which is to be performed for one twice-born during the first year after his death; see Manu III, 247; Yāgyavalkya I, 250.

3. This rule about the Argha water corresponds to those given with regard to the Pārvaya Śrāddha in the Sūtras 3 and 4 of the preceding chapter.

5. 'Because the āvāhana (inviting) is forbidden here, it follows

(of food) into the fire, nor (do) the Visve devâs (take part in this ceremony). 'Relished?'—thus are they to be asked whether they are satiated. 'May it approach (the fathers),' instead of 'imperishable.'

6. 'Be satisfied,' when sending them away.

7. Thus through one year, when one has died.

8. And (then) omission of the fourth one.

KHANDA 3.

1. Now (follows) the Sapindikarana (i.e. reception of a dead person into the community of Pinda-offerings with the other Manes).

that it must take place at the Pârvana Srâddha (Nâr.). According to Râmatandra's Paddhati he shall say to the Brâhmanas, 'I will invite hither the fathers;' and when they give their consent, he invites them with Rig-veda X, 16, 12. Comp. Yâgñavalkya I, 232 seq., &c. Regarding the Visve devâs comp. the note on chap. 1, 2; as to the trîptaprasna (the question whether they are satiated) comp. Manu III, 251; Yâgñ. I, 240. At the Pârvana Srâddha, after the Brâhmanas have finished their dinner and rinsed their mouths, and after the Pindas have been offered, the sacrificer says, 'May what has been given at this Srâddha to our father N. N., who belongs to the gotra N. N., be imperishable!' (comp. Yâgñ. I, 242.) This phrase is to be altered at the Ekoddishâ Srâddha in the way indicated in this Sûtra.

8. After the Ekoddishâ Srâddha has been performed for a dead person during the first year after his death, he is to be admitted, by the Sapindikarana ceremony, among the other Manes, and receives thenceforward his Pinda together with them at the ordinary Pârvana Srâddha. As the ritual of this Srâddha requires that the number of the 'fathers' worshipped should be three, the accession of a new person makes necessary the omission of the pra-pratâmaha, who has now become fourth among the fathers.

8, 1. It appears to me that this whole chapter is a later addition to the original text. The last Sûtra of the preceding chapter, treating of the omission of the fourth 'father,' which forms, as shown in the preceding note, a consequence of the Sapindikarana,

2. When one year has elapsed, or three half-months,
3. Or on a day when something good happens,
4. He fills four water-pots with sesamum, scents, and water,
5. Three for the fathers, one for the (newly) dead person,
6. And pours the pot that belongs to the (newly) dead person out into the pots of the fathers with the two verses, 'They who commonly' (Vāgasaneyi Samhitā XIX, 45. 46).
7. Thus also the lump (of flour).
8. This is the Sapindākarana.

KHANDA 4.

1. Now (follows) the Ābhyudayika (i.e. the Srāddha ceremony referring to good luck).

supposes this ceremony to be known and to require no special explanation. Had the intention of the author been to treat of the Sapindākarana, this would have been the right place for mentioning the katurthavisarga, and not, as we really read it, the end of the chapter treating of the Ekoddishā. As pointing in the same direction I will mention that the Sāmbavya-Grīhya, while giving the first, second, and fourth chapter of this Adhyāya, omits the third. Finally it seems decisive to me that the fifth (Parisishā) book of the Sāṅkhāyana-Grīhya treats of the Sapindākarana in a whole chapter (V, 9), which shows that the text itself, as the author of the Parisishā read it, gave no exposition of this ceremony.

2. Nārāyaṇa says that tripaksha means either three pakshas, i. e. one month and a half, or one paksha deficient by three days, i. e. twelve days. We need not say that the latter explanation is inadmissible; it evidently rests on a wrong conclusion drawn from a passage of another Sūtra quoted by him, in which it is stated that the Sapindākarana should be performed samvatsarānte dvādaśāṇi vā.

- 4, 1. The Ābhyudayika Srāddha has to be performed on such

2. In the fortnight of the increasing moon, on an auspicious day,

3. After the sacrifice to the mothers has been performed,

4. And an even number of (Brāhmaṇas) versed in the Veda have been invited to sit down ;

5. In the forenoon ;

6. The rite is performed from left to right.

7. The murmuring with the omission of the verses belonging to the Manes.

8. The Darbha blades are straight.

9. Barley is to be used instead of sesamum.

10. The lumps are mixed with curds, jujube fruits, fried grain.

11. On inviting (the Manes, he should say), 'The Nāndmukha (glad-faced ?) Manes will I invite.'

12. 'May the Nāndmukha Manes be rejoiced,' instead of 'imperishable.'

13. 'The Nāndmukha Manes will I make speak,' when he makes (the Brāhmaṇas) speak.

14. '(Was it) well done ?'—thus are they to be asked whether they are satiated.

occasions as the birth of a son, the marriage of a son or a daughter, the performance of ceremonies such as the nāmakarman, ādākarman, &c. See Yāgyavalkya I, 249.

3. A Śiāddha ceremony directed to the mothers here precedes that consecrated to the fathers.

6. Professor Stenzler's translation of Yāgyavalkya, loc. cit. (prakṣhizāvr̥tka = die Ehrfurcht beobachtend), has to be corrected according to this Sūtra.

7. See chap. 1, 8.

9. See chap. 1, 3.

11. Concerning the 'invitation' (āvāhana) see the note on chap. 2, 5.

12. See chap. 2, 5 and the note there.

13. 'When he causes them to say Svadhā.' Nārāyaṇa. Comp. Ārv.-Gr̥ihya IV, 7, 30.

14. Comp. chap. 2, 5.

15. The rest is the same (as in the other kinds of Śrāddha rites), as far as it is not prohibited (by contrary rules).

KHANDA 5.

1. Now (follows) the Upākaraṇa (i.e. the ceremony by which the annual course of study is opened).

2. When the herbs appear, under the Nakshatra Hasta or Śravaṇa,

3. Let him make oblations of the flour of fried barley and of grains, mixed with curds and ghee, with the (whole) Veda, verse by verse: thus say some (teachers).

4. Or with the first verses of the Sūktas and Anuvākas.

5. With the first verses of the Adhyāyas and of the sections belonging to the (different) Rishis, according to Māṇḍūkya.

6. But Kaushītaki has said:

7. 'I praise Agni the Purohita (Rig-veda I, 1, 1), this one verse,

8. 'The Kushumbhaka (mongoose?) has said it; 'If thou criest, O bird, announce luck to us; 'Sung by Gamadagni; 'In thy abode the whole world rests;'

5, 1. As to the Upākaraṇa, see the statements of Professor Weber in his second article on the Nakshatras, Abhandlungen der Berliner Akademie, 1861, p. 338, and of Professor Bühler in his notes on Āpastamba, S. B. E., II, pp. 110, 111.

2. The Nakshatra Śravaṇa is evidently considered as particularly fit for this occasion because of its name containing an allusion to śruti, &c.

4. I have followed Nārāyaṇa, but perhaps I ought to have translated, 'Sūktas or Anuvākas,' and in the fifth Sūtra, 'Adhyāyas or the sections, &c.'

'Come to our sacrifice, O you that are worthy of sacrificè, with care;' 'Whosoever, be he ours, be he alien,' 'Look on, look about;' 'Come here, Agni, the Maruts' friend;' 'The oblation, O king, cooked for thee:' each time two verses,

9. 'That blessing and bliss we choose'—this one verse (the first and last verse of each Mandala).

10. (Taking something) of the remnants of the sacrificed (food) they partake of that sacrificial food with this (verse), 'I praised Dadhikrâvan' (Rig-veda IV, 39, 6).

11. They sip water, sit down,

12. Murmur the Mahâvyâhrtis, the Sâvitrit, and the auspicious hymns commencing from the beginning of the Veda,

13. And cause the teacher to pronounce auspicious wishes.

9. According to Kaushîtaki, the oblations are made with the first and last rikas of each Mandala. The last rik of the tenth Mandala quoted here, taê kham yor â vrinîmahe, is different from the verse with which our Samhitâ (the Sâkala Samhitâ of the Rig-veda) closes. It is well known that taê kham yor â vrinîmahe is the last verse in the Bâshkala Sâkhâ which was adopted by the Sânikhâ-yana school (comp. Indische Studien, IV, 431; Weber, Verzeichniss der Berliner Sanskrit-Handschriften, p. 314, &c.; Indische Literaturgeschichte, second edition, Nachtrag, p. 2) It was also known long since that the Bâshkala Sâkhâ of the Rig-veda contains eight hymns more than the Sâkala Sâkhâ. The Karanavyûha Bhâshya (comp. Dr. von Schroeder's Introduction to his excellent edition of the Maitrâyanî Samhitâ, vol. i, p. xxiv), known to me through the kindness of Professor Weber, tells which eight hymns these are. There it is said (folio 22 of Professor Weber's MS.) that in the Bâshkala Samhitâ there followed after VIII, 48 the first two of the Vâlakhilya hymns, after VIII, 94 the Vâlakhilya hymns 3-7, and at the end of the whole collection the so-called samgââna hymn (see Professor Max Müller's edition, vol. vi, p. 32), which ends with the very verse quoted in our Sûtra, taê kham yor â vrinîmahe.

14. Of this (ceremony) it is also said,

15. 'Desirous (of acquiring) for the hymns inexhaustible vigour, reverence, and also soundness, the Rishis, by the power of their austerities, have discovered the Upâkarman.

16. 'Therefore a constant performer of the six kinds of works should, in order that his Mantras might be successful, perform the Upâkarman—so they say—if he wishes for success of his (holy) works.

17. 'At the time of the Upâkarman and of the Utsarga an interruption (of the Veda study) shall take place for (three days and) three nights, likewise at the Ashvâkâs for one day and one night, and so on the last night of each season.'

KHANDA 6.

1. On the first day of the bright fortnight of Mâgha,

2. To the north-east,

3. In a place covered with herbs,

4. Having murmured the hymns sacred to the Sun, 'Upwards that Gâtavedas' (Rig-veda I, 50), 'The bright face of the gods' (I, 115), 'Adoration to Mitra's (eye)' (X, 37), 'From the sky (where he dwells) may Sûrya protect us' (X, 158),

16. The six kinds of works are, performing sacrifices (yajana), officiating at the sacrifices of others (yâjana), studying the Veda (adhyayana), teaching the Veda to others (adhyâpana), giving (dâna), and accepting gifts (pratigraha). Nârâyana.

17. Concerning the Utsarga, see chap. 6. This Sloka occurs also Manu IV, 119 with the reading kshepanam instead of kshapanam ('kshapanam khandasâm virâma anadhyâya,' Nârâyana). Kshapanam is correct.

6, 1. This Khandâ treats of the Utsarga, i.e. the ceremony performed at the end of the term.

5. And having thrown clods of earth (on the ground) to the different quarters (of the horizon), from the left to the right, with the hymn, 'A ruler indeed' (Rig-veda X, 152), verse by verse,

6. And having satiated (with water) the Rīshis, the metres, the deities, faith and insight, and the fathers man by man,

7. They interrupt (the study of) the hymns for six months and a half,

8. Or for five and a half.

9. But if they (wish to) recite them (nevertheless), let the recitation go on after a pause of one day and one night.

KHANDA 7.

1. Now the interruption (of the Veda recitation):—

2. In the case of prodigies until the same time (next day),

3. And in the case of other miracles;

4. In the case of lightning, thunder, and rains (the recitation shall be interrupted) till the twilight has thrice passed;

5. At a Srāddha-dinner for one day;

6. If a death (of relations) or birth has happened, for ten days;

7. On the fourteenth days (of the fortnights), the new moon days, and the Ashṭakā days,

6. On the tarpana, comp. chaps. 9 and 10.

7, 2. The translation of ākālam given in my German edition (Während der betreffenden Zeit) is wrong: comp. the commentary there quoted at p. 150; Gautama XVI, 22; Professor Stenzler's note on Pāraskara II, 11, 2.

8. The translation of nabhya is quite conjectural. Nārāyaṇa gives a different meaning to this word ; comp. p. 150 of the German edition

. Ākṣāyaputrādayaḥ. Nārāyaṇa.

9. The reason why the recitation of the Rīg-veda is forbidden when the sound of a Sāman is heard, becomes manifest, for instance, from Āpastamba I, 10, 7, where the discontinuance of the Veda-study is prescribed when the barking of dogs, the braying of asses, the cry of a wolf, &c., the sound of musical instruments, of weeping, and of a Sāman is heard. Loud sounds like these would disturb the recitation of Rīg or Yagus texts. A very curious opinion has been recently brought forward by Professor Aufrecht (see his edition of the Rīg-veda, second edition, vol. ii, p. xxxviii) that the incompatibility of the recitation of Rīg hymns and of Sāmans 'beruht auf der Kenntniss von der Willkür und der zum Theil unwürdigen Weise, in welcher der alte Text des Rīg-veda in diesem Gesangbuche (i. e. the Sāmavedārṇika) behandelt ist.'

24. In a village where a corpse is ;
25. On seeing forbidden sights ;
26. On hearing what is forbidden ;
27. On smelling a foul smell ;
28. If a high wind blows ;
29. If a cloud emits (heavy) rain ;
30. On a carriage road ;
31. And while the sound of a lute is heard ;
32. While being on a chariot ;
33. (In the neighbourhood) of a dog as (in that) of a Sūdra ;
34. Having climbed up a tree ;
35. Having descended into a pit ;
36. (Immersed) in water ;
37. While anybody cries ;
38. While suffering bodily pain ;
39. While he is naked ;
40. Whilst impure with the remnants of food ;
41. On a bridge ;
42. On the occasion of the shaving of the hair and the beard until the bath ;
43. While being rubbed ;
44. While bathing ;
45. When having sexual intercourse ;

23. Grāmāranye grāmam (read, grāma?) evāraṇyam vanam tatra nādhīyāta. Nārāyaṇa.

29. Except during the rainy season. Nārāyaṇa.

45. Nārāyaṇa also understands maithuna, and I think that the German translation ought to be corrected accordingly.

48. With veiled hands ;
 49. In an army ;
 50. In presence of a Brāhmaṇa who has not had his meal, and of cows (that have eaten nothing) ;
 51. When (these impediments) have passed, let them (continue to) recite (the Veda).
 52. Should any of these cases arise against his will, let him (continue to) recite after having held his breath and looked at the sun.
 53 (The same rules hold good,) except (those regarding) lightning, thunder, and rain, for (the study of) the Kalpa. During the five months and a half (they have to behave) as while it rains.
 54. Thereof it is also said,
 55. ' Food, water, roots and fruits, and whatsoever else Śrāddha-food there may be : even when he has (only) accepted thereof, the study should be interrupted ; the Brāhmaṇa's hand is his mouth ; so it is taught.'

53. I think that this Sūtra contains two different rules which have to be separated, viz. 1. vidyutstanayitnuvarshavargam kalpe ; 2. varshavad arddhashashīkeshu. The first of these rules would extend the cases of anadhyāya mentioned in this chapter to the study of the Kalpa-sūtra, except the cases of lightning, rain, &c. The second would refer to the five months and a half following on the Utsarga ceremony (comp. chap. 6, 8), and would imply that during this time the same texts are to be studied or not, according as their study is allowed or forbidden during rainfall : i. e. the study of the Samhitā is to be discontinued, while that of the Kalpa is allowed to go on. Rāmānandra and Nārāyaṇa differ from this interpretation ; see p. 151 of the German edition.

12. The words adhīhi bho (recite, sir!) are pronounced by the student ; this follows from the passages quoted in the note on II, 6, 10. Nārāyaṇa states that those words are pronounced by the teacher (ātāryo guruś śiṣyam adhyāpanārtham adhīhi bho 3 iti śabdām uktvā . . .).

17. (He shall say,) 'Leave! Pause meanwhile!' according to some (teachers).

18. Let no one step between (a teacher and students) who study.

19. Let no one change his place during the recitation.

20. Should any fault be committed, let him fast three days, or one day and one night, repeat the Sāvitrī as long as he can, and give something to the Brāhmanas; then after an interruption of one day and one night the study should go on.

KHANDA 9.

1. Having bathed,

2. And having submerged himself at the time prescribed for the bath, he satiates the deities :

19. The translation of âtmanam vipariharet is conjectural; comp. also Nārāyaṇa's note, p. 151 of the German edition.

9, 1. It is not expressly stated in our text for what occasion the tarpana (i. e. satiating of deities, Rishis, &c. with water-offerings), which is treated of in chap. 9-10, shall be prescribed. The comparison of Baudhāyana II, 9 might perhaps lead us to believe that the ceremony in question is to be performed whenever the sacrificer takes a bath. But the two texts which are most closely connected with ours, the Sāmbavya and Āśvalāyana Gr̥hyas, seem to point clearly to another conclusion. The Sāmbavya-sūtra transposes the rules about the tarpana to the place which would correspond to Sūtra II, 7, 28 of our text. The passage of the Sāmbavya-sūtra runs thus: mūle kundam kṛtvā yathoktam adbhīḥ pariśiṣṭaty athemās (so the MS.) tarpayati Agniḥ Pragāpatir Virūpākshaḥ, &c. It ends: pituraḥ pitāmahaḥ prapitāmahaḥ Pailaḥ Kahoḥaḥ Kaushitakaḥ (sic) Kahoḥya Kaushitakaye svadhāstv iti pratipurushaḥ (sic) pitṛṇas tarpayitvā. The last words are taken from the Sūtra IV, 6, 6 of our text. Thus there can be no doubt that Sāmbavya intended to prescribe the tarpana for the conclusion of the vedādhyayana. The same can be said of Āsvalāyana, who also by the position which he assigns to the tarpana sections (III, 4) brings it into a similar connection with the vedādhyayana (see Nārāyaṇa's commentary on Āsv., loc. cit.). We may also refer to the treatise about the study of the Ānanyaka, which is appended to the Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya as its sixth book; there the tarpana is mentioned quite in the same connection (VI, 6, 10 seq.). I believe, therefore, that in our text, chapters 9 and 10 have found their place here as a sort of supplementary addition to chap. 6, 6, just as in the first book the list of Nakshatras seems likewise appended to the Sūtra I, 25, 5.

According to Nārāyaṇa, snātaḥ in the first Sūtra would refer to the bath which forms part of the Samāvartana ceremony (see III, 1, 1), so that it would be the Gr̥hasṭha, who has taken the Samāvartana bath, to whom the following rules refer.

3. Comp. the similar lists of Āsvalāyana, Gr̥hya III, 4; Sām-bavya, quoted in my German edition of Sāṅkhāyana, p. 153; and Baudhāyana II, 9 (S. B. E., vol. xiv, pp. 252 seq.). The last seems to be the most modern.

It should be observed that the section of the list contained in this Sūtra, as well as that given below, chap. 10, 3, is divided into the success; I satiate the thought; I satiate belief and insight, and the memory, cows and Brāhmaṇas, movable and immovable things. All beings may satiate themselves!'—so far with the sacrificial cord suspended over the left shoulder.

KHANDA 10.

1. Now with the sacrificial cord suspended over the right shoulder,

2. Looking in the direction that belongs to the Manes (i.e. the south):

-3. 'The (Rishis) of the hundred (Rikas), the (Rishis) of the middle (Mandālas), Gṛtsamada, Viśvāmitra, Gamadagni, Vāmadeva, Atri, Bharadvāga, Vasishtha, the Pragāthas, the (Rishis) of the Pavamāna hymns, the (Rishis) of the short hymns and of the long hymns, Sumantu, Gaimini, Vaiśampāyana, Paila, the Sūtras, the Bhāshyas, Gārgya, Babhrū, Bābhavya, Manū, Māṇḍavya, Gārgī Vā- two parts, in the first of which the name of the being to be worshipped is given in the nominative case, with the verb tripyat, while in the second it stands in the accusative, with the verb tarpayāmi. The first part of this section contains the names of gods and of divine beings, such as the rivers, the mountains, &c.; in the second part are found abstract qualities or notions, such as matī, dhṛti, sruti. Similarly in chapter 10, 3 the Vedic poets, a few ancient teachers, and wise women, such as Gārgī or Sulabhā, form the first part of the list, and then follow, in the accusative case, the names of such doctors as Sāṅkhāyana, Āśvalāyana, Sāḷalya. In Āśvalāyana's Sūtra of the first of our two sections only the first part reoccurs, the second is omitted, while the second section is found there in its entirety, with the same difference of names given in the nominative and accusative cases. The conjectures, however, which I had once based on this difference (see my German edition, pp. 152, 153) as to the distinction of a more ancient part of the list, and of later supplements, are perhaps too hazardous.

7. Etaiḥ pūrvoktaiḥ anāptādibhū na samvadet. Nārāyaṇa.

10. Nārāyaṇa states that ‘with his wife’ is to be supplied to this Sūtra, which indeed is rendered probable through the comparison of Gautama IX, 32; Manu IV, 43, &c.

11. Nor remnants (of food).
12. Remnants of (food belonging to the) Manes, gods, guests, and servants he may eat.
13. Gleaning ears of corn, receiving alms unasked for, or for which he has asked the good, performing sacrifices for others, are the means of livelihood ;
14. (Of these) each preceding one is the more respectable.
15. Or if (his livelihood) cannot be gained (in one of the ways mentioned), let him follow the occupation of a Vaisya.
16. (He shall be) careful about his duties towards Manes and gods.
17. In due time (he shall) have intercourse with his wife.
18. He shall not lie down (to sleep) in the day-time,
19. Nor during the first or the last watch of the night.
20. Let him not sit on the bare ground.
21. He shall constantly perform the prescribed duties regarding the use of water.
22. (And constantly) have his sacrificial cord suspended over his left shoulder.
23. Let him not abandon his teacher,
24. Except on (his teacher's) command,
25. Or with (his) permission.

KHANDA 12.

1. Every day he shall respectfully salute his teacher,

11. Here also Nârâyana understands bhâryâyâ bhukta-resham.

15. Comp. Professor Bùhlér's note on Gautama X, 5, S. B. E., vol. II, p. 225.

2. And his Gurus,
3. A'Srotriya when meeting him,
4. When he returns from a journey, (also) one who is not a Srotriya.

5. In the words, 'I am N.N., sir!' -pronouncing his own name, crossing his hands (so as to seize with his right hand the right foot, and with his left hand the left of the other person).

6. (The person who has been thus saluted, in reply addressing him with his name,) 'N.N.!' and seizing his hands, pronounces a wish to him.

7. Let him not go to a sacrifice without being chosen (thereto).

8. And let him beware of (doing) wrong.

9. Let him not go to assemblies of people.

10. If he has come upon (such assemblies), let him not point out (anything evil) against (anybody).

11. He shall not be a reviler, nor slanderous, nor a wanderer from house to house, nor a prattler.

12. He shall not walk alone,

13. Nor naked,

14. Nor with veiled hands.

15. Gods'-houses (he shall walk round) keeping the right side turned to them.

12, 5. Nārāyaṇa: 'As to how that respectful salutation (abhi-vādana) should be performed, he says . . . with his own right hand he touches the right foot of the Āt̥mārya or other person (whom he salutes), and with his left hand the left foot (comp. Manu II, 72) (and says), "I am N. N. (amukasarman) of the Gotra N. N., sir! I offer my respectful salutation!"'

6. 'The Āt̥mārya or other person seizes the hands of the saluting person,' &c. Nārāyaṇa.

10. See Nārāyaṇa's commentary, p. 154 of the German edition.

16. Let him not run.
17. Let him not spit.
18. Let him not scratch himself.
19. Let him not look on urine and excrements.
20. Let him sit with veiled head,
21. Not on the bare (ground),
22. If he has only one garment, suspending his sacrificial cord on his ear,
23. Not turning his face to the sun,
24. Nor his rump,
25. In the day-time with his face to the north, at night to the south.
26. He shall not (eject) phlegm into water, nor in the neighbourhood (of water).
27. He shall not climb up a tree.
28. He shall not look down into a well.
29. He shall not go to an execution-place,
30. And in no case to a cemetery.
31. Let him bathe day by day with his clothes on.
32. When he has bathed, let him put on another garment before he is dry.

KHANDA 13.

1. Under (the Nakshatrā) Rohini he shall have the ploughing done.
2. Before it is done, he shall offer at the eastern boundary of his field a Bali to Heaven and Earth.
3. With a verse sacred to Heaven and Earth and with the words, 'Adoration to Heaven and Earth!' (he performs his) worship (to Heaven and Earth).

16. According to Nārāyaṇa we should have to supply, 'while it is raining,' which is countenanced by a number of parallel texts, for instance, Ārv.-Grīhya III, 9, 6.

4. When the plough is being put into motion first, let a Brāhmaṇa touch the plough reciting this (verse), 'For luck may us the plough-shares' (Rig-veda IV, 57, 8).

5. 'Through the lord of the field'—with (this hymn) (Rig-veda IV, 57), verse by verse, to the different directions (of the sky), from left to right, worship is done.

KHANDA 14.

1. When going to cross water, he performs the Svastyayana (ceremony for lucky progress).

2. He sacrifices thrice with his joined hands full of water into the waters, with the words, 'Adoration to the Sea, the child of the reed! Adoration to Varuṇa, the lord of righteousness! Adoration to all rivers!'—

3. Murmuring, 'May Visvakarman, the father of them all, relish the food offered.'

4. Against the stream for flowing (waters); up into the air for standing ones.

5. Should he while crossing apprehend any danger, let him murmur the hymn of Vasishṭha, 'The eldest of which is the sea' (Rig-veda VII, 49); this (will serve to him as) a boat.

KHANDA 15.

1. The Sravana (oblation) he offers on the full moon day that falls under (the Nakshatra) Sravishṭhā, of the flour of fried barley, or of cooked food,

2. With (the words), 'To Vishṇu svāhā! To (the Nakshatra) Sravana svāhā! To the full moon of Sravana svāhā! To the rainy season svāhā!'

3. Having established the (sacred) domestic fire outside, and having mixed together fried grain and the flour of fried barley with butter, he sacrifices—

4. With (the words), 'To the Lord of the celestial Serpents svāhā! To the celestial Serpents svāhā!'

5. Having placed to the north of the fire a new water-pot on eastward-pointed, fresh Kusa grass,

6. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents wash himself! May the celestial Serpents wash themselves!'—he pours water into it.

7. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents comb himself! May the celestial Serpents comb themselves!'—he makes movements with a comb.

8. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents paint himself! May the celestial Serpents paint themselves!'—he pours out portions of paint.

9. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents tie (this) to (himself)! May the celestial Serpents tie (this) to themselves!'—he offers flowers.

10. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents clothe himself! May the celestial Serpents clothe themselves!'—he offers a thread.

11. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents anoint (his eyelashes)! May the celestial Serpents anoint (their eyelashes)!—he spirts out (small portions' of collyrium) with a young Kusa shoot.

12. With (the words), 'May the Lord of the celestial Serpents look (at himself)! May the celestial Serpents look (at themselves)!—he makes them look in a mirror.

13. With (the words), 'Lord of the celestial Serpents, this is thy Bali¹ Celestial Serpents, this is your Bali!'—he makes a Bali-offering.

14. In the same way for the aerial (Serpents).

15. For those dwelling in the directions (of the horizon).

16. For the terrestrial ones

17. (He repeats these Mantras) thrice each time, the first (part) with higher voice each time,

18. The second (part) with lower voice each time.

19. In this way he shall offer day by day with the spoon, in small portions, a Bali of the flour of fried barley with water, down to the Pratyavarohana (or the ceremony of the 'redescent'), at night, keeping silence.

20. And (his wife) shall put (it) down silently.

21. The close of the ceremony is the same as the beginning.

22. With (the verse), 'The good protectress' (Rig-veda X, 63, 10), let him ascend the (high) couch.

17, 18 The text has ulkaistarām—ulkaistarām, and nīkaistarām—nīkaistarām. Nārāyaṇa (comp. the text of his scholion, p. 155 of the German edition) understands this in a different way; he says that in the water-pot mentioned in the fifth Sūtra two different sthānas are to be distinguished, a higher part of it and a lower (uttarāḍharatayā). Now when the sacrificer, for instance, as prescribed in Sūtra 6, invites the Lord of the celestial Serpents, and the celestial Serpents to wash themselves, the pouring out of water would have to be performed first thrice for the Lord of the celestial Serpents in the higher place, then thrice for the celestial Serpents in the lower place.

19. On the Pratyavarohana see chap. 17.

20. Nārāyaṇa : vāgyamayuktā yagamānapatnī evaṃ balhadravyādikam upasādayet.

22. 'From the Srāvaṇī till the Āgrahāṇī (see chap. 17, 1) one shall not sleep on the ground out of fear of the snakes.' Nārāyaṇa.

KHANDA 16.

1. On the full moon day of Âsvayuga a milk-rice oblation to Indra.

2. Having sacrificed Âgya with (the words), 'To the two Asvins svâhâ! To the two Asvayug svâhâ! To the full moon of Âsvayuga svâhâ! To the autumn svâhâ! To Pasupati svâhâ! To the tawny one svâhâ!'—

3. He shall sacrifice a mixture of curds and butter with this hymn, 'The cows came hither' (Rig-veda VI, 28), verse by verse.

4. That night they let the calves join their mothers.

5. Then feeding of the Brâhmanas.

KHANDA 17.

1. On the Âgrahâyant full moon day he shall re-descend,

2. (Or) under (the Nakshatra) Rohinî, or under the Proshthapadâs.

3. In the morning, having taken a handfull of Samî leaves, Madhûka flowers, reeds, Apâmârga plants, and of Sirîsha, Udumbara, Kusa shoots, and jujube fruits, and an earth-clod (taken) out of a furrow,

4. Having put (all that) into a water-pot,

16, 3. Ghrîtamîsam dadhî prîshâtakam. Nârâyana. Comp. the Grîhya-saṃgraha II, 59.

17, 1. The Pratyavarohana (i. e. redescent) here described is the ceremony performed at the end of the time during which sleeping on high bedsteads is prescribed (chap. 15, 22). Beginning from the Srâvanti full moon till the Pratyavarohana, the offerings to the Serpents mentioned above have to be repeated every day (chap. 15, 19); the Pratyavarohana is the concluding ceremony of these rites devoted to the Serpents.

5. And, after he has quickly repeated the Mahāvyāhṛtis and the Sāvitrī, having repeatedly immersed (it) therein with this hymn, 'May he burn away from us pain' (Rig-veda I, 97), he shall drive away the evil from the persons standing under his protection, from left to right, and pour out (the water) to the north.

6. A Madhuparka is the fee for the sacrifice.

KHANDA 18.

1. 'May summer, winter and spring, autumn and rainy season be well-ordered to us. May we be under the safe protection of these seasons, and may they last (to us) through a hundred years. Svāhā!

'Beat away, O white one, with thy foot, with the fore-foot and with the hind-foot, these seven daughters of Varuṇa and all that belong to the king's tribe. Svāhā!

'To the white one, the son of Vidārva svāhā! To Vidārva svāhā! To Takshaka Vaisāleya svāhā! To Visāla svāhā!'—with (these words) he sacrifices (oblations) of Āgnya.

2. 'May a good winter, a good spring, a good summer be bestowed (on us). May the rains be to us happy rains; may the autumns be blessed to us.'

3. With (the verse), 'Blessing on us, Mitra' (Rig-veda I, 90, 9), he sweeps (the floor) with a Palāsa branch,

5. Saranyebhyo gr̥hebhyaḥ (read, gr̥hyebhyaḥ) sarvebhyaḥ sakāśāt, &c. Nāīyana.

5. And spreads out a layer (of straw) with (the verse), 'Be soft, O earth' (Rig-veda I, 22, 15).

6. They then lie down on their sides, the eldest one to the right hand—

7. With (the words), 'In the Brahman I establish myself, in the Kshatra,' on (their) right (sides);

8. With (the words), 'Among the horses I establish myself, among the cows,' on (their) left (sides);

9. With (the words), 'Among the cattle I establish myself, in prosperity,' on (their) right (sides);

10. With (the words), 'Among offspring I establish myself, in food,' on (their) left (sides).

11. With (the verse), 'Arise, the living' (Rig-veda I, 113, 16), they arise.

12. During that night they lie on that layer.

12. And over himself (the verse), 'May a hundred autumns be before us, ye gods' (ibid. 9),
13. He shall give something to the Brāhmaṇas.

KHANDA 6.

1. When a disease has befallen him,
2. Let him offer boiled rice-grains with Gave-dhukâ-grass with (the hymn), 'These (prayers) to Rudra, the strong one, with braided hair' (Rig-veda I, 114), verse by verse.

KHANDA 7.

1. If (his wife) gives birth to a child, without the Sîmantonnayana having been performed,
2. (Or if) the Gâtakarman has not been performed (for the child),

7, 1. On the Sîmantonnayana, see I, 22.

2. The Gâtakarman has been described I, 24.

3. He places, when ten days have elapsed since (the delivery), the little child in the mother's lap,

4. And after he has sacrificed with the Mahāvāhr̥itis, the sacrifice (that had been omitted, is performed) as (stated) above.

KHANDA 8.

1. If a post puts forth shoots,

2. Let him prepare a mess of cooked food and offer the boiled rice with the two (verses), 'In that way bringing forth deeds' (Srauta-sûtra III, 17, 1), 'Of tawny shape, weighty, a giver of vigour' (Rig-veda II, 3, 9).

3. Should the pot for the Prāṇitā water, the Āgya-pot, or any other earthen (vessel) be damaged and leak,

4. He sacrifices the two Sarvaprāyasakṛitta oblations and recites the three verses, 'He who without' (Rig-veda VIII, 1, 12 seq.), over the broken (vessel).

5. Should the two (Kusa blades which are used as) strainers be spoiled before the completion of the sacrifice,

6. Let him sacrifice the Sarvaprāyasakṛitta and make new ones with (the verse), 'In the water, Agni' (Rig-veda VIII, 43, 9).

KHANDA 9.

1. Now (follows) the Sapindīkarana.

3. On the ten days, comp. I, 25, 1 and the note there.

8, 3. On the Prāṇitā water, see above, I, 8, 8. 25.

4. Comp. I, 9, 12 and the note there.

5. See I, 8, 14 seqq.

6. See Sâtra 4.

9, 1 seqq. Comp. above, IV, 3 and the notes there.

2. Let him fill four water-pots (for the Manes) from the father upwards,

3. And prepare in the same way lumps (of flour),

4. And let him distribute the first lump on the (other) three with (the verses), 'They who commonly, concordantly (dwell) in Yama's realm, the fathers : for them be space, freedom, adoration, sacrifice established among the gods.

'They who commonly, harmoniously (dwell), the living among the living, mine : may their prosperity fall to my lot in this world through a hundred years'—

And with the two (verses), 'Equal the design' (Rig-veda X, 191, 3. 4).

5. In the same way the vessels with Argha water.

6. In the same way for the mother, for a brother, and for a wife that has died before (her husband), adding (the lump belonging to that person) to those (other) lumps.

KHANDA 10.

1. If the bees make honey in his house,

2. Let him fast and sacrifice a hundred and eight pieces of Udumbara wood, which are besmeared with curds, honey, and ghec, with the two (verses), 'No (harm) to us in our offspring' (Rig-veda I, 114, 8. 9).

3. And let him murmur the hymn, 'For welfare may Indra and Agni' (Rig-veda VII, 35); and (the same hymn should be used) at all (ceremonies), such as that of the sacrifice after assent has been declared (see above, I, 7, 1).

2. On these four vessels, see IV, 3, 4 seq.

5. These are the vessels mentioned in the second Sûtra.

10, 3 This is a supplementary rule belonging to the exposition of the general type of sacrifice. On the 'Pratisruta' sacrifice, see I, 7, 1 seqq.; I, 9, 19.

4. After he has sacrificed seventeen one span long pieces of Palāsa wood, he then seizes the Sruva.

5. Fifteen at the full and new moon sacrifices.

6. At the Ashvakā ceremony in the middle of the rainy season there may optionally be three (pieces of wood); the sacrifice as at the Pitriyagña.

KHANDA 11.

1. If an anthill arises in his house, the house should be abandoned.

2. Then, after having fasted three nights (and days), he should perform the great expiation.

Here ends the Fifth Adhyāya.

4. See I, 9, 1. 3.

6. Comp. III, 13, 1 with the note

11, 2. Nārāyaṇa understands the 'great expiation' as a rite directed to Ganesa and to the planets (comp. Yāgyavalkya I, 276 seq., 292, &c.); that this ceremony was known already to the author of this Sūtra seems very doubtful. Another 'mahāsānti' is frequently mentioned in the Kausika-sūtra (quoted in Böhlingk-Roth's Dictionary); comp. my German edition of Sāṅkhāyana, p. 159.

ADHYĀYA VI, KHANDA 1.

1. Now, after having paid reverence to Brahman, to the Brahmarishi, to (those who descend from) Brahman's womb, to Indra, Pragâpati, Vasishtha, Vâmadeva, Kahola Kaushîtaki, Mahâkaushîtaki, Suyagña, Sâṅkhâyana, Ârvalâyana, Aitareya, Mahaitareya, Kâtyâyana, Sâtyâyana, Sâkalya, Babhru, Bâbhavya, Mandu, Mândavya, and to all the teachers of the past, we will henceforth explain the rules for the Âranyaka as forming the subject of Svâdhyâya (private recitation of a text).

2. The teacher abstains through one day and one night from sexual intercourse and from eating flesh.

3. Raw flesh, a Kandâla, a woman that has lately been confined, or that has her courses, seeing blood or persons whose hands have been cut off: (these persons and things he shall know form) impediments for the study.

4. And of the corpse-like (animals?).

5. Those which enter (their dens?) with the mouth first (?).

1, 1 seqq. Comp. the general remarks on this sixth book in the Introduction, p 11.

For the names in the opening invocation, comp. above, IV, 10; on the Vratas and the study of the different Âranyaka sections chiefly treated of in this book, see above, II, 11. 12, and the Introduction, p. 8.

2. Comp. II, 11, 6.

3-5. Comp. II, 12, 10, and the note of Nârâyana, p. 160 of the German edition.

6. When he has vomited, or when his beard has been shaved,

7. When he has eaten flesh or partaken of a Srāddha or birth dinner,

8. During the days that immediately follow on (days of) study in the village,

9. Three nights (and days), if (he has been) put out of order,

10. (Or has been violently) seized by others,

11. And during the second half of the days that precede (?) the Parvan days,

12. And if fire-flames, lightning, thunder, (heavy) rains, and great clouds appear,

13. And if a storm (blows) that carries away pebbles, as long as that lasts.

2, 1. During four months after the full moon of Āshādha let him not study.

2. Especially the Sakvari verses (are concerned by what has been declared). Such are the rules.

KHANDA 2.

3. Let them go to a clean spot in the north-eastern direction, that receives its light from the east.

4. The drawing of water (should be done) before sunrise,

6. Comp. IV, 7, 42. See also Ait Āranyaka V, 3, 9.

7. Comp. IV, 7, 5.

2, 2. It seems to me that this Sūtra should be divided into two (after sakvaiyāḥ), so that the words iti niyamāḥ would correspond to iti bhāṣikam, chap. 2, 13.

3. Comp. II, 12, 11. Perhaps the Petersburg Dictionary is right in proposing for prāggyotisham the translation, vor Anbruch des Lichtes. Nārāyaṇa says, prāk purastāt gyotir yasmin tam . . . piaderam.

5. And the entering into the circle with this verse, 'She who smells of salve' (Rig-veda X, 146, 6).

6. The circle should have its entrance to the east or to the north; it should be (praised as) excellent among the people, not too spacious, not too narrow.

7. The final expiation (should extend) to the Vāmadevyā.

8. And the invitation to resume the recitation (is done in the following way) .

9. After they have sipped water that stands outside the circle,

10. Let them resume the recitation, having performed the expiation.

11. If the vessel used in the expiation is damaged, sprinkling (with water forms) the expiatory act (to be performed for it).

12. (That) sprinkling, however, (one should perform) holding gold or a bunch of Darbha grass in his hand.

13. So far what pertains to the general rules.

KHANDA 3.

1. Now after they have entered the circle—

2. The teacher sits down with his face to the east, the others, according to their rank, (sit down) towards the south, with their faces to the north.

5. The Mandala is a circular space marked by a line of water.

6. I am doubtful whether we should read vā ganâgrīyam and translate as I have done in accordance with the note of Nârâyana, or if the reading should be vâ-ganâgrīyam, 'not in the presence of people,' so that ganâgrīya would mean ganânâm agre.

7. On the expiation (sânti) comp. chap. 3, 12.

3, 2, 3. Comp. IV, 8, 2-4.

3. If that is impossible, with their faces to all directions.

4. Let them expect the rising of the sun,

5. And when they behold it in its splendour,

6. Let them with (the words), 'Recite, sir!' seize with their hands, holding the right hand uppermost, the feet of the teacher, which have been washed, with the right (hand) the right (foot), with the left the left,

7. And having then put (the hands) into the vessel used for the expiation, into water in which pieces of Dûrvâ stalks are, let them begin their study, when their hands have ceased to drip.

8. This is the rite. But when they are tired, let one of them bring it about that the vessel used for the expiation be not empty.

9. And all (should do so) at the beginning and the end of (each) Adhyâya.

10. (All) that is done continuously, without interruption.

11. Now the expiation.

12. The syllable OM, the Mahâvyâhr̥itis, the Sâvitṛī, the Rathantara, the Bṛihat, the Vâmadevya, Bṛihat and Rathantara with repetition and Kakubh-forming.

6. Comp. above, II, 5, 10, &c.

7. The translation of apinvamânaiḥ pânibhiḥ is conjectural. Nârâyana's explanation of apinvamâna by asamsr̥ish/a is inadmissible.

10. Nârâyana explains this Sûtra in the following way. If it is impossible, for any reason, to recite the whole text, only the beginning and the concluding words of each Adhyâya (see Sûtra 9) are to be repeated; and these should be recited without interruption so as to form one continual text.

12. Comp. above, III, 4, 5.

13. These (holy words and verses) are (thus) made to attain (the number of) ten.

14. 'Of decades consists the Virāg'—thus says the Brāhmaṇa.

KHANDA 4.

1. 'Unerring mind, vigorous eye (is) the sun, the noblest of the stars. Inauguration, do no harm to me!'—with (these words) they look at Savitrī (i. e. the sun).

13. The Gāyatrī is one verse; the Rathantara and the Brīhat are Pragāthas which are changed in the usual way into Trīkas; the Vāmadevyā is one Trīka: thus the number of ten is obtained.

14 Kaush. Brāhmaṇa 17, 3, 19, 5.

4, 1. The formula 'Adabdhām manāḥ,' &c. has to be recited before each of the single Āraṇyaka texts (the Sakvarī verses, the Mahāvīrata, &c.), to this formula are added, before or after it, as the case may be, other texts specified in the Sūtras 2-8. Of these there can be no doubt about the meaning of Sūtras 7, 8, treating of the introductory formulas of the Samhitā section (Kaush. Ār. VII-VIII) and of the Manthā section (ibid. IX). before the text adabdhām, &c are to be added, in the first case the formula ritam vadishyāmi, &c., in the second case two Rīkas addressed to Savitrī. These formulas and verses have been received into the Āraṇyaka text and are found there in the order here stated, at the beginning of books VII and IX. The meaning of the words samhitānām tu pūrvam (Sūtra 7) having thus been established, I can see no reason why we should not interpret the words sakvarīnām tu pūrvam (Sūtra 3) quite in the same way. Thus the introductory benediction for the recital of the Sakvarī verses would consist, firstly of the verses stated in Sūtra 4, then of the formula adabdhām, &c; those verses would have to be repeated again after the Sakvarī verses (end of Sūtra 4). The recitation of the Mahāvīrata (Sūtras 1, 2) and of the Upanishads (Sūtra 5) is preceded by adabdhām, &c., and then by the four verses stated in Sūtra 2. The interpretation which Nārāyaṇa gives of this Sūtra is not quite the same as that which I have here proposed; see p. 163 of the German edition.

2. One (verse), 'You both the gladdening one' (Rig veda X, 131, 4), and the three (verses), 'Blessing to us on the paths' (Rig-veda X, 63, 15-17) (are to be repeated before the recitation) of the Mahāvratā (chapter).

3. But (at that) of the Sakvarī (verses) before (the formula mentioned in the first Sūtra):

4. The three Trikas, 'To him, the thirsty one' (Rig-veda VI, 42, 1-3), 'The wealthiest (Soma), O wealthy one' (VI, 44, 1-3), 'Him who does no harm to you' (VI, 44, 4-6), (the verse), 'To him, to him the sap of the herb' (VI, 42, 4), (and the verse), 'Verily thou art a hero' (VIII, 81, 28)—thus for the Sakvarī (verses) before and afterwards.

5. Now for the Upanishad (texts)—

6. The same (recitation) as for the Mahāvratā.

7. For the Samhitās, however, before (the text given in the first Sūtra the formula has to be recited), 'I shall speak right, I shall speak truth (&c.)'—this is the difference (in the case of the Samhitās).

8. Now for the Mantha the two verses (have to be recited) before (the formula given in the first Sūtra), 'This we entreat of Savitar,' 'That glorious (splendour) of Savitar' (Rig-veda V, 82, 1; III. 62, 10).

4. According to the reading of some MSS. we should have to translate, or (the verse), 'Verily,' &c.

7 On the Samhitās (Kaush. Âr. VII, VIII) see Max Müller, Rig-veda Prâtisākhya, pp. 4 seq; Alt. Âranyaka III (pp. 305 seqq., ed. Bibl. Ind.: Sacred Books of the East, I, pp. 247 seq.)

9. With (the formula), 'Unerring mind' (see Sūtra 1), then follow the expiatory formulas that belong to the (different) sections.

10. (All) this on one day,

KHANDA 5.

Khanda 4, 11. Now if the time for rising has come, they drive away (all) evil,

12. Perform the standing expiation,

13. And look at the sun with (the words), 'From here I take out the brightness(?).'

Khanda 5, 1. 'That (I place) within myself'—with (these words they turn their thoughts to the universal) Self that is placed (within themselves?)—three times repeated (?).

2. With (the formula), 'May happiness rejoice in me and glory; may happiness rejoice with me and glory;—

3. 'Together with Indra, with the hosts, with power, with glory, with strength I will rise'—he rises up.

11, 12. Nārāyaṇa has the following note: 'The evil which is attached to their body, such as dirt, they drive away, i e. they remove it by means of their reciting (of the sacred texts), and then they perform the standing expiation which has been declared above, which begins with the syllable Om and with the Mahāvāhr̥tis' (see chap 3, 12).

5, 1. Nārāyaṇa says that dadhe is supplied to this Mantra from the preceding Sūtra, and so indeed the Mantra is given in the Aitareya recension. The translation of abhinīhitam trir hitam is merely tentative; see Nārāyaṇa's note, p 165, of the German edition. Perhaps abhinīhitam should be taken in its grammatical value, and the Sūtra should be translated, "'That (I place) into myself (ātmani)"—with these words (they look) at themselves, pronouncing (the word ātmani) with Abhinidhāna, three times repeated (?).' On abhinidhāna, comp. Professor Max Müller's edition of the R̥g-veda Prātisākhya, pp. cxvii seqq.

4. 'May happiness rise to me; may glory rise to me'—when he has risen.

5. 'Hereby I shake off the hater, the rival, the evil one, and the bringer of misfortune'—with (this formula) having shaken the end of the garment,—

6. The hymn, 'Away those to the east' (Rig-veda X, 131), the two (verses), 'And may Indra have mercy upon us' (II, 41, 11. 12), the one (verse), 'Of what we are in fear, O Indra' (VIII, 50, 13)—(when these texts have been murmured), they look with (the verse), 'A ruler indeed, great art thou' (X, 152, 1) to the east; with (the verse), 'The giver of bliss' (X, 152, 2) to the south, turned to the right; with (the verse), 'Away the Rakshas' (X, 152, 3) to the west; with (the verse), 'Destroy, O Indra, our' (X, 152, 4) to the north, turned to the left; with (the verse), 'Away, O Indra' (X, 152, 5) to the sky, turned to the right.

KHANDA 6.

1. Having worshipped the Sun with (the verses), 'Savitri from the west,' 'This eye' (Rig-veda X, 36, 14; VII, 66, 16),

2. They turn away, come back, sit down.

3. With (the words), 'As the water is appeased'—they draw water out of the vessel used for the expiation,

4. Pour it out on the ground,

5. Spread (some) of that (water over the ground) with (the words), 'As the earth (is appeased),'—

6, 2. Nārāyaṇa explains vyāvartamānāḥ by parāvartamānadharmayuktāḥ

5 Perhaps we should read asyām (scil. pṛthivyām) abhi-

6. He (then) smears it on his right shoulder with (the words), 'Thus may peace dwell in me.'

7. In the same way a second time.

8. In the same way a third time.

9. 'Piece by piece thou art produced; piece by piece thou risest up, bring welfare to us, O house!'—with (this text they) take pieces of Dûrvâ stalks (out of the vessel of water), put them on their heads,

10. (And make water-offerings with the formulas), 'May Agni satiate himself; may Vâyu satiate himself; may Sûrya satiate himself; may Viṣṇu satiate himself, may Pragâpati satiate himself; may Virûpāksha satiate himself; may Sahasrâksha satiate himself; may all beings satiate themselves.'

11. (Then) Sumantu, Gaimini, Vaisampâyana, Paila, and the other teachers (receive their offerings).

12. (Then) every one (worships in the same way) his fathers.

13. With (the text), 'To the sea you' (Sraut. IV, 11, 11) they pour out the water,

14. Murmur the Vâmadevya,

15. And separate according to their pleasure.

16. (The final benedictory formula runs thus), 'Through the power of wisdom, of Sruti and Smṛiti, as handed down by tradition, through (that power) which has its measure in (the Vedic texts) that have been gone through(?), and which is possessed of karshanti, and translate, 'they draw (lines of that water) on the (earth).'

ÂSVALÂYANA-GRHYA-SÛTRA.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE

ÂSVALÂYANA-GRÎHYA-SÛTRA.

MOST of the questions referring to the Grîhya-sûtra of Âsvalâyana will be treated of more conveniently in connection with the different subjects which we shall have to discuss in our General Introduction to the Grîhya-sûtras. Here I wish only to call attention to a well-known passage of Shadgurusishya, in which that commentator gives some statements on the works composed by Âsvalâyana and by his teacher Saunaka. As an important point in that passage has, as far as I can see, been misunderstood by several eminent scholars, I may perhaps be allowed here to try and correct that misunderstanding, though the point stands in a less direct connection with the Grîhya-sûtra than with another side of the literary activity of Âsvalâyana.

*Shadgurusishya*¹, before speaking of Âsvalâyana, makes the following statements with regard to Âsvalâyana's teacher, Saunaka. 'There was,' he says, 'the Sâkala Samhitâ (of the Rig-veda), and the Bâshkala Samhitâ; following these two Samhitâs and the twenty-one Brâhmanas, adopting principally the Aitareyaka and supplementing it by the other texts, he who was revered by the whole number of great Rishis composed the first Kalpa-sûtra.' He then goes on to speak of Âsvalâyana—'Saunaka's pupil was the venerable Âsvalâyana. He who knew everything he had learnt from that teacher, composed a Sûtra and announced (to Saunaka that he had done so)².' Saunaka then destroyed his own Sûtra, and determined that Āsvalāyana's Sūtra should be adopted by the students of that Vedic Sākhā. Thus, says Shadguru-shishya, there were twelve works of Saunaka by which a correct knowledge of the Rig-veda was preserved, and three works of Āsvalāyana. Saunaka's dasa granthās were, the five Anukramanīs, the two Vidhānas, the Bārhaddaivata, the Piātisākhya, and a Smānta work¹. Āsvalāyana, on the other hand, composed the Srauta-sūtra in twelve Adhyāyas, the Grīhya in four Adhyāyas, and the fourth Āraṇyaka. this is Āsvalāyana's great Sūtra composition².

² This seems to me to be the meaning of sûtram kṛtvâ nyavedayat;

Here we have an interesting and important statement by which the authorship of a part of the Aitareyāraṇyaka, which would thus be separated from the rest of that text, is ascribed, not to Mahidāsa Aitareya, but to an author of what may be called the historical period of Vedic antiquity, to Āsvalāyana.

But what is the fourth Āraṇyaka to which this passage refers? Is it the text which is now set down, for instance, in Dr. Rāgendralāla Mitra's edition, as the fourth Āraṇyaka of the Aitareyinas?

Before we give an answer to this question, attention must be called to other passages referring, as it could seem, to another part, namely, the fifth part of the Āraṇyaka.

Sāyana, in his great commentary on the Rig-veda, very frequently quotes the pañcāmāraṇyaka as belonging to Saunaka. Thus in vol. i, p. 112, ed. Max Muller, he says : pañcāmāraṇyaka aushnihatrikāsītir iti khande Saunakena sūtritam surūpakritnum ūtaya iti tīny endra sāsasi rayim iti dve iti. There is indeed in the fifth Āraṇyaka a chapter beginning with the words aushniha trikāsītī, in which the words quoted by Sāyana occur³. Similar quotations, in the case is similar to that where a pupil goes on his rounds for alms and announces (nivedayati) to his teacher what he has received. Prof. Max Muller translates these words differently, according to him they mean that Āsvalāyana 'made a Sūtra and taught it.'

which the fifth Āraṇyaka is assigned to Saunaka, are found in Sāyana's commentary on the Āraṇyaka itself, see, for instance, p. 97, line 19, p. 116, line 3.

Thus it seems that the authorship of both the fourth and the fifth Āraṇyaka was ascribed to teachers belonging to the Sūtra period of Vedic literature, viz. to Saunaka and to Āsvalāyana respectively. And so we find the case stated by both Professor Weber, in his 'Voilesungen uber indische Liteiaturgeschichte¹', and Dr. Rāgendralāla Mitra, in the Introduction to his edition of the Aitareya *Āraṇyaka*².

But we must ask ourselves. Are the two books of the Āraṇyaka collection, ascribed to those two authors, really two different books? It is a surprising fact that Shadgurusishya, while speaking of Āsvalāyana's authorship of the fourth book, and while at the same time intending, as he evidently does, to give a complete list of Saunaka's compositions, does not mention the fifth Āraṇyaka among the works of that author. In order to account for this omission the conjecture seems to suggest itself that Shadgurusishya, when speaking of the fourth Āraṇyaka as belonging to Āsvalāyana, means the same work which Sāyana sets down as the fifth, and which he ascribes to Saunaka. At first sight this conjecture may seem perhaps rather hazardous or unnatural, however I believe that, if we compare the two texts themselves which are concerned, we shall find it very probable and even evident. What do those two Āraṇyaka books contain? The fourth is very short: it does not fill more than one page in the printed edition. Its contents consist exclusively of the text of the Mahānāmni or Sakvarī verses, which seem to belong to a not less remote

² P. 11. If this assumption be admitted, the proper conclusion to be arrived at would also be that the whole of the fifth Book belongs to Saunaka, and the whole of the fourth Book to Āsvalāyana. P. 12. The writings of both Āsvalāyana and Saunaka were recited in the Āraṇyaka, etc.

antiquity than the average of the Rig-veda hymns. They can indeed be considered as forming part of the Rig-veda Samhitā, and it is only on account of the peculiar mystical holiness ascribed to these verses, that they were not studied in the village but in the forest¹, and were consequently received not into the body of the Samhitā itself, but into the Āiānyaka. They are referred to in all Brāhmaṇa texts, and perhaps we can even go so far as to pronounce our opinion that some passages of the Rig-veda hymns themselves allude to the Sakvarī verses:

yaś kṛakvarishu br̥hātā iavcendic sushman adadhātā Vasishṭhā (Rig-veda VII, 33, 4).

rikām tvaḥ posham āste pupushvān gāyatām tvo gāyati sakvarishu (Rig-veda X, 71, 11).

So much for the fourth Āiānyaka. The fifth contains a description of the Mahāvīata ceremony. To the same subject also the first book is devoted, with the difference that the first book is composed in the Brāhmaṇa style, the fifth in the Sūtra style².

Now which of these two books can it be that Shadgurusishya reckons as belonging to the 'Āsvalāyanasūtraka?' It is impossible that it should be the fourth, for the Mahā-nāmñī verses never were considered by Indian theologians as the work of a human author; they shared in the apauruṣheyatva of the Veda, and to say that they have been composed by Āsvalāyana, would be inconsistent with the most firmly established principles of the literary history of the Veda both as conceived by the Indians and by ourselves. And even if we were to admit that the Mahā-nāmñī verses can have been assigned, by an author like Shadgurusishya, to Āsvalāyana,—and we cannot admit this,—there is no possibility whatever that he can have used the expression 'Āsvalāyanasūtrākam' with regard to the Mahānāmni; to apply the designation of a Sūtra to the Mahānāmni hymn would be no less absurd than to apply it to any Sūkta whatever of the Rik-Saṃhitā. On the other hand, the fifth book of the Āraṇyaka is a Sūtra; it is the only part of the whole body of the Āraṇyaka collection which is composed in the Sūtra style. And it treats of a special part of the Rig-veda ritual the rest of which is embodied in its entirety, with the omission only of that very part, in the two great Sūtras of Āsvalāyana. There seems to me, therefore, to be little doubt as to the fifth Āraṇyaka really being the text referred to by Shadgurusishya, though I do not know how to explain his setting down this book as the fourth. And I may add that there is a passage, hitherto, as far as I know, unnoticed, in Sāyana's Sāma-veda commentary, in which that author directly assigns the fifth Āraṇyaka not, as in the Rig-veda commentary, to Saunaka, but to Āsvalāyana. Sāyana there says¹: yathā bahvrikām adhyāpakā mahā-vratapiyogapratipādakam Āsvalāyananirmitam kalpa-sūtriam aranye dhīyamānāḥ pañkamam āraṇyakam iti vedatvena vyavaharanti.

Instead of asserting, therefore, that of the two last Āraṇyakas of the Aitareya the one is ascribed to Saunaka, the other to Āsvalāyana, we must state the case otherwise: not two Āraṇyakas were, according to Sāyana and Shadgurusishya, composed by those Sūtrakāyas, but one, viz the fifth, which forms a sort of supplement to the great body of the Sūtras of that Karana, and which is ascribed either to Saunaka or to Āsvalāyana. Perhaps further research will enable us to decide whether that Sūtra portion of the Āraṇyaka, or we may say quite as well, that Āraṇyaka portion of the Sūtra, belongs to the author of the Srauta-sūtra, or should be considered as a remnant of a more ancient composition, of which the portion studied in the forest has survived, while the portion which was taught in the village was superseded by the more recent Āsvalāyana-sūtra.

There would be still many questions with which an Introduction to Āsvalāyana would have to deal; thus the relation between Āsvalāyana and Saunaka, which we had intended to treat of here with reference to a special point, would have to be further discussed with regard to several other of its bearings, and the results which follow therefrom as to the position of Āsvalāyana in the history of Vedic literature would have to be stated. But we prefer to reserve the discussion of these questions for the General Introduction to the Grīhya-sūtras.

ÂSVALÂYANA-GRHYA-SÛTRA.

ADHYÂYA I, KANDIKÂ 1.

1. The (rites) based on the spreading (of the three sacred fires) have been declared; we shall declare the Gr̥hya (rites).

2 There are three (kinds of) Pākayagñas, the hutās, (i.e. the sacrifices) offered over the fire; over something that is not the fire, the prahutās, and at the feeding of Brāhmaṇas, those offered in the Brahman.

3. And they quote also Rikas, 'He who with a piece of wood or with an oblation, or with knowledge ("veda").'

1, 1. The spreading (vitāna or, as it is also called, vihāra or vistāra) of the sacred fires is the taking of two of the three sacrificial fires, the Âhavanīya fire and the Dakṣiṇâgni, out of the Gāihapatya fire (see, for instance, Weber's Indische Studien, IX, 216 seq.). The rites based on, or connected with the vitāna, are the rites forming the subject of the Śrauta ritual, which are to be performed with the three fires

2. Comp Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya I, 5, 1; I, 10, 7. The division here is somewhat different from that given by Sāṅkhāyana, what Sāṅkhāyana calls ahuta, is here prahuta ('sacrificed up'), the prahutās of Sāṅkhāyana form here no special category, the prāsitas of Sāṅkhāyana are the brahmaṇi hutās of Âśvalāyana. Thus Âśvalāyana has three categories, while Sāṅkhāyana (and quite in the same way Pāṭaskara I. 4, 1) gives four. Nārāyaṇa mentions as an example of prahuta sacrifices the bahiharana prescribed below, I, 2, 3.

3. Rig-veda VIII, 19, 5, 'The mortal who with a piece of wood, or with an oblation, or with knowledge worships Agni, who with adoration (worships him) offering such sacrifices,' &c.

4. Even he who only puts a piece of wood (on the fire) full of belief, should think, 'Here I offer a sacrifice; adoration to that (deity) !'

(The Rik quoted above then says), 'He who with an oblation'—and, 'He who with knowledge,' even by learning only satisfaction is produced (in the gods).

Seeing this the Rishi has said, 'To him who does not keep away from himself the cows, to him who longs for cows, who dwells in the sky, speak a wonderful word, sweeter than ghee and honey.' Thereby he means, 'This my word, sweeter than ghee and honey, is satisfaction (to the god); may it be sweeter.'

(And another Rishi says), 'To thee, O Agni, by this Rik we offer an oblation prepared by our heart; may these be oxen, bulls, and cows.' (Thereby he means), 'They are my oxen, bulls, and cows (which I offer to the god), they who study this text, reciting it for themselves (as their Svādhyāya).'

(And further on the Rik quoted above says), 'He who (worships Agni) with adoration, offering rich sacrifices.' 'Verily also by the performing of adoration (the gods may be worshipped); for the gods are not beyond the performing of adoration; adoration verily is sacrifice'—thus runs a Brāhmaṇa.

4. The words of the Rik, 'with an oblation,' are here repeated, the Vedic instrumental āhuti being replaced and explained by the regular form āhutyā.

The following Rik is taken from the eighth Mandala, 24, 20. The god compared there with a rutting bull is Indra.

The following verse is Rig-veda VI, 16, 47; we may doubt as to the correctness of the explanation given in our text, by which it is referred to the persons studying the hymns of the Rishi. All these quotations of course are meant to show that the knowledge of the Veda and the performing of namas (adoration) is equivalent to a real sacrifice.

KANDIKĀ 2.

1. Now he should make oblations in the evening and in the morning of prepared sacrificial food,

2. To the deities of the Agnihotra, to Soma Vanaspati, to Agni and Soma, to Indra and Agni, to Heaven and Earth, to Dhanvantari, to Indra, to the Visve devās, to Brahman.

3. He says Svâhâ, and then he offers the Balis—

4. To those same deities, to the waters, to the herbs and trees, to the house, to the domestic deities, to the deities of the ground (on which the house stands),

5. To Indra and Indra's men, to Yama and Yama's men, to Varuna and Varuna's men, to Soma and Soma's men—these (oblations he makes) to the different quarters (of the horizon, of which those are the presiding deities).

6. To Brahman and Brahman's men in the middle,

2, 1. This is the Vairvadeva sacrifice; comp. Sâṅkhâyana-Gr̥hya II, 14, &c.

2. The deities of the Agnihotra are Sûrya, Agni, and Pragâpati.

On Soma Vanaspati see the quotations given in Bohtlingk-Roth's Dictionary s. v. vanaspati, 2.

3. I think the division of the Sûtras should be altered, so that svâhetî would belong to Sûtra 2, and the third Sûtra would consist only of the words atha baliharanam. In this case we should have to translate,

(1) Now he should make oblations, &c.

(2) With the words, 'To the deities of the Agnihotra (i. e. to Agni, to Sûrya, to Pragâpati), to Soma Vanaspati, &c., svâhâ!'

(3) Then (follows) the offering of the Balis.

Comp. Sâṅkh.-Gr̥hya II, 14, 4. 5, which passage seems to confirm the view expressed here.

5. Manu III, 87.

7. To the Visve devâs, to all day-walking beings—thus by day;

8. To the night-walking (beings)—thus at night.

9. To the Rakshas—thus to the north.

10. 'Svadhâ to the fathers (i. e. Manes)'—with these words he should pour out the remnants to the south, with the sacrificial cord suspended over the right shoulder.

KANDIKÂ 3.

1. Now wherever he intends to perform a sacrifice, let him besmear (with cowdung) a surface of the dimension at least of an arrow on each side; let him draw six lines thereon, one turned to the north, to the west (of the spot on which the fire is to be placed); two (lines) turned to the east, at the two different ends (of the line mentioned first); three (lines) in the middle (of those two); let him sprinkle that (place with water), establish the (sacred) fire (thereon), put (two or three pieces of fuel) on it, wipe (the ground) round (the fire), strew (grass) round (it), to the east, to the south, to the west, to the north, ending (each time) in the north. Then (follows) silently the sprinkling (of water) round (the fire).

2. With two (Kusa blades used as) strainers the purifying of the Âgya (is done).

4. The strewing (of grass) round (the fire) may be done or not done in the Âgya offerings.

5. So also the two Âgya portions (may optionally be sacrificed) in the Pākayagñas.

6. And the (assistance of a) Brahman (is optional), except at the sacrifice to Dhanvantari and at the sacrifice of the spit-ox (offered to Rudra).

7. Let him sacrifice with (the words), 'To such and such a deity svâhâ!'

8. If there is no rule (as to the deities to whom the sacrifice belongs, they are) Agni, Indra, Pragâpati, the Visve devâs, Brahman.

9. (Different Pākayagñas, when) offered at the same time, should have the same Barhis (sacrificial grass), the same fuel, the same Âgya, and the same (oblation to Agni) Svishṭakṛt.

KANDIKĀ 4.

1. During the northern course of the sun, in the time of the increasing moon, under an auspicious Nakshatra the tonsure (of the child's head), the initiation (of a Brahmacārin), the cutting of the beard, and marriage (should be celebrated).

2. According to some (teachers), marriage (may be celebrated) at any time.

3. Before those (ceremonies) let him sacrifice four Āgya oblations—

4. With the three (verses), 'Agni, thou purifiest life' (Rig-veda IX, 66, 10 seq.), and with (the one verse), 'Pragāpati, no other one than thou' (Rig-veda X, 121, 10).

5. Or with the Vyāhritis.

6. According to some (teachers), the one and the other.

7. No such (oblations), according to some (teachers).

8. At the marriage the fourth oblation with the verse, 'Thou (O Agni) art Aryaman towards the girls' (Rig-veda V, 3, 2).

KANDIKĀ 5.

1. Let him first examine the family (of the intended bride or bridegroom), as it has been said above.

4, 1. Sāṅkh-Grihya I, 5, 2-5.

5. With the words, bhūh, bhuvaḥ, svaḥ, and with the three words together.

3. Let him marry a girl that shows the characteristics of intelligence, beauty, and moral conduct, and who is free from disease.

4. As the characteristics (mentioned in the preceding Sūtra) are difficult to discern, let him make eight lumps (of earth), recite over the lumps the following formula, ‘Right has been born first, in the beginning; on the right truth is founded. For what (destiny) this girl is born, that may she attain here. What is true may that be seen,’ and let him say to the girl, ‘Take one of these.’

5. If she chooses the (lump of earth taken) from a field that yields two crops (in one year), he may know, ‘Her offspring will be rich in food.’ If from a cow-stable, rich in cattle. If from the earth of a Vēdi (altar), rich in holy lustre. If from a pool which does not dry up, rich in everything. If from a gambling-place, addicted to gambling. If from a place where four roads meet, wandering to different directions. If from a barren spot, poor. If from a burial-ground, (she will) bring death to her husband.

4. I prefer the reading of the Bibliotheca Indica edition, countenanced by Nārāyaṇa’s commentary, durvigñeyāṇi lakṣaṇāṇīti, &c. The lumps are to be taken from the eight places mentioned in Sūtra 5.

5. No doubt the correct reading is not that given by Nārāyaṇa and accepted by Professor Stenzler, dvipravṛgīṇī, but vipravṛgīṇī, as four of Professor Stenzler’s MSS. read (see his Variae Lectiones, p. 48, and the Petersburg Dictionary s. v. vipravṛgīṇī).

KANDIKĀ 6.

1. (The father) may give away the girl, having decked her with ornaments, pouring out a libation of water : this is the wedding (called) Brāhma. A son born by her (after a wedding of this kind) brings purification to twelve descendants and to twelve ancestors on both (the husband's and the wife's) sides.

2. He may give her, having decked her with ornaments, to an officiating priest, whilst a sacrifice with the three (Srauta) fires is going on : this (is the wedding called) Daiva. (A son) brings purification to ten descendants and to ten ancestors on both sides.

3. They fulfil the law together : this (is the wedding called) Prāgāpatya. (A son) brings purification to eight descendants and to eight ancestors on both sides.

4. He may marry her after having given a bull and a cow (to the girl's father) : this (is the wedding called) Ārsha. (A son) brings purification to seven descendants and to seven ancestors on both sides.

5. He may marry her, after a mutual agreement has been made (between the lover and the damsel) : this (is the wedding called) Gāndharva.

6. He may marry her after gladdening (her father) by money : this (is the wedding called) Āsura.

According to those teachers whose opinion is related in Sūtras 6-14, the leading round the fire, the treading on the stone, and the offering of fried grain (with the three parts of the Mantra, Sūtra 13) are repeated thrice, then follows the offering prescribed in Sūtra 14, so that the last two offerings follow immediately on each other. KANDIKÂ 9.

1. Beginning from the seizing of (the bride's) hand (i. e. from the wedding), he should worship the domestic (fire) himself, or his wife, or also his son, or his daughter, or a pupil.

2. (The fire) should be kept constantly.

3. When it goes out, however, the wife should fast: thus (say) some (teachers).

4. The time for setting it in a blaze and for sacrificing in it has been explained by (the rules given with regard to) the Agnihotra,

5. And the sacrificial food, except meat.

6. But if he likes he may (perform the sacrifice) with rice, barley, or sesamum.

The object of this passage is, in my opinion, to explain why the southern Āgyabhāga belongs to Soma, who is the presiding deity of the north, and the northern Āgyabhāga to Agni, the presiding deity of the south-east. Professor Stenzler's opinion about this paragraph is somewhat different.

KANDIKĀ 11.

1. Now (follows) the ritual of the animal sacrifice.
2. Having prepared to the north of the fire the place for the Sāmitra fire, having given drink (to the animal which he is going to sacrifice), having washed the animal, having placed it to the east (of the fire) with its face to the west, having made oblations with the two *Rik*s, 'Agni as our messenger' (Rig-veda I, 12, 1 seq.), let him touch (the animal) from behind with a fresh branch on which there are leaves, with (the formula), 'Agreeable to such and such (a deity) I touch thee.'
3. He sprinkles it from before with water in which rice and barley are, with (the formula), 'Agreeable to such and such (a deity) I sprinkle thee.'
4. Having given (to the animal) to drink of that (water), he should pour out the rest (of it) along its right fore-foot.
5. Having carried fire round (it), performing that act only (without repeating a corresponding Mantra), they lead it to the north.
6. In front of it they carry a fire-brand.

11, 2. The Sāmitra fire (literally, the fire of the Samitri, who prepares the flesh of the immolated animal) is the one mentioned below in Sūtras 7 and 10. Comp. Indische Studien, X, 345. 'I touch thee' is upākaromi; comp. Kātyāyana-Srauta-sūtra VI, 3, 19. 26.

6. It seems that this fire-brand is the same which had been carried round the animal, according to Sūtra 5. Comp. Kātyāyana-Srauta-sūtra VI, 5, 2-5.

7 This is the Sâmitra (fire).

8. With the two Vapâsrapanî ladles the 'performer' touches the animal.

9 The sacrificer (touches) the performer.

10. To the west of the Sâmitra (fire) he (the Samitri) kills (the animal), the head of which is turned to the east or to the west, the feet to the north; and having placed a grass-blade on his side of the (animal's) navel, (the 'performer') draws out the omentum, cuts off the omentum, seizes it with the two Agnisrapanîs, sprinkles it with water, warms it at the Sâmitra (fire), takes it before that fire, roasts it, being seated to the south, goes round (the two fires), and sacrifices it.

11. At the same fire they cook a mess of food.

12. Having cut off the eleven Avadânas (or portions which have to be cut off) from the animal, from all its limbs, having boiled them at the Sâmitra (fire),

8. On the two Vapâsrapanîs, comp. Kâtyâyana-Srauta-sûtra VI, 5, 7; Indische Studien, X, 345. The act which is here attributed to the kartṛi ('performer'), belongs in the Srauta ritual to the incumbencies of the Pratiprasthâtṛi.

10. On the way in which animals had to be killed at sacrifices, see Weber's Indische Studien, IX, 222 seq.

On the position of the head and the feet of the victim, comp. Kâtyâyana-Srauta-sûtra VI, 5, 16. 17.

According to Kâtyâyana VI, 6, 8 seq. a grass-blade is placed on the dead animal's body before the navel (agreṇa nâbhim); through that grass-blade he cuts into the body and draws out the omentum.

'That fire' is, according to Nârâyana, not the Sâmitra but the Aupâsana fire. In the same way in the Srauta ritual the warming of the omentum is performed at the Sâmitra, the boiling at the Âhavanîya fire. Kâtyâyana VI, 6, 13. 16

11. The Aupâsana fire is referred to.

KANDIKĀ 12.

1. At a Kaitya sacrifice he should before the Svishṭakṛit (offering) offer a Bali to the Kaitya.

2. If, however, (the Kaitya) is distant, (he should send his Bali) through a leaf-messenger.

14. 'A Paśāvat cuts off three portions. Having performed the Upastarāṇa and the Pratyabhigāṇa (the first and second pouring out of Āgrya) he sacrifices (the cut-off portions).' Nārāyaṇa.

15. On the rites regarding the spit, see Kātyāyana VI, 10, 1 seq., Indische Studien, X, 346.

12, 1. There seems to be no doubt that Professor Stenzler is right in giving to kaitya in this chapter its ordinary meaning of religious shrine ('Denkmal'). The text shows that the Kaitya sacrifice was not offered like other sacrifices at the sacrificer's home, but that in some cases the offering would have to be sent, at least symbolically, to distant places. This confirms Professor Stenzler's translation of kaitya. Nārāyaṇa explains kaitya by kṛite bhava, and says, 'If he makes a vow to a certain deity, saying, "If I obtain such and such a desire, I shall offer to thee an Āgrya sacrifice, or a Sthāṅpāka, or an animal"—and if he then obtains what he had wished for and performs that sacrifice to that deity—this is a kaitya sacrifice.' I do not know anything that supports this statement as to the meaning of kaitya.

2. 'He should make of a leaf a messenger and a carrying-pole.' Nārāyaṇa

It is not clear whether besides this image of a messenger there was also a real messenger who had to carry the Bali to the Kaitya,

3. With the Rik, 'Where thou knowest, O tree' (Rig-veda V, 5, 10), let him make two lumps (of food), put them on a carrying-pole, hand them over to the messenger, and say to him, 'Carry this Bali to that (Kaitya).'

4. (He gives him the lump) which is destined for the messenger, with (the words), 'This to thee.'

5. If there is anything dangerous between (them and the Kaitya), (he gives him) some weapon also.

6. If a navigable river is between (them and the Kaitya, he gives him) also something like a raft with (the words), 'Hereby thou shalt cross.'

He says that Sūtras 2-4—as indeed is evidently the case—refer to the Pumsa-ṽana, and in Sūtra 5 begins the Anavalobhana (comp. garbhara-kshana, Sāṅkh. I, 21). To me it seems more probable that the text describes one continuous ceremony. There is no difficulty in supposing that of the Anavalobhana, though it is mentioned in Sūtra 1, no description is given in the following Sūtras, the same being the case undoubtedly with regard to the Garbhalambhana, of which a description is found in the Āsv.-Parisishā I, 25.

KANDIKĀ 20.

1. Or all (sorts of staffs are to be used) by (men of) all (castes).

2. While (the student) takes hold of him, the teacher sacrifices and then stations himself to the north of the fire, with his face turned to the east.

3. To the east (of the fire) with his face to the west the other one.

4. (The teacher then) fills the two hollows of (his own and the student's) joined hands with water, and with the verse, 'That we choose of Savitṛi' (Rig-veda V, 82, 1) he makes with the full (hollow of his own hands the water) flow down on the full (hollow of) his, (i.e. the student's hands.) Having (thus) poured (the water over his hands) he should with his (own) hand seize his (i.e. the student's) hand together with the thumb, with (the formula), 'By the impulse of the god Savitṛi, with the arms of the two Asvins, with Pūshan's hands I seize thy hand, N.N.!''

5. With (the words), 'Savitṛi has seized thy hand, N.N.!' a second time.

6. With (the words), 'Agni is thy teacher, N.N.!' a third time.

7. He should cause him to look at the sun while the teacher says, 'God Savitṛi, this is thy Brahman; protect him; may he not die.'

20, 2. He offers the oblations prescribed above, chap. 1, 4 3 seq.

8. (And further the teacher says), 'Whose Brahmanārin art thou? The breath's Brahmanārin art thou. Who does initiate thee, and whom (does he initiate)? To whom shall I give thee in charge?'

9. With the half verse, 'A youth, well attired, dressed came hither' (Rig-veda III, 8, 4) he should cause him to turn round from the left to the right.

10. Reaching with his two hands over his (i.e. the student's) shoulders (the teacher) should touch the place of his heart with the following (half verse).

11. Having wiped the ground round the fire, the student should put on a piece of wood silently. 'Silence indeed is what belongs to Pragāpati The student becomes belonging to Pragāpati'—this is understood (in the Śruti).

KANDIKĀ 21.

1. Some (do this) with a Mantra. 'To Agni I have brought a piece of wood, to the great Gāta-vedas. Through that piece of wood increase thou, O Agni; through the Brahman (may) we (increase). Svāhā!'

2. Having put the fuel (on the fire) and having

11. On the wiping of the ground round the fire, comp. above, chap. 3, 1; Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya I, 7, 11. Nārāyaṇa here has the following remarks, which I can scarcely believe to express the real meaning of this Sūtra: 'Here the wiping of the ground round the fire is out of place, because the Samskāras for the fire have already been performed. As to that, it should be observed that the wiping is mentioned here in order that, when fuel is put on the fire in the evening and in the morning, the sprinkling of water and the wiping may be performed. But on this occasion (at the Upanayana) the student does not perform the wiping, &c., and silently puts a piece of wood on that fire.'

touched the fire, he three times wipes off his face with (the words), 'With splendour I anoint myself'

3. 'For with splendour does he anoint himself'—this is understood (in the Śruti).

4. 'On me may Agni bestow insight, on me offspring, on me splendour.

'On me may Indra bestow insight, on me offspring, on me strength (indriya).

'On me may Sûrya bestow insight, on me offspring, on me radiance.

'What thy splendour is, Agni, may I thereby become resplendent.

'What thy vigour is, Agni, may I thereby become vigorous.

'What thy consuming power is, Agni, may I thereby obtain consuming power'—with (these formulas) he should approach the fire, bend his knee, embrace (the teacher's feet), and say to him, 'Recite, sir! The Sâvitri, sir, recite!'

5. Seizing with his (i. e. the student's) garment and with (his own) hands (the student's) hands (the teacher) recites the Sâvitri, (firstly) Pâda by Pâda, (then) hemistich by hemistich, (and finally) the whole (verse).

6. He should make him recite (the Sâvitri) as far as he is able.

7. On the place of his (i. e. the student's) heart (the teacher) lays his hand with the fingers upwards, with (the formula), 'Into my will I take thy heart; after my mind shall thy mind follow; in my word thou shalt rejoice with all thy will; may Bṛihaspati join thee to me.'

KANDIKÂ 22.

1. Having tied the girdle round him and given him the staff, he should impose the (observances of the) Brahmaçarya on him—

2. (With the words), 'A Brahmaçarin thou art. Eat water. Do the service. Do not sleep in the day-time. Devoted to the teacher study the Veda.'

3. Twelve years lasts the Brahmaçarya for (each) Veda, or until he has learnt it.

4. Let him beg (food) in the evening and in the morning.

5. Let him put fuel on (the fire) in the evening and in the morning.

6. Let him beg first of a man who will not refuse,

7. Or of a woman who will not refuse.

8. (In begging he should use the words), 'Sir, give food!'

9. Or, '(Sir, give) Anupravaçantiya (food).'

10. That (which he has received) he should announce to his teacher.

11. He should stand the rest of the day.

12. After sunset (the student) should cook the Brâhmanaudana (or boiled rice with which the Brâhmanas are to be fed) for the Anupravaçantiya sacrifice (the sacrifice to be performed after a part of the Veda has been studied), and should announce to the teacher (that it is ready).

22, 9. Food for the Anupravaçantiya offering; see Sûtra 12

10. Sâṅkhâyaṇa-Gṛhya II, 6, 7, Pâraskara II, 5, 8.

12. 'The student should, according to the rules for the Pâkayagñias, cook the Anupravaçantiya food and announce it to the teacher in the words, "The food is cooked."' Nârâyana.

13 The teacher should sacrifice, while the student takes hold of him, with the verse, 'The wonderful lord of the abode' (Rig-veda I, 18, 6).

14. A second time with the Sâvitri—

15. And whatever else has been studied afterwards.

16. A third time to the Rîshis.

17 A fourth time (the oblation) to (Agni) Svi-shâkrî

18. Having given food to the Brâhmanas he should cause them to pronounce the end of the Veda (study).

19. From that time (the student) should eat no saline food, he should observe chastity, and should sleep on the ground through three nights, or twelve nights, or one year.

20. When he has fulfilled those observances, (the teacher) performs (for him) the 'production of intelligence,' (in the following way).

21. While (the student) towards an unobjectionable direction (of the horizon) sprinkles thrice (water) from the left to the right with a water-pot round a 15 Nârâyana mentions as such texts especially those belonging to the Âraṇyaka, viz the Mahânâmnyas, the Mahâvrata, and the Upanishad. But there is no reason why we should not think quite as well of the Rig-veda Samhitâ itself.

18. 'He should say, "Sirs! Pronounce the end of the Veda (study)." And they should reply, "May an end of the Veda (study) be made"' Nârâyana

20. Comp. above, chap. 15, 2

21. 'The objectionable directions are three, the south, the south-east, the south-west.' Nârâyana.

Susravas, which I have translated by 'glorious,' at the same time means, 'endowed with good hearing,' i.e. successful in study. The student therefore by the same word prays for glory and for success in Vedic learning.

Palâsa (tree) with one root, or round a Kusa bunch, if there is no Palâsa, (the teacher) causes him to say, 'O glorious one, thou art glorious. As thou, O glorious one, art glorious, thus, O glorious one, lead me to glory. As thou art the preserver of the treasure of sacrifice for the gods, thus may I become the preserver of the treasure of the Veda for men.'

22. Thereby, beginning with his having the hair cut, and ending with the giving in charge, the imposing of observances has been declared.

23. Thus for one who has not been initiated before.

24. Now as regards one who has been initiated before :

25. The cutting of the hair is optional,

26. And the 'production of intelligence.'

27. On the giving in charge there are no express rules (in this case);

28. And on the time.

29. (He should recite to him) as the Sâvitri (the Rik), 'That we choose of god Savitrî' (Rig-veda V, 82, 1).

KANDIKÂ 23.

1. He chooses priests (for officiating at a sacrifice) with neither deficient nor superfluous limbs, 'who on

22. The rules stated above for the Upanayana, beginning with the prescription regarding the cutting of the hair (given chap. 19, 10 in the words, 'whose [hair on the] head is arranged; ' see the note there), and ending with the ceremony prescribed chap. 20, 8, are to be extended also to other cases of the imposing of a vow, such, for instance, as that mentioned chap. 18, 9.

25. See chap. 19, 10.

26. See above, Sûtra 20.

27. See chap. 20, 8

28. See chap. 4, 1

29. Instead of the ordinary Sâvitri, Rig-veda III, 62, 10.

the mother's and on the father's side (&c.),' as it has been said above.

2. Let him choose young men as officiating priests : thus (declare) some (teachers).

3. He chooses first the Brahman, then the Hotri, then the Adhvaryu, then the Udgâtri.

4. Or all who officiate at the Ahîna sacrifices and at those lasting one day.

5. The Kaushtakinas prescribe the Sadasya as the seventeenth, saying, 'He is the looker-on at the performances.'

6. This has been said in the two Rikas, 'He whom the officiating priests, performing (the sacrifice) in many ways' (Rig-veda VIII, 58, 1. 2).

7. He chooses the Hotri first.

8. With (the formula), 'Agni is my Hotri; he is my Hotri; I choose thee N. N. as my Hotri' (he chooses) the Hotri.

4. The Ahîna sacrifices are those which last more than one day, but not more than twelve days. (Indische Studien, IX, 373; X, 355.) The priests officiating at such sacrifices are the sixteen stated in the Srauta-sûtra IV, 1, 6. 7 Those besides the sixteen, though they are chosen (saty apî varane) for taking part in the sacred performances, have not the rank of ritvigas (officiating priests); such are the Sadasya, the Samitri, and the Kamasâdhvaryavañ (schol. Srautas. loc. cit.). See Max Müller's History of A. S. L., pp. 450, 469 seq. As to the Sadasya, however, there was some difference of opinion (see the next Sûtra).

5. On the office of the Sadasya, see Indische Studien, X, 136, 144.

6. The two Rikas quoted here belong to the tenth among the Vâḷakhilya hymns, a hymn omitted in many of the Rig-veda MSS. They give no special confirmation to the rules stated in our text, but contain only a general allusion to the unity of the sacrifice, which the various priests perform in many various ways.

7. 'If the four (chief) priests have to be chosen, the choosing of the Brâhmana stands first in order (see above, Sûtra 3); if all (the sixteen), then the choosing of the Hotri stands first in order.' Nârâyana.

9. With (the formula), 'Kandramas (the moon) is my Brahman; he is my Brahman; I choose thee N. N. as my Brahman' (he chooses) the Brahman.

10. With (the formula), 'Āditya (the sun) is my Adhvaryu; (he is my Adhvaryu, &c.)'—the Adhvaryu.

11. With (the formula), 'Parganya is my Udgâtri; (he is my Udgâtri, &c.)'—the Udgâtri.

12. With (the formula), 'The waters are my reciters of what belongs to the Hotrakas'—the Hotrakas.

13. With (the formula), 'The rays are my Kamasâdhvaryus'—the Kamasâdhvaryus.

14. With (the formula), 'The ether is my Sadasya'—the Sadasya.

15. He whom he has chosen should murmur, 'A great thing thou hast told me; splendour thou hast told me; fortune thou hast told me; glory thou hast told me; praise thou hast told me; success thou hast told me; enjoyment thou hast told me; satiating thou hast told me; everything thou hast told me.'

16. Having murmured (this formula), the Hotri declares his assent (in the words), 'Agni is thy Hotri; he is thy Hotri; thy human Hotri am I.'

17. 'Kandramas (the moon) is thy Brahman; he is thy Brahman (&c.)'—thus the Brahman.

18. In the same way the others according to the prescriptions (given above).

19. And if (the priest who accepts the invitation)

12. The twelve priests of the sixteen (see § 4 note) who do not stand at the head of one of the four categories. Those at the head are enumerated in the Sûtras 8-11.

13, 14. See above, § 4 note.

19. Priests who only perform the Agnyâdheya for a person, are, according to Nârâyana's note on this Sûtra, not considered as is going to perform the sacrifice (for the inviting person, he should add), 'May that bless me; may that enter upon me; may I thereby enjoy (bliss).'

20. The functions of an officiating priest are not to be exercised, if abandoned (by another priest), or at an Ahīna sacrifice with small sacrificial fee, or for a person that is sick, or suffering, or affected with consumption, or decried among the people in his village, or of despised extraction. for such persons (the functions of a Ritvig should not be exercised).

21. He (who is chosen as a Ritvig) should ask the Somapravāka, 'What sacrifice is it? Who are performing a sacrifice for him; consequently the formula given here is only to be used by priests who are elected for a Soma sacrifice. Stenzler translates, 'So spricht er, wenn er das Opfer durch sie vollziehen lassen will.' But this would be yakshya-mānaḥ, not yāgayishyan

20. The tradition takes nīśadakshinasya as in apposition to ahīnasya, and I have translated accordingly. But I cannot help thinking that the two words should be separated, so that we should have to translate, 'or at an Ahīna, or for a person that gives small sacrificial fee.' Thus the Brāhmaṇa quoted by Āpastamba (see the commentary on the Pañḍavīṣa Brāhmaṇa, vol. i, p. 6, ed. Bibl. Indica) gives the following questions which the Ritvig to be chosen should ask, 'Is it no Ahīna sacrifice? Is the Ritvig office not abandoned by others? Is the sacrificial fee plentiful?' It is a very singular fact, that on the one hand the assistance of a number of Ritvigs was unanimously declared necessary for the performance of an Ahīna sacrifice, while on the other hand it was considered objectionable, at least among some of the Vedic schools, to officiate at such a sacrifice. See Weber's Indische Studien, X, 150, 151.

On anudeśyabhiṣasta Nārāyaṇa says, sadesinābhiṣastasyaivam eke, anye tu śrāddhe pratishiddhasyety āhuḥ. It seems to me that anudeśya (or rather ānudeśya?) in Sāṅkhāyana-Sraut. V, 1, 10 (Indische Studien, X, 147) means the same, though the commentary on that Sūtra ascribes a different meaning to that word.

the priests officiating? What is the fee for the sacrifice?’

22. If (all the conditions) are favourable, he should accept.

23. Let (the officiating priests) eat no flesh nor have intercourse with a wife until the completion of the sacrifice.

24. ‘By this prayer, O Agni, increase’ (Rig-veda I, 31, 18)—with (this verse) let him offer (at the end of the sacrifice) an oblation of Āgrya in (his own) Dakshināgni, and go away where he likes;

8. With (the verse), 'I am the highest one among my people, as the sun among the thunderbolts. Here I tread on him whosoever infests me'—he should sit down on the seat (made of) northward-pointed (grass).

9. Or (he should do so) after he has trodden on it.

10. He should make (his host) wash his feet.

11. The right foot he should stretch out first to a Brāhmaṇa,

12. The left to a Sūdra.

13. When his feet have been washed, he receives the Arghya water in the hollow of his joined hands and then sips the water destined thereto, with (the formula), 'Thou art the first layer for Ambrosia.'

14. He looks at the Madhuparka when it is brought to him, with (the formula), 'I look at thee with Mitra's eye.'

15. He accepts it with his joined hands with (the formula), 'By the impulse of the god Savitrī, with the arms of the two Āsvins, with the hands of Pūshan I accept thee.' He then takes it into his left hand, looks at it with the three verses, 'Honey the winds to the righteous one' (Rig-veda I, 90, 6 seqq.), stirs it about three times from left to right with the fourth finger and the thumb, and wipes (his fingers) with (the formula), 'May the Vasus eat thee with the Gâyatrī metre'—to the east ;

16. With (the formula), 'May the Rudras eat thee with the Trishṭubh metre'—to the south ;

17. With (the formula), 'May the Ādityas eat thee with the Gāgati metre'—to the west ;

18. With (the formula), 'May the Visve devâs eat thee with the Anushţubh metre'—to the north.

19. With (the formula), 'To the beings thee'—he three times takes (some of the Madhuparka substance) out of the middle of it.

20. With (the formula), 'The milk of Virâg art thou'—he should partake thereof the first time,

21. With, 'The milk of Virâg may I obtain'—the second time,

22. With, 'In me (may) the milk of Padyâ Virâg (dwell)'—the third time.

23. (He should) not (eat) the whole (Madhuparka).

24. He should not satiate himself.

25. To a Brâhmana, to the north, he should give the remainder.

26. If that cannot be done, (he should throw it) into water.

27. Or (he may eat) the whole (Madhuparka).

28. He then makes a rinsing of his mouth follow (on the eating of the Madhuparka) with the water destined thereto, with (the formula), 'Thou art the covering of Ambrosia.'

29. With (the formula), 'Truth! Glory! Fortune! May fortune rest on me!'—a second time.

30. When he has sipped water, they announce to him the cow.

31. Having murmured, 'Destroyed is my sin; my sin is destroyed,' (he says,) 'Om, do it,' if he chooses to have her killed.

ADHYĀYA II, KANDIKĀ 1.

1. On the full moon day of the Srāvana month the Srāvana ceremony (is performed).

2. Having filled a new jug with flour of fried barley, he lays (this jug) and a spoon for offering the Balis on new strings of a carrying pole (and thus suspends them).

3. Having prepared fried barley grains, he smears half of them with butter.

4. After sunset he prepares a mess of cooked food and a cake in one dish and sacrifices (the cooked food) with the four verses, 'Agni, lead us on a good path to wealth' (Rig-veda I, 189, 1 seqq.), verse by verse, and with his hand the (cake) in one dish with (the formula), 'To the steady One, the earth-demon, svāhā !'

5. (The cake) should be (entirely) immersed (into the butter), or its back should be visible.

6. With (the verse), 'Agni, do not deliver us to evil' (Rig-veda I, 189, 5) he sacrifices over it (the butter) in which it had lain.

7. With (the verse), 'May the steeds at our invocation be for a blessing to us' (Rig-veda VII, 38, 7) (he sacrifices) the besmeared grains with his joined hands.

2, 2. 'The plural "They should sacrifice it" means, that while the sacrifice is performed by the householder, his sons and the other persons belonging to the house should touch him.' Nārāyaṇa.

4. The Āgrayana sacrifice, which is offered when the sacrificer is going to partake of the first-fruits of the harvest, is treated of, with relation to a sacrificer who keeps the Śrauta fires, in the Śrauta-sūtra II, 9. This Sūtra in my opinion should be understood as a supplementary addition to that chapter. Nārāyaṇa refers the rule here given to the case of any incident or danger (āpad) which prevents the sacrificer from performing the ceremony in its fuller form, as prescribed in the Śrauta-sūtra.

Āgrayana sacrifice by one who has set up the (sacred Srauta) fires.

5. Also by one who has not set up the (Srauta) fires (the same offering is performed) in the (sacred) domestic fire.

KANDIKĀ 3.

1. On the full moon of Mārgaśr̥ṣha the 'redescent' (is performed)—on the fourteenth (Tithi),

2. Or on (the Tithi of) the full moon (itself).

3. Having again renovated the house by (giving a new) coating (to the walls), by spreading out (a new roof), and by levelling (the floor), they should sacrifice after sunset (oblations) of milk-rice with (the texts), 'Beat away, O white one, with thy foot, with the fore-foot and with the hind-foot, these seven daughters of Varuṇa and all that belong to the king's tribe. Svāhā!

'Within the dominion of the white one no serpent has killed anything. To the white one, the son of Vidārva, adoration! Svāhā!'

4. Here no oblation to (Agni) Svishtakṛit (is made).

5. 'May we be secure from Pragāpati's sons'—thus he murmurs while looking at the fire.

3, 1. On the ceremony of 'redescent,' comp. Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya IV, 17; Pāraskara III, 2. The fourteenth Tithi of the bright fortnight, preceding the full moon, is referred to.

3. 'Again' refers to chap 2, 2. As to the words 'they should sacrifice,' comp. the note on the same Sūtra. The first Mantra reoccurs in Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya IV, 18, 1. The text of the second should be, na vai svetasyādhyāññāre, &c.; comp. Pāraskara II, 14, 5.

5. The serpents are the children of Kasyapa (i.e. Pragāpati) and Kadrū; see Mahābhārata I, 1074 seqq.

6. (Saying), 'Be happy and friendly to us'—he should think in his mind of the winter.

7. To the west of the fire is a well-spread layer (of straw); on that he should sit down, murmur (the verse), 'Be soft, O earth' (Rig-veda I, 22, 15), and lie down (on that layer) with his people, with the head to the east and the face to the north.

8. The others, as there is room.

9. Or following on each other from the eldest to the youngest.

10. Those who know the Mantras, should murmur the Mantras.

11. Arising (they should) three times (murmur the verse), 'From that place may the gods bless us' (Rig-veda I, 22, 16).

12. The same (verse) a fourth time with their faces to the south, to the west, and to the north.

✓ 13. Having arisen, having murmured the hymns sacred to the Sun and the auspicious hymns, having prepared food and given to the Brâhmanas to eat, he should cause (them) to pronounce auspicious words.

KANDIKÂ 4.

1. On the eighth days of the four dark fortnights of (the two seasons of) winter and Śisira the Ashvākās (are celebrated).

10. 'The Mantras beginning from "Be soft, O earth" (Sûtra 7) down to the auspicious hymns (Sûtra 13).' Nârâyana.

11. It follows from Sûtra 12 that they are to turn here their faces to the east.

12. They mutter one Pâda of that verse, which is in the Gâyatri metre, turned towards each of the three directions.

4, 1. Comp. Sāṅkhâyaṇa-Gṛhya III, 12 seqq. The four

2. Or on one (of these days).
3. The day before, he should offer to the Fathers (i. e. Manes)—
4. Boiled rice, boiled rice with sesamum seeds, rice-milk—
5. Or cakes made of four Sarāvas (of ground grain)—
6. Sacrificing with the eight (verses), 'May the lower (Fathers) and the higher arise' (Rig-veda X, 15, 1 seqq.), or with as many (verses) as he likes.
7. Then on the next day the Ashvakās (are celebrated) with an animal (sacrifice) and with a mess of cooked food.
8. He may also give grass to an ox,
9. Or he may burn down brushwood with fire—
10. With (the words), 'This is my Ashvakā'
11. But he should not omit celebrating the Ashvakā.
12. This (Ashvakā) some state to be sacred to the Visve devās, some to Agni, some to the Sun, some to Pragāpati, some state that the Night is its deity, some that the Nakshatras are, some that the Seasons are, some that the Fathers are, some that cattle is.
13. Having killed the animal according to the months of Hemanta and Śirā are Mārgaśīrsha, Pauṣa, Māgha, and Phālguna.

2. The statement of the Prayogaratna that in case the sacrificer should celebrate only one Ashvakā festival, the Ashvakā of the Māgha month is to be selected, well agrees with the designation of this Ashvakā as 'the one Ashvakā' (ekāśvakā); see Weber, Naxatra II, 341 seq.; Indische Studien, XV, 145.

7 seqq. Comp. the nearly identical passage in Sāṅkhāyana-Grīhya III, 14, 3 seqq. and the note there. Āsvalāyana evidently gives these rules not as regarding one special Ashvakā but all of them.

ritual of the animal sacrifice, omitting the sprinkling (with water) and the touching of the animal with a fresh branch, he should draw out the omentum and sacrifice it with (the verse), 'Carry the omentum, Gâtavedas, to the Fathers, where thou knowest them resting afar. May streams of fat flow to them; may all these wishes be fulfilled. Svâhâ!'

14. Then (follow oblations) of the Avadâna portions and the cooked food, two with (the two verses), 'Agni, lead us on a good path to wealth' (Rig-veda I, 189, 1 seq.), (and other oblations with the texts), 'May summer, winter, the seasons be happy to us, happy the rainy season, safe to us the autumn. The year be our lord who gives breath to us; may days and nights produce long life. Svâhâ!'

'Peaceful be the earth, happy the air, may the goddess Heaven give us safety. Happy be the quarters (of the horizon), the intermediate quarters, the upper quarters; may the waters, the lightnings protect us from all sides. Svâhâ!'

'May the waters, the rays carry our prayers (to the gods); may the creator, may the ocean turn away evil; may the past and the future, (may) all be safe to me. Protected by Brahman may I pour forth songs. Svâhâ!'

'May all the Âdityas and the divine Vasus, the Rudras, the protectors, the Maruts sit down (here). May Pragâpati, the abounding one, the highest ruler, bestow vigour, offspring, immortality on me. Svâhâ!'

'Pragâpati, no other one than Thou (Rig-veda X, 121, 10).'

14. I read, as Prof. Stenzler and the Petersburg Dictionary do, svârâ ksharâni. Comp. Pâraskara III, 3, 6.

15. The eighth (oblation) is that to (Agni) Svishṭakrit.

16. He should give to the Brāhmanas to eat:
this has been said.

KANDIKĀ 5.

1. On the following day the Anvashṭakya (i. e. the ceremony following the Ashṭakā, is performed).

2. Having prepared (a portion) of that same meat, having established the fire on a surface inclined towards the south, having fenced it in, and made a door on the north side of the enclosure, having strewn round (the fire) three times sacrificial grass with its roots, without tossing it, turning the left side towards the fire, he should put down the things to be offered, boiled rice, boiled rice with sesamum seeds, rice-milk, meal-pap with curds, and meal-pap with honey

3. (The ceremony should be performed) according to the ritual of the Pindapitriyagña.

4. Having sacrificed (of those sorts of food) with the exception of the meal-pap with honey, let him give (lumps of those substances) to the Fathers.

5. And to (their) wives, with the addition of rum and the scum of boiled rice.

6. Some (place the lumps to be offered) into pits, into two or into six.

16. See above, chap. 3, 13.

5, 2. The meat is that of the animal killed on the Ashṭakā day; see chap. 4, 13.

3. This ritual is given in the Srauta-sūtra II, 6 seq.

4. He sacrifices the two oblations prescribed in the Srauta-sūtra II, 6, 12, to Soma pitṛimat and to Agni kavyavāhana.

7. In those situated to the east he should give (the offerings) to the Fathers.

8. In those to the west, to the wives.

9. Thereby the ceremony celebrated in the rainy season on the Māgha day, in the dark fortnight after the full moon of Praushṭhapada (has been declared).

10. And thus he should offer (a celebration like the Anvashṭakya) to the Fathers every month, observing uneven numbers (i. e. selecting a day with an uneven number, inviting an uneven number of Brāhmanas, &c.).

11. He should give food at least to nine (Brāhmanas),

12. Or to an uneven number,

13. To an even number on auspicious occasions or on the performance of meritorious deeds (such as the consecration of ponds, &c.);

14. To an uneven number on other (occasions).

15. The rite is performed from left to right. Barley is to be used instead of sesamum.

KANDIKĀ 6.

2. 'Thy axle is the Vāmadevyā'—with (these words he touches) the two (naves) in which the axle rests.

3. He should mount (the chariot) with the right foot first, with (the words), 'With Vāyu's strength I mount thee. with Indra's power and sovereignty.'

4. He should touch the reins, or if the horses have no reins, (he should touch) the horses with a staff, with (the words), 'With Brahman's splendour I seize you. With truth I seize you.'

5. When (the horses) put themselves in motion, he should murmur, 'Go forward to thousandfold successful vigour, divine chariot, carry us forward!'—(and the verse), 'Free, strong be thy limbs!' (Rig-veda VI, 47, 26.)

6. With this (verse he should touch also) other articles of wood.

7. 'May the two oxen be strong, the axle firm' (Rig-veda III, 53, 17)—with (this verse) he should touch (each) part of the chariot (alluded to in that verse).

8. With (the verse), 'The earth, the good protectress, the unattained heaven' (Rig-veda X, 63, 10) (he should ascend) a ship.

9. With a new chariot he should drive round a widely known tree or round a pool that does not dry up, with his right side turned towards it, and then should fetch branches which bear fruits,

a. On the Vedic form of the chariot and of the wheels, comp. Zimmer, Altindisches Leben, p. 247.

6. According to Nārāyaṇa this Sūtra would refer only to other vehicles of wood, which he is directed to touch with that Riṣ when going to mount them. Perhaps the commentator is right; the wording of the Riṣ is well in keeping with his explanation

10. Or something else that belongs to the household.

11. (He then) should drive (in that chariot) to an assembly.

12. Having murmured, while looking at the sun. (the verse), 'Make our renown highest' (Rig-veda IV, 31, 15), he should descend.

13. 'To the bull among my equals' (Rig-veda X, 166, 1)—(this verse he should murmur) while approaching (that assembly?).

14. 'May we be called to-day Indra's best friends' (Rig-veda I, 167, 10)—when the sun is setting.

15. 'Thus I address you, O daughters of heaven, while you arise' (Rig-veda IV, 51, 11)—when day appears.

KANDIKÂ 7.

1. Now the examination of the ground (where he intends to build a house).

2. (It must be) non-salinous soil of undisputed property,

3. With herbs and trees,

4. On which much Kusa and Vîraṇa grass grows.

5. Plants with thorns and with milky juice he should dig out with their roots and remove them—

6. And in the same way the following (sorts of plants), viz. Apâmârga, potherbs, Tilvaka, Parivyâdha.

7. A spot where the waters, flowing together from all sides to the centre of it, flow round the resting-place, having it on their right side, and then flow off to the east without noise—that possesses all auspicious qualities.

8. Where the waters flow off, he should have the provision-room built.

9. Thus it becomes rich in food.

10. On a spot which is inclined towards the south, he should have the assembly-room constructed; thus there will be no gambling in it.

11. (But others say that) in such (an assembly-room) the young people become gamblers, quarrelsome, and die early.

12. Where the waters flow together from all directions, that assembly-room (situated on such a spot) brings luck and is free from gambling.

KANDIKĀ 8.

1. Now he should examine the ground in the following ways.

2. He should dig a pit knee-deep and fill it again with the same earth (which he has taken out of it).

3. If (the earth) reaches out (of the pit, the ground is) excellent; if it is level, (it is) of middle quality; if it does not fill (the pit, it is) to be rejected.

4. After sunset he should fill (the pit) with water and leave it so through the night.

5. If (in the morning) there is water in it, (the ground is) excellent; if it is moist, (it is) of middle quality; if it is dry, (it is) to be rejected.

6. White (ground), of sweet taste, with sand on the surface, (should be elected) by a Brāhmaṇa.

7. Red (ground) for a Kshatriya.

8. Yellow (ground) for a Vaiśya.

9. He should draw a thousand furrows on it and should have it measured off as quadrangular, with equal sides to each (of the four) directions;

10. Or as an oblong quadrangle.

11. With a Samī branch or an Udumbara branch he sprinkles it (with water), going thrice round it, so that his right side is turned towards it, reciting the Santātiya hymn.

12. And (so he does again three times) pouring out water without interruption, with the three verses, 'O waters, ye are wholesome' (Rig-veda X, 9, 1 seqq.).

13. In the interstices between the bamboo staffs he should have the (single) rooms constructed.

14. Into the pits in which the posts are to stand, he should have an Avakā, i. e. (the water-plant called) Śipāla put down; then fire will not befall him: thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

15. Having put (that plant) into the pit in which the middle-post is to stand, he should spread (on it) eastward-pointed and northward-pointed Kusa grass and should sprinkle (on that grass) water into which rice and barley have been thrown, with (the words), 'To the steady one, the earth-demon, svāhā!'

16. He then should, when (the middle-post) is being erected, recite over it (the two verses),

4. Or with (the verse), 'The Araṅgara sounds, three times bound with the strap. It praises the welfare; may it drive away ill'

5. He then should pour water into it with (the verse), 'Hither may king Varuṇa come with the plentiful (waters); at this place may he stay contented; bringing welfare, dropping ghee may they lie down together with Mitra.'

6. He then 'appeases' it (in the following way).

7. He puts gold into water into which rice and barley have been thrown, and (with that water) he sprinkles it three times, going round it with his right side turned towards it, with the Santâtīya hymn.

water without interruption, with the three verses, 'O waters, ye are wholesome' (Rig-veda X, 9, 1 seqq.).

9. In the middle of the house he should cook a mess of food, sacrifice (therefrom) with the four verses, 'Vâstoshpati, accept us' (Rig-veda VII, 54, 1 seqq.), verse by verse, should prepare food, should give to the Brâhmanas to eat, and should cause them to say, 'Lucky is the ground! Lucky is the ground!'

KANDIKÂ 10.

1. It has been declared how he should enter the house (when returning from a journey).

2. The house, when he enters it, should be provided with seed-corn.

3. He should have his field ploughed under the Nakshatras Uttarâḥ Proshṭāpadâs, (Uttarâḥ) Phâlgunyas, or Rohinî.

4. In order that the wind may blow to him from the field, he should offer oblations with the hymn, 'Through the lord of the field' (Rig-veda IV, 57), verse by verse, or he should murmur (that hymn).

5. He should speak over the cows when they go away, the two verses, 'May refreshing wind blow over the cows' (Rig-veda X, 169, 1 seqq.).

ADHYÂYA III, KANDIKÂ 1.

1. Now (follow) the five sacrifices ·

2. The sacrifice to the Gods, the sacrifice to the Beings, the sacrifice to the Fathers, the sacrifice to Brahman, the sacrifice to men.

3. Here now, if he makes oblations over the (sacred) fire, this is the sacrifice to the Gods.

If he makes Bali offerings, this is the sacrifice to the Beings.

If he gives (Pinda offerings) to the Fathers, this is the sacrifice to the Fathers.

If he studies (Vedic) texts, this is the sacrifice to Brahman.

If he gives to men, this is the sacrifice to men.

4. These (five kinds of) sacrifices he should perform every day.

KANDIKÂ 2.

1. Now the rules how one should recite (the Vedic texts) for one's self.

2. He should go out of the village to the east or to the north, bathe in water, sip water on a clean spot, clad with the sacrificial cord; he should spread out, his garment being not wet, a great quantity of Darbha grass, the tufts of which are directed towards the east, and should sit down thereon with his face turned to the east, making a lap, putting together his hands in which he holds purifiers (i. e. Kusa blades), so that the right hand lies uppermost.

It is understood (in the Sruti), 'This' is what Darbha grass is. it is the essence of waters and herbs. He thus makes the Brahman provided with essence.'

Looking at the point where heaven and earth touch each other, or shutting his eyes, or in whatever way he may deem himself apt (for reciting the Veda), thus adapting himself he should recite (the sacred texts) for himself.

3. The Vyāhṛtis preceded by (the syllable) Om (are pronounced first).

4. He (then) repeats the Sāvitrī (Rig-veda III, 62, 10), (firstly) Pāda by Pāda, (then) hemistich by hemistich, thirdly the whole.

KANDIKĀ 3.

1. He then should recite for himself (the following texts, viz.) the Riṅkas, the Yagus, the Sāmans, the Atharvan and Aṅgiras hymns, the Brāhmanas, the Kalpa (Sūtras), the Gāthās, the (texts in honour of kings and heroes, called) Nārāsaṁsīs, the Itihāsas and Purānas.

2. In that he recites the Riṅkas, he thereby satiates the gods with oblations of milk—in that (he recites) the Yagus; with oblations of ghee—the Sāmans, with oblations of honey—the Atharvan and Aṅgiras hymns, with oblations of Soma—the Brāhmanas, Kalpas, Gāthās, Nārāsaṁsīs, Itihāsas and Purānas, with oblations of ambrosia.

3. In that he recites the Rikas, rivers of milk flow, as a funeral oblation, to his Fathers. In that (he recites) the Yagus, rivers of ghee—the Sāmans, rivers of honey—the Atharvan and Āngiras hymns, rivers of Soma—the Brāhmaṇas, Kalpas, Gāthās, Nārāsaṃsis, Itihāsas and Purāṇas, rivers of ambrosia.

4. After he has recited (those texts) as far as he thinks fit, he should finish with the following (verse), 'Adoration to Brahman! Adoration be to Agni!
 Adoration to the Earth! Adoration to the Herbs!
 Adoration to the Voice! Adoration to the Lord of the Voice! Adoration I bring to great Vishnu!'

5. After he has satiated the Fathers man by man, and has returned to his house, what he gives (then), that is the sacrificial fee.

6. And it is also understood (in the Sruti), 'May he be standing, walking, sitting, or lying, (the texts belonging to) whatsoever sacrifice he repeats, that sacrifice indeed he has offered.'

7. It is understood (in the Sruti), 'Regarding this (Svādhyāya) there are two cases in which the study (of the sacred texts) is forbidden: when he is impure himself, and when the place is.'

4. The names from Kahola Kaushītaki down to Āsvalāyana stand in the accusative; tarpayāmi, 'I satiate N. N.' is to be supplied.

5. Nārāyana: 'He satiates his father, grandfather, and great-grandfather, and goes to his house. What he then gives, for instance, food offered to guests, or given as alms (to religious beggars), is considered as the sacrificial fee for the Brahmayagña.'

6. Comp. Satapatha Brāhmaṇa XI, 5, 7, 3. 4.

KANDIKĀ 5.

1. Now (follows) the Adhyāyopākaraṇa (i. e. the ceremony by which the annual course of study is opened);

2. When the herbs appear, (when the moon stands in conjunction) with Srāvana, in the Srāvana month,

3. Or on the fifth (Tithi of that month), under (the Nakshatra) Hasta.

4. Having sacrificed the two Āgya portions, he should offer Āgya oblations (to the following deities, viz.) Sāvitrī, Brahman, Belief, Insight, Wisdom, Memory, Sadasaspati, Anumati, the metres, and the Rishis.

5. He then sacrifices grains with curds (with the following texts):

6. 'I praise Agni the Purohita'—this one verse (Rig-veda I, 1, 1),

7. 'The Kushumbhaka (mongoose?) has said it'—
'If thou criest, O bird, announce luck to us'—'Sung by Gamadagni'—'In thy abode the whole world rests'

5, 2, 3 Perhaps the division of these Sūtras should be altered, so that srāvanasya would belong to Sūtra 2. In this case we should have to translate, '2. When the herbs appear, (on a day on which the moon stands in conjunction) with Sravana. 3. Or on the fifth (Tithi) of the Srāvana month, under (the Nakshatra) Hasta.' Comp. srāvanasya pañcāmī, Pār. II, 10, 2. If we count the month beginning with the bright fortnight, and assume that the full moon day of Srāvana falls, as the name of the month implies, on Sravana, the fifth Tithi of that month will fall indeed on Hasta. Comp. on the dates of the Upākaraṇa, Prof. Weber's remarks, Die vedischen Nachrichten von den Nakshatra II, 322, and on the special symbolical signification of the Nakshatra Sravana in this connection, my note on Sāṅkhāyana IV, 5, 2.

4. On the two Āgya portions, comp. above, I, 3, 5; 10, 13 seqq.

7. Comp. Sāṅkhāyana IV, 5, 8. The verses with which the oblations are performed, are the first and last verses of each Mandala.

—' Come to our sacrifice, O you that are worthy of sacrifice, with care '—' Whosoever, be he ours, be he alien '—' Look on, look about '—' Come here, Agni, the Maruts' friend '—' The oblation, O king, cooked for thee '—each time two verses ;

8. ' United is your will ' (Rig-veda X, 191, 4)—this one verse ,

9. ' That blessing and bliss we choose '—this one verse.

10. When he intends to study (the Veda together with pupils), he should, while the pupils take hold of him, sacrifice to those deities, and sacrifice to (Agni) Svishṭakṛit, and partake of the grains with curds ; then (follows) the ' cleaning.'

11. Sitting down to the west of the fire on Darbha grass, the tufts of which are directed towards the east, he should put Darbha blades into a water-pot, and making a Brahmāṅgali (i. e. joining his hands as a sign of veneration for the Brahman), he should murmur (the following texts):

12. The Vyāhṛtis preceded by (the syllable) Om (stand first) ; (these) and the Sāvitrī he should repeat three times and then recite the beginning of the Veda.

9. This is the last verse of the Rik-Saṃhitā in the Bāshkala Sākhā. See my note on Sāṅkhāyana IV, 5, 9.

10. The expression, ' Those deities ' would, according to Nārāyaṇa, refer not only to the deities stated in Sūtra 4, but also to the deities of the first and last verses of the Māṇḍalas (Sūtras 6 seqq.). On the grains with curds, comp. Sūtra 5. The technical sense of the ' cleaning ' is explained in the Srauta-sūtra I, 8, 2 ; comp. Hillebrandt, Das altindische Neu- und Vollmondsopfer, p. 130, note 1. The sacrificer covers his joined hands with the Kura grass spread out round the fire, and has water sprinkled on them.

11. On the term brahmāṅgali, comp. Manu II, 71.

13. In the same way at the Utsarga (i. e. at the ceremony performed at the end of the term of Vedic study).

14. He should study six months.

15. One who has performed the Samâvartana (should live during that time) according to the regulations for Brahma~~h~~ârins.

16. The others according to the rules.

17. Some say that he should have intercourse with his wife.

18. That (is a practice) sacred to Pragâpati.

19. This (Upâkarana) they call vâṛshika (i. e. belonging to the rainy season).

20. On the middle Ash~~h~~akâ they offer food to those deities, and descend into water.

21. They satiate those same deities (with water oblations),

22. (And besides) the Â~~h~~âryas, the Rîshis, and the Fathers.

23. This is the Utsargana.

KANDIKÂ 6.

1. Instead of the Kâmya ceremonies (i. e. the ceremonies, prescribed in the Srauta-sûtra, by which

15. On the Samâvartana, see below, chap. 8 seq. The restrictions referred to consist in the interdiction of eating honey and meat, of having sexual intercourse, of sleeping in a bedstead and in the day-time, &c. Nârâyana.

16. I. e. the Brahma~~h~~ârins.

17. I. e. one who has performed the Samâvartana.

20. After the six months (Sûtra 14) have elapsed, on the Ash~~h~~akâ of Mâgha.

23. Or Utsarga, see Sûtra 13.

special wishes are attained, oblations of) boiled (rice) grains, for the attainment of those wishes, (should be made by the Grīhya sacrificer).

2. He attains (thereby) those same wishes.

3. For a person that is sick, or suffering, or affected with consumption, a mess of boiled (rice) grains in six oblations (should be offered)—

4. With this (hymn), 'I loosen thee by sacrificial food, that thou mayst live' (Rig-veda X, 161).

5. If he has seen a bad dream, he should worship the sun with the two verses, 'To-day, god Savitri' (Rig-veda V, 82, 4, 5), and with the five verses, 'What bad dreams there are among the cows' (Rig-veda VIII, 47, 14 seqq.),

6. Or with (the verse), 'Whosoever, O king, be it a companion or a friend' (Rig-veda II, 28, 10).

7. When he has sneezed, yawned, seen a disagreeable sight, smelt a bad smell, when his eye palpitates, and when he hears noises in his ears, he should murmur, 'Well-eyed may I become with my eyes, well-vigoured with my face, well-hearing with my ears. May will and insight dwell in me!'

8. If he has gone to a wife to whom he ought not to go, or if he has performed a sacrifice for a person for whom he ought not to do so, or has eaten forbidden food, or accepted what he ought not to accept, or pushed against a piled-up (fire altar) or

8. Nārāyaṇa is evidently wrong in explaining kaityam yūpañ ka by agnikāyanastham yūpam (which is not, as Prof. Stenzler takes it, der Opferpfahl auf einem Bestattungsplatze). Comp. Gobhila III, 3, 34; Grīhya-saṃgraha-pariśiṣṭa II, 4.

I have translated the second verse in Sūtra 8, as if the text had kalpantām. The MSS. give kalpatām. Atharva-veda VII, 67 has kalpayantām.

against a sacrificial post, he should sacrifice two Āgya oblations with (the verses),

'May my faculties return into me, may life return, may prosperity return; may my goods return to me, may the divine power return into me Svāhā'

'These fires that are stationed on the (altars called) Dhishazyās, may they be here in good order, each on its right place. (Agni) Vaisvānara, grown strong, the standard of immortality, may he govern my mind in my heart. Svāhā'

9. Or (he may sacrifice) two pieces of wood,

10. Or murmur (the same two verses without any oblation).

KANDIKĀ 7.

1. If the sun sets while he is sleeping without being sick, he should spend the rest of the night keeping silence, without sitting down, and should worship the sun (when it rises) with the five (verses), 'The light, O sun, by which thou destroyest darkness (Rig-veda X, 37, 4 seq.).

2. If (the sun) rises (while he is sleeping without being sick), being fatigued without having done any work, or having done work that is not becoming, he should keep silence, &c., as before, and perform his worship (to the sun) with the following four (verses, Rig-veda X, 37, 9 seq.).

3. Invested with the sacrificial cord, constantly fulfilling the prescribed duties regarding the use of

7. 2. Perhaps we should correct the text, akarmasāntam anabhrāpca karmanā vā vāgyata iti, &c.

3 seq. See Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛhya II, 9 There the same word anvash/amadeṣa occurs.

water, he should perform the Sandhyā (or twilight devotion), observing silence.

4. In the evening he should, turning his face to the north-west, to the region between the chief (west) point and the intermediate (north-western) point (of the horizon), murmur the Sāvitrī, (beginning) when the sun is half set, until the stars appear.

5. In the same way in the morning—

6. Standing, with his face turned to the east, until the disk (of the sun) appears.

7. If a dove flies against his house or towards it, he should sacrifice with (the hymn), 'O gods, the dove' (Rig-veda X, 165), verse by verse, or should murmur (that hymn).

8. 'We have thee, O Lord of the path' (Rig-veda VI, 53)—if he is going out for doing some business.

9. 'Bring us together, Pūshan, with a knowing one' (Rig-veda VI, 54)—if he wishes to find something lost, or if he has strayed.

10. 'Journey over the ways, Pūshan' (Rig-veda I, 42)—if he is going out on a long or dangerous way.

KANDIKĀ 8.

1. Now when returning (home from his teacher) he should get the following things, viz. a jewel (to be tied round the neck), two ear-rings, a pair of garments, a parasol, a pair of shoes, a staff, a wreath, (pounded seed of the Karaṅga fruit) for rubbing with, ointment, eye salve, a turban; (all that) for himself and for the teacher.

9. Mûḥa may either mean, 'having lost his way,' or 'bewildered in his mind.' Nārāyaṇa prefers the latter explanation ('pragñā-hīna').

2. If he cannot get it for both, only for the teacher.
3. He then should get a piece of wood of a tree which is sacrificially pure, in a north-eastern direction—
4. Sappy (wood) if he wishes for the enjoyment of food, or for prosperity, or for splendour; dry (wood), if for holy lustre,
5. (Wood) which is both (sappy and dry, in its different parts), if (he wishes) for both.
6. Having put the piece of wood on high, and having given a cow and food to the Brāhmaṇas, he should perform the ceremony of shaving the beard.
7. He should alter the texts so that they refer to himself.
8. With Ekakṣitaka (he should perform the rubbing).
9. Having washed himself with lukewarm water, and having put on two (new) garments which have not yet been washed, with (the verse), 'Garments with fat splendour you put on, (Mitra and Varuṇa)' (Rig-veda I, 152, 1), he should anoint his eyes with (the words), 'The sharpness of the stone art thou; protect my eye.'
10. With (the words), 'The sharpness of the stone

8, 6. 'On high' means 'not on the ground' (Nârâyana). On the gaudânikam karma (the shaving of the beard), comp. above, Adhyâya I, Kandikâ 18. The word 'ceremony' would mean here, according to Nârâyana, that he should perform the rite alone, without observing such prescriptions as stated above, I, 18, 7.

7. Thus, instead of 'Herb! protect him!' (I, 17, 8) he is to say, 'Herb! protect me!' and so on.

8. Ekakṣitaka is, according to Nârâyana and the Prayogaratna, the seed of such a Karaṅga fruit (Pongamia Glabra, Vent) which contains only one grain of seed. Such grains are pounded before he rubs himself therewith.

art thou ; protect my ear'—he should tie on the two ear-rings.

11. After having salved his two hands with ointment, a Brāhmaṇa should salve his head first,

12. A Rājanya his two arms,

13. A Vaisya the belly,

14. A woman her secret parts,

15. Persons who gain their livelihood by running, their thighs.

16. With (the formula), 'Free from pain art thou, free from pain may I become'—he should put on the wreath.

17. Not (such a wreath) which is called mālā.

18. If they call it mālā, he should cause them to call it srag.

19. With (the formula), 'The standing-places of the gods are you ; protect me from all sides'—he steps into the shoes, and with (the formula), 'The heaven's covering art thou'—he takes the parasol.

20. With (the formula), 'Reed thou art ; from the tree thou descendest ; protect me from all sides'—(he takes) a staff of reed.

21. Having with the hymn 'Giving life' tied the jewel to his neck and arranged the turban (on his head), he should standing put the piece of wood (on the fire).

21. On the hymn beginning with the words 'Giving life,' see Prof. Stenzler's note on this Sūtra. Its first verse is identical with Vāgasaneyi Saṃhitā XXXIV, 50 (comp. also Sāṅkhāyana-Grhya III, 1, 7), and so are most of its verses found in that Saṃhitā or in the Atharva-veda ; the whole of it occurs among the Rig-veda Khilas (vol. vi, p. 25, 2-12).

KANDIKĀ 9.

1. (He says), 'Memory and reproach and knowledge, faith, and wisdom as the fifth, what is sacrificed, and what is given, and what is studied, and what is done, truth, learning, vow—

'The vow which belongs to Agni together with Indra, with Prajāpati, with the Rishis, with the royal ones among the Rishis, with the Fathers, with the royal ones among the Fathers, with the human beings, with the royal ones among the human beings, with shine, over-shine, after-shine, counter-shine, with gods and men, with Gandharvas and Apsaras, with wild animals and domestic animals,—the vow, belonging to my own self, dwelling in my own self, that is my universal vow. Hereby, O Agni, I become addicted to the universal vow. Svāhā!'

2. With (the hymn), 'Mine, Agni, be vigour' (Rig-veda X, 128, 1), verse by verse, he should put pieces of wood (on the fire).

3. He should pass that night at a place where they will do honour to him.

9, 1. "My memory and my non-memory, that is my double vow"—in this way the twelve (parts of which the first section of the Mantra consists) should be recited.' Nārāyaṇa. I think the commentator is wrong here, and that section should rather be recited as it is given in the text without any alteration; it forms a regular Sloka. Agneḥ instead of Agne is a conjecture of Prof. Stenzler, which I have adopted.

2. According to Nārāyaṇa the hymn should be recited including the Khila, so that ten pieces of wood are offered. Now the hymn consists of nine verses; there can be, consequently, only one Khailika verse, which is, I suppose, the first verse of the Khila quoted above, p. 228.

3. By a Madhuparka (Nārāyaṇa). Compare Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya III, 1, 14.

4. When, after having finished his (task of) learning, he has offered something to the teacher, or has received his permission, he should take a bath (which signifies the end of his studentship).

5. He (i.e. the Snâtaka) has to keep the following observances :

6. He shall not bathe in the night-time ; he shall not bathe naked ; he shall not lie down naked ; he shall not look at a naked woman, except during sexual intercourse ; he shall not run during rain ; he shall not climb up a tree ; he shall not descend into a well ; he shall not swim with his arms across a river ; he shall not expose himself to danger. 'A great being indeed is a Snâtaka'—thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

KANDIKÂ 10.

1. If (a student) wishes to be dismissed (by his teacher), he should pronounce before the teacher his (i.e. the teacher's ?) name—

2. (And should say), 'Here we will dwell, sir !'

4. Nârâyana : He makes an offer to the teacher in the words, 'What is it that I can do for you?'—and what the teacher tells him, that he does.

10, 1. Nârâyana refers this rule to a student who has performed the Samāvartana and wishes to go away. But a comparison of Sāṅkhâyaṇa-Grīhya II, 18 seems to make it probable that the ceremony described here has nothing to do with the Samāvartana. I take this chapter rather for a description of the way in which a student has to take leave of his teacher when setting out on a journey. 'His name' is the teacher's name, according to Nârâyana.

2. Sāṅkhâyaṇa II, 18, 1. Sāṅkh. has aham vatsyāmi ; Āsvalāyana, idam vatsyāmaḥ. The commentator says that instead of idam the Ārama is to be named which the student chooses to enter upon, for instance, 'Devadatta, we will dwell in the state of a householder, sir !'

3. With a loud voice (the words) following after the name.

4. 'Of inhalation and exhalation'—(this he says) with a low voice,

5. And (the verse), 'Come hither, Indra, with thy lovely-sounding, fallow-coloured (horses)' (Rig-veda III, 45, 1).

6. The aged one then murmurs, 'To inhalation and exhalation I, the wide-extended one resort with thee. To the god Savitri I give thee in charge'—and the verse.

7. When he has finished (that verse), and has muttered, 'Om! Forwards! Blessing!' and recited (over the student the hymn), 'The great bliss of the three' (Rig-veda X, 185)—(he should dismiss him).

8. On one who has been thus dismissed, danger comes from no side—thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

9. If he hears (on his way) disagreeable voices of birds, he should murmur the two hymns, 'Shrieking, manifesting his being' (Rig-veda II, 42, 43), and (the verse), 'The divine voice have the gods created' (Rig-veda VIII, 100, 11).

10. 'Praise the renowned youth who sits on the war-chariot' (Rig-veda II, 33, 11)—if (he hears disagreeable voices) of deer.

11. From the direction, or from the (being) from which he expects danger, towards that direction he should throw a fire-brand, burning on both sides, or having twirled about a churning-stick from the right to the left, with (the words), 'Safety be to me, Mitra

6. I have translated, as Prof. Stenzler has also done, according to Sāṅkhāyana's reading, prāṇāpānā ... tvayā. The 'aged one' is the teacher, the verse that which is quoted in Sūtra 5.

and Varuṇa; encounter the foes and burn them up with your flame. May they find none who knows them and no support; divided by discord may they go to death'—

12. He turns the churning-stick downwards with (the verse), 'The combined wealth of both, heaped together' (Rig-veda X, 84, 7).

KANDIKÂ 11.

1. If unknown danger from all sides (menaces him), he should sacrifice eight Âgya oblations with (the formulas),

'Pṛithivī (the earth) is covered; she is covered by Agni. By her, the covered one, the covering one, I ward off the danger of which I am in fear. Svâhâ!

'Antariksha (the air) is covered; it is covered by Vâyu. By it, the covered, the covering, I ward off the danger of which I am in fear. Svâhâ!

'Dvaus (the heaven) is covered; she is covered by Âditya (the sun). By her, &c.

'The quarters (of the horizon) are covered; they are covered by Kandramas (the moon). By them, &c.

'The waters are covered; they are covered by Varuṇa. By them, &c.

'The creatures are covered; they are covered by, Prâṇa (the breath). By them, &c.

'The Vedas are covered; they are covered by the metres. By them, &c.

'All is covered; it is covered by Brahman. By it, &c. Svâhâ!'

11, 1. 'Covered' is vr̥ta; 'I ward off' is the causative of the same verb, vāraye.

2. Then, stationing himself towards the north-east, he murmurs the Svasti-Ātreya and, 'Of what we are in fear, Indra' (Rig-veda VIII, 61, 13 seqq.), down to the end of the hymn.

KANDIKĀ 12.

1. When a battle is beginning, (the royal Purohita) should cause the king to put on his armour (in the following way).

2. (The Purohita) stations himself to the west of (the king's) chariot with (the hymn ?), 'I have brought thee hither, be here' (Rig-veda X, 173).

3. With (the verse), 'Like a thunder-cloud is his countenance' (Rig-veda VI, 75, 1), he should tender the coat of mail to him.

4. With the following (verse) the bow.

5. The following (verse) he should cause him to repeat.

6. He should murmur himself the fourth.

7. With the fifth he should tender the quiver to him.

8. When (the king) starts, the sixth.

9. The seventh (he recites) over the horses.

10. The eighth he should cause (the king) to repeat while looking at the arrows ;

2. The Svasti-Ātreya is the part of the hymn V, 51, which very frequently contains the word svasti (vv. 11-15). There is a Khila appended to that hymn (Rig-veda, vol. iii, p. 30), which, according to Nārāyaṇa, is also to be murmured on this occasion.

12, 2 According to Nārāyaṇa the Pratīka here signifies not the verse, but the whole hymn, though a whole Pāda is given (comp. Srauta-sūtra I, 1, 17).

11. (The verse), 'Like a serpent it encircles the arm with its windings' (Rig-veda VI, 75, 14), when he ties to his arm the leather (by which the arm is protected against the bow-string).

12. He then mounts up to (the king on his chariot), while he is driving, and causes him to repeat the Abhīvarta hymn (Rig-veda X, 174) and the two verses, 'He who, Mitra and Varuna' (Rig-veda VIII, 101, 3 seq.).

13. He then should look at him with the Apratiratha, Sāsa, and Sauparna hymns.

14. The Sauparna is (the hymn), 'May the streams of honey and ghee flow forwards.'

15. (The king) should drive (in his chariot successively) to all quarters (of the horizon)

16. He should commence the battle in the line of battle invented by Āditya or by Usanas.

17. He should touch the drum with the three verses, 'Fill earth and heaven with thy roar' (Rig-veda VI, 47, 29 seqq.).

18. With (the verse), 'Shot off fall down' (Rig-veda VI, 75, 16), he should shoot off the arrows.

12. The Abhīvarta hymn begins with the word abhīvartena, and is ascribed to Abhīvarta Āngirasa

13 The Apratiratha hymn is Rig-veda X, 103 (ascribed to Apratiratha Andra), the Sāsa, X, 152 (ascribed to Sāsa Bhāradvāja). On the Sauparna, see the next Sūtra.

14. This hymn is not found in any Vedic Samhitā, as far as I know, nor does it occur in the Suparṇādhyaṃya. I have followed Prof Stenzler's conjecture pra dhārā yantu instead of pradhārayantu, which is confirmed by Sāyana's note on Aitareya Brāhmaṇa VI, 25, 7; VIII, 10, 4 (pp. 365, 399, ed. Aufrecht).

17, 18. According to Nārāyaṇa the subject is the king.

19. 'Where the arrows fly' (l. l. v. 17)—this (verse) he should murmur while they are fighting.

20. Or he should teach (the king the texts mentioned). Or he should teach (the king).

End of the Third Adhyâya.

19. Here the subject is the Purohita.

ADHYÂVA IV, KANDIKÂ 1.

1. If disease befalls one who has set up the (sacred Srauta) fires, he should leave his home (and go away) to the eastern, or northern, or north-eastern direction.

2. 'The sacred fires are fond of the village'—thus it is said.

3. Longing for it, desirous of returning to the village they might restore him to health—thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

4. Being restored to health, he should offer a Soma sacrifice, or an animal sacrifice, or an ordinary sacrifice, and take his dwelling (again in the village).

5. Or without such a sacrifice.

6. If he dies, one should have a piece of ground dug up to the south-east or to the south-west—

7. At a place which is inclined towards the south or towards the south-east.

8. According to some (teachers), inclined towards south-west.

9. (The piece of ground dug up should be) of the length of a man with upraised arms,

10. Of the breadth of one Vyâma (fathom),

1., 1. Comp. Srauta-sûtra VI, 9, 1. The funeral rites according to the Grîhya-sûtras have been treated of by Prof. Max Müller, Zeitschrift der Deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft, vol. ix.

3. I. e. longing for the village. I here differ from Prof. Stenzler's translation, 'Indem sie, um nach dem Dorfe zu kommen, ihm Gutes wünschen.' Prof. Stenzler here follows Nârâyana, who has the following note, grâmanam âgantum ikṣanto-gnaya enam âhitâgnim âsamsante, ayam agado bhâved iti.

4. Comp. Srauta-sûtra VI, 9, 7

5. Srauta-sûtra VI, 10, 1.

11. Of the depth of one Vitasti (span).
12. The cemetery should be free from all sides.
13. It should be fertile in herbs.
14. But plants with thorns and with milky juice, &c., as stated above.
15. From which the waters flow off to all sides : this is a characteristic required for the cemetery (smaśāna) where the body is to be burned.
16. 'They cut off (from the dead body) the hair, the beard, the hairs of the body, and the nails'—this has been stated above.
17. (They should provide) plenty of sacrificial grass and of butter.
18. They here pour clarified butter into curds.
19. This is the 'sprinkled butter' used for the Fathers (i. e. Manes).

KANDIKĀ 2.

1. (The relations of the dead person) now carry (his sacred) fires and (his) sacrificial vessels in that direction.

12. Nārāyaṇa : By the word smaśāna (cemetery) two different smaśānas are designated here, because below (Sūtra 15) a distinction is added (to the word smaśāna), in the words, 'This is a characteristic required for the smaśāna where the body is to be burned.' Thus the place where the body is burned, and the place where the gathered bones are deposited, both are called smaśāna.

14. See above, II, 7, 5.
15. See the note on Sūtra 12.
16. See the Srauta-sūtra VI, 10, 2.

2. After them aged persons forming an odd number, men and women not going together, (carry) the dead body.

3. Some (say) that (the dead body should be carried) in a cart with a seat, drawn by cows.

4. (Some prescribe) a she-animal for covering (the dead body with its limbs):

5. A cow,

6. Or a she-goat of one colour.

7. Some (take) a black one.

8. They tie (a rope) to its left fore-foot and lead it behind (the dead body).

9. Then follow the relations (of the dead person), wearing their sacrificial cords below (round their body), with the hair-locks untied, the older ones first, the younger ones last.

10. When they have thus arrived at the place, the performer (of the rites) walks three times round the spot with his left side turned towards it, and with a Samî branch sprinkles water on it, with (the verse), 'Go away, withdraw, and depart from here' (Rig-veda X, 14, 9).

11. To the south-east, on an elevated corner (of that place), he places the Âhavanîya fire,

12. To the north-west the Gârhapatyâ fire,

13. To the south-west the Dakshinâ fire.

14. After that a person that knows (how to do it), piles up between the fires a pile of fuel.

4. See chap. 3, 20-25.

10. Kartodakena (i. e. kartâ udakena) is evidently the right reading, not gartodakena

15. After sacrificial grass and a black antelope's skin with the hair outside has been spread out there, they place the dead body thereon, which they have carried so as to pass by the Gârhapatya fire on its north-side, turning its head towards the Âhavanîya.

16. To the north (of the body they place) the wife (of the deceased),

17. And a bow for a Kshatriya.

18. Her brother-in-law, being a representative of her husband, or a pupil (of her husband), or an aged servant, should cause her to rise (from that place) with (the verse), 'Arise, O wife, to the world of life' (Rig-veda X, 18, 8).

19. The performer (of the rites) should murmur (that verse), if a Sûdra (makes her rise from the pile).

20. With (the verse), 'Taking the bow out of the hand of the deceased' (Rig-veda X, 18, 9), (he takes away) the bow.

21. It has been stated (what is to be done) in case a Sûdra (should perform this act).

construction, to the dead person, comp. Satapatha Brâhmana XII, 5, 2, 7.

16. The wife is made to lie down on the pile.

18. Possibly the words devara and patisthânîya refer to two different persons, so that we should have to translate, 'Her brother-in-law, (or some other) representative of her husband, &c.'

19. This refers to the case of the aged servant. The word for which we have put Sûdra here and in Sûtra 21, is vriśhala.

5. If (the three fires) reach (the body) in the same moment, they say that this signifies the highest luck.

6. While (the body) is burning, he recites over it the same texts, 'Go on, go on, on the ancient paths' (Rig-veda X, 14, 7).

7. Being burnt by a person who knows this, he goes to the heaven-world together with the smoke (of the funeral pile)—thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

8. To the north-east of the Āhavanīya fire he should have a knee-deep pit dug and should have an Avakā, i. e. (the water-plant called) Śpāla put down into it. From that (pit) he (i. e. the deceased) goes out and together with the smoke he goes up to the heaven-world—thus it is understood (in the Sruti).

KANDIKĀ 6.

1. They who have lost a Guru by death, or are afflicted by other misfortune, should perform on the new-moon day an expiatory ceremony.

2. Before sunrise they should carry their fire

7. Nārāyaṇa explains pavāna by śrīpa. He says that the 'performer' (kartṛ) repeats this and the following texts.

10. 'They should give a Śrāddha to the deceased exclusively, according to the Ekodishā rite.' Nārāyaṇa.

together with its ashes and with its receptacle to the south with the half-verse, 'I send far away the flesh-devouring Agni' (Rig-veda X, 16, 9)

3. Having thrown that (fire) down at a place where four roads meet or somewhere else, they walk round it three times, turning their left sides towards it, beating their left thighs with their left hands.

4. They then should return home without looking back, bathe in water, have their hair, their beards the hair of their bodies, and their nails cut, and furnish themselves with new jars, pots, vessels for rinsing the mouth, wreathed with garlands of Sami flowers, with fuel of Sami wood, with two pieces of Sami wood for kindling fire, and with branches to be laid round the fire, with bull's dung and a bull's hide, fresh butter, a stone, and as many bunches of Kusa grass as there are young women (in the house).

5. At the time of the Agni(-hotra) he should kindle fire with the hemistich, 'Here may this other Gâtavedas' (Rig-veda X, 16, 9).

commentator is right. The ceremonies described in the following Sûtras seem to point rather to a renewal of the sacred Grîhya fire, the old one having proved unlucky to the sacrificer. In the same way, in the Śrauta ritual, a sacrificer who, after having performed the Âdhâna, has bad luck, performs the Punarâdheya.

3. Comp. Kâtyâyana-Śrauta-sûtra V, 10, 15

5 The text has agniveśyām, which Nārāyaṇa explains by agnihotraviharavakāle aparāhne. He states that the fire should be produced by attrition of two new kindling woods (aravi), mentioned in Sûtra 4. The fire thus kindled is to be used he says, as a kitchen-fire. Herein he seems to me to have misunderstood the meaning of the ceremony, see the note on Sûtra 2. The hemistich quoted in this Sûtra (which is the second half of the same verse of which the first half is prescribed in Sûtra 2) clearly points to the sacred quality of the fire in question; it runs thus, 'Here may this other Gâtavedas carry the offerings to the gods, the knowing one.'

6. Keeping that (fire) burning, they sit till the silence of the night, repeating the tales of the aged, and getting stories of auspicious contents, Itihâsas and Purâṇas, told to them.

7. When all sounds have ceased, or when (the others) have gone to the house or the resting-place, (the performer of the ceremony) should pour out an uninterrupted stream of water, beginning at the south side of the door, with (the verse), 'Spinning the thread follow the light of the aerial space' (Rig-veda X, 53, 6), (going round the house), ending at the north side of the door.

8. Having then given its place to the fire, and having spread to the west of it a bull's hide with the neck to the east, with the hair outside, he should cause the people belonging to the house to step on that (hide) with (the verse), 'Arise to long life, choosing old age' (Rig-veda X, 18, 6).

9. With (the verse), 'This I lay round the living' (Rig-veda X, 18, 4), he should lay branches round (the fire).

10. After having with (the words), 'A mountain (i. e. a stone) they shall place between themselves and death,' placed a stone to the north of the fire, and having sacrificed with the four (verses), 'Go hence, O death, on another way' (Rig-veda X, 18,

7. The person who pours out the water is, as Nârâyana says, the kartri, i. e. the performer of the whole ceremony. The word cannot be translated, as Prof. Stenzler does, der Bestatter, no funeral ceremonies being here treated of.

8. See above, I, 8, 9. Here Nârâyana sees that the fire is the sacred one. He says, atharabdo-smin kâle-gnyantaram aupâsanam upasamâdadhât iti gñâpanârtham.

10. The words, 'A mountain,' &c., stand at the end of the verse quoted in Sûtra 9.

11. The young women (belonging to the house) should, with each hand separately, with their thumbs and fourth fingers, with young Darbha blades, salve their eyes with fresh butter, and throw (the Darbha blades) away, turning their faces away.

12. (The performer of the ceremony) should look at them, while they are salving themselves, with (the verse), 'These women, being no widows, having noble husbands' (Rig-veda X, 18, 7).

13. With (the verse), 'Carrying stones, (the river) streams forward; take hold of each other' (Rig-veda X, 53, 8)—the performer (of the ceremony) first should touch the stone.

14. After that, stationing himself to the north-east, while (the others) go round with the fire, with bull's dung, and with an uninterrupted stream of water, repeating the three verses, 'O waters, ye are wholesome' (Rig-veda X, 9, 1 seqq.), he should murmur the verse, 'These have led round the cow' (Rig-veda X, 155, 5).

15. A tawny-coloured bull should he lead round—thus they say.

17. (There) they sit, avoiding to sleep, till sunrise.

5 Anādye. Of the different interpretations of this word which Nārāyaṇa gives, it may suffice here to quote two. The first Śrāddha may either mean the Pārvana Śrāddha, because this stands first among the different kinds of Śrāddha ceremonies enumerated in Sūtra 1; or it may mean the Sapindīkaraṇa (see Sāṅkhāyana IV, 3), for this is the first occasion on which a dead person receives Śrāddha oblations together with two others of the Fathers.

6. The sacrifice to the Manes, as forming part of the Śrauta ritual, is explained in the Śrauta-sūtra II, 6 seq.

8. Yâgñavalkya I, 229.

9 Yâgñavalkya I, 230. The reading of several words of the Mantra is doubtful, and the parallel texts, as Prof. Stenzler has not failed to observe, differ; especially the words pratnavadbhiḥ prattaḥ seem to me to be corrupt. The word pratnavat is only known to the Petersburg Dictionary as having the meaning, 'containing the word pratna,' which will not do here. Thus, I think that the reading pratnam adbhiḥ prīktaḥ should be adopted; the translation would be, 'Anciently thou hast been mixed with water.'

the gods. By the ancients thou hast been offered. Through the funeral oblation render the Fathers and these worlds propitious to us. Svadhâ! Adoration!'

12. (The different rites are performed) from the right to the left.

13. With (the part) of the other (i. e. left) hand between the thumb (and the fore-finger), because he wears the sacrificial cord over his left shoulder, or with the right hand which he seizes with the left (he offers the Arghya water to the Fathers with the words), 'Father, this is thy Arghya. Grandfather, this is thy Arghya. Great-grandfather, this is thy Arghya'—having first offered (ordinary) water (to the Fathers).

14. When he is going to hand over that (Arghya water to the Brâhmanas who represent the Fathers, he says once each time), 'Svadhâ! The Arghya water!'

15. Over (the Arghya water) which has been

12. Comp. Sâṅkhâya-Grîhya IV, 4, 6.

13. The part of the hand above the thumb is called the 'Tîrtha belonging to the Manes;' see, for instance, Baudhâya's Dharma-sûtra I, 8, 16. The sacrificer is here understood to wear his sacrificial cord suspended over the left shoulder (he is 'yâgñopavîtin'). But as the oblation here treated of is directed to the Manes, it is required that he should be prâkṣîṇâvîtin. Now he is considered as prâkṣîṇâvîtin, according to Nârâyana, not only if the cord is suspended over his right shoulder (which is the ordinary meaning of prâkṣîṇâvîtin), but also if the hand with which he performs the rites, and the shoulder over which he wears the sacred cord, are either both right or both left. Thus here, acting with the left-hand and wearing the cord over the left shoulder, he becomes prâkṣîṇâvîtin.

The last word (appûrvam) is separated by Nârâyana from the rest, so that it forms a separate Sûtra.

15. The sacrificer gives the water to the Brâhmanas, and these poured out, he should recite the verse, 'The celestial waters which have been produced on the earth, the aerial waters and the waters which are terrestrial, the gold-coloured ones, apt for sacrifice, may these waters bring us luck and be kind to us.' Pouring together what has been left (in the three Arghya vessels) he moistens his face with that water, if he desires that a son should be born to him.

16. 'He should not take up the first vessel, into which the Arghya water for the Fathers has been poured. Hidden the Fathers dwell therein: thus Saunaka has said.'

17. In that moment the gifts of perfumes, garlands, incense, lights, and clothes are offered (to the Brāhmanas).

18. Having taken some food (of the Sthālpāka prepared for the Pindapitriyagña), and having besmeared it with ghee, he asks (the Brāhmanas) for their permission by saying, 'I shall offer it in the fire,' or, 'I will sacrifice my offering in the fire,' or, 'I will offer it in the fire.'

19. The permission (is given in the words), 'It may be offered,' or, 'Sacrifice thy offering,' or, 'Offer it.'

20. He then sacrifices in the fire as stated above, pour it out. Instead of pr̥ithivī sambabhūvūḥ (pr̥ithivī being intended as a locative; see Lanman, Noun-inflection in the Veda, p. 389) we should read, no doubt, as the parallel texts have, payasā sambabhūvūḥ: 'The celestial waters which have united themselves with milk.'

16. This is a Sloka.

17. Manu III, 209; Yāgyavalkya I, 231.

20. The oblations alluded to in this Sūtra are prescribed in the Śrauta-sūtra, II, 6, 12. They are directed to Soma pitṛmat and to Agni kavyavāhana.

21. Or, if they give their permission, in the hands (of the Brāhmaṇas)

22. 'The mouth of the gods verily is the fire, the mouth of the Fathers is the hand'—thus says the Brāhmaṇa.

23. If in the hands, he assigns to them other food, after they have sipped water.

24. The food (is put together) with the food.

25. It is said, 'What is given away and offered, that brings prosperity.'

26. When he sees that they are satiated, he should recite (the verses) containing the word madhu, and (the verse), 'They have eaten, they have enjoyed themselves' (Rig-veda I, 82, 2).

27. Having asked them, 'Relished?' and having taken the food, whatever food he has used, together with the Sthālpāka, in order to make lumps thereof, he should offer the rest (to the Brāhmaṇas).

28. After they have either accepted (that rest of food), or left it (to him), and have finished eating, he should, before they have sipped water, put down the lumps for the Fathers.

21. According to Manu (III, 212) this is done only in case there is no fire. Possibly abhyanugñāyām belongs to Sūtra 20, so that we should have to translate, 'He then sacrifices . . . if they give their permission Or in the hands.'

24. 'The food which is left from the oblations he puts with the food (Sūtra 23) which is to be eaten by the Brāhmaṇas, and has been put into the vessels.' Nārāyaṇa.

25. Is srīśham to be understood in the sense of viśīśham? Nārāyaṇa explains it by prabhūtam.

26. The verses containing the word madhu are Rig-veda I, 90, 6-8.

27. On the question, 'Relished?' compare Śāṅkhāyana-Grhya IV, 2, 5. For several kinds of Śrāddha ceremonies a Sthālpāka is prescribed, for others it is not; for the Śrāddhas of the last kind the words 'Together with the Sthālpāka' are not valid

29. After they have sipped water, according to some (teachers).

30. Having strewn the food on the ground and suspended the sacrificial cord over his left shoulder, he should dismiss the Brâhmanas, (saying to them), 'Say Om! Svadhâ!'

31. Or, 'So be it! Svadhâ!'

5. One with black spots, according to some,

6. If he likes, a black one, if its colour inclines to copper-colour.

7. He sprinkles it with water, into which he has thrown rice and barley,

8. From head to tail,

9. With (the formula), 'Grow up, agreeable to Rudra the great god.'

10. He should let it grow up. When it has cut its teeth, or when it has become a bull—

11. To a quarter (of the horizon) which is sacrificially pure,

12. At a place which cannot be seen from the village,

30. They reply, 'Om! Svadhâ!'

8, 1. According to Nârâyana, the 'spit-ox' sacrifice is so called because it is offered to Rudra the spit-wearer.

10. This Sûtra should rather be divided into two.

11. I. e. to the east or the north.

13. After midnight,
 14. According to some, after sunrise.
 15. Having caused a Brahman who is versed in learning and knows the practice (of this sacrifice), to sit down, having driven a fresh branch with leaves into the ground as a sacrificial post, (having taken) two creeping plants or two Kusa ropes as two girdles, and having wound the one round the sacrificial post, and tied the other round the middle of the animal's head, he binds it to the sacrificial post or to the girdle (which he had tied to that post) with (the formula), 'Agreeable to him to whom adoration (is brought), I bind thee.'

16. The sprinkling with water and what follows is the same as at the animal sacrifice.

17. We shall state what is different.

18. Let him sacrifice the omentum with the Pâtri or with a leaf—thus it is understood (in the Sruti)—

19. With (the formulas), 'To Hara, Mṛida, Sarva, Sīva, Bhava, Mahādeva, Ugra, Bhīma, Paśupati, Rudra, Saikara, Īsāna svâhâ!'

20. Or with the last six (parts of that formula),

21. Or with (the formula), 'To Rudra svâhâ!'

22. Let him make Bali offerings towards the four quarters (of the horizon), to each on four rings of Kusa net-work, with (the formulas), 'The hosts, Rudra, which thou hast towards the eastern direction, - to them this (offering is brought). Adoration to thee! Do no harm to me! In this way the assigning (of the offerings is performed) according to the different quarters (of the horizon).

15 Round the middle of the head means, between the two horns. Nârâyana.

16. See above, I, 11.

22. This Bali offering is performed, according to Nârâyana, before the Svishṭakṛt oblation of the chief sacrifice. On kusastūna the commentator has the note, 'Darbhastambais trīṇais ka kalpavad (or rather, as Prof. Stenzler writes, kaṭakavad) grathitvâ sarveshâm agram grathitvâ, ekikṛtya grathitvâ kusastūnâ ukṛyante.'

23. With the following four hymns he should worship the four quarters, viz. 'What shall we to Rudra,' 'These prayers to Rudra,' 'To thee, O father,' 'These songs to Rudra with the strong bow' (Rig-veda I, 43, 114; II, 33; VII, 46).

24. (This) worship to the quarters (of the horizon) (is performed) at all sacrifices to Rudra.

25. The husks and chaff (of the rice), the tail, the skin, the head, the feet (of the sacrificial animal) he should throw into the fire.

26. He should turn the skin to some use, according to Sâmvatya.

27. To the north of the fire, on rows of Darbha grass, or on rings of Kusa net-work, he should pour out the blood (of the sacrificial animal) with (the formula), 'Hissing ones! Noisy ones! Searching ones! Seizing ones! Serpents! What here belongs to you, take that.'

28. Then, turning to the north, (he assigns it) to the serpents (in the words), 'Hissing ones! Noisy ones! Searching ones! Seizing ones! Serpents! What here belongs to you, take that.'

Then the serpents take whatever has flowed down there of blood or of the contents of stomach and entrails.

29. All names, all hosts, all exaltations belong to him,—to a sacrificer who knows that, he gives joy.

30. Even to a man who only with words sets forth (some part) of that (ceremony), he will do no harm; thus it is understood (in the Śruti).

31. He should not partake of that (sacrifice).

32. They should not take anything belonging to it into the village. For this god will do harm to (human) creatures.

33. He should keep away his people from the vicinity (of the place where he has sacrificed).

34. On an express injunction, however, he should partake (of that sacrificial food), for it will bring luck.

35. This spit-ox sacrifice procures wealth, (open) space, purity, sons, cattle, long life, splendour.

36. After he has sacrificed, he should let loose another (animal).

37. He should not be without such an animal.

38. Then he will not be without cattle—thus it is understood (in the Śruti).

39. Muttering the Santātiya hymn, he should go to his house.

40. If disease befalls his cattle, he should sacrifice to that same god in the midst of his cow-stable—

41. A mess of cooked food, which he sacrifices in its entirety.

32. Instead of abhimāruka we ought to read abhimānuka. See Āitareya Brāhmaṇa III, 34, and the Petersburg Dictionary s. v. abhimānuka.

44. Adoration to Saunaka! Adoration to Saunaka!

PÂRASKARA-GR/HYA-
SÛTRA.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE

PÂRASKARA-GRÎHYA-SÛTRA

THE Grîhya-sûtra of Pâraskara, which belongs to the White Yagur-veda and forms an appendix to Kâtyâyana's Srauta-sûtra, has been edited, with a German translation, by the scholar who was the first to make a Grîhya text accessible to Orientalists and to begin to grapple with the first and most serious difficulties that beset its interpretation, and who has continued since to do more than any-one else towards elucidating that important branch of Vedic literature. It would be very unbecoming in any one engaged in the study of Grîhya texts, not to acknowledge most warmly the debt of gratitude which he owes to Professor Stenzler. At the same time the respect due to the veteran editor and interpreter of Ârvalâyaṇa and Pâraskara not only allows, but requires that one who proposes to himself the same task at which Prof. Stenzler has worked with so much learning, should state as clearly as possible what that distinguished scholar has left for others to do, and why one who prepares an English translation of Pâraskara has a very different task from merely translating into English the German translation of Prof. Stenzler.

If I may venture to express in one word the difference between Prof. Stenzler's method, as I understand it, for getting at the meaning of a doubtful or obscure passage, and the method which I have endeavoured to follow, I should say that with Prof. Stenzler the first step and,

I believe, in many cases also the last step is to ask how Gayarâma and Râmakrishna understand the passage in question, while I hold that we ought rather to make ourselves independent from those commentators in the sense in which Prof Max Muller once expressed himself¹, 'not that I ever despise the traditional interpretation which the commentators have preserved to us, but because I think that, after having examined it, we have a right to judge for ourselves.' There exists a commentary on the Pâraskara-Grîhya which far surpasses in trustworthiness Gayarâma's Sagganavallabha and Râmakrishna's Samskâlaganapati, and which is not composed by an author who, as says Goethe,

— im Auslegen ist munter ;

Legt er nicht aus, so legt er unter.

But the leaves of that commentary are scattered through a good many volumes. Here we find a few lines of it in the Satapatha Brâhmaṇa or in Kâtyâyana's Siuta-sûtra ; there Sâṅkhâyaṇa or Âsvalâyaṇa has preserved a word or a sentence that belongs to it, or the law-books of Manu or Yâgñavalkya help us to understand a difficult or doubtful aphorism of our text. In one word: the only true commentary on a work like Pâraskara's Grîhya is that which the ancient literature itself furnishes. No one will say that in Prof Stenzler's translation and notes this commentary has not been consulted. But it has been consulted perhaps not quite as much as it ought to have been, and Râmakrishna and Gayarâma have been consulted too much. They have been consulted and followed in many instances, where a continued consideration of what can be the meaning of a word and what can not, and of what the parallel texts say with regard to the subject in question, would have shown that those commentators, instead of interpreting Pâraskara's meaning, father on him vague opinions of their own.

Perhaps it will not be out of place here to point our criticism, lest it should be deemed unjust, by a few remarks on a single passage of Pâraskara in which the difference of Prof. Stenzler's way of translating and of our own becomes manifest. Of the numerous passages which could be selected for this purpose, I choose Sûtra I, 2, 5, belonging to the description of the setting up of the sacred domestic fire. The text of that Sûtra runs thus :

5. arañipradânam eke.

Prof. Stenzler translates as follows :

'Einige sagen, es müsse durch Reibholzer erzeugtes Feuer sein.'

The two Sûtras which precede give a description of that ceremony from which evidently the opinion of the 'eke' mentioned in this Sûtra differs, or to which they find it necessary to add something. Those Sûtras run thus :

3. After he has fetched fire from the house of a Vaisya who is rich in cattle—

4. All ceremonies are performed as at the cooking of the kâtushprâsya food¹,

It seems evident that the Âkâryas to whom the opinion spoken of in Sûtra 5 belongs, add, or perhaps substitute, to the fetching of the fire which is to be worshipped as the sacrificer's domestic fire, from a rich Vaisya's house, another rite in which an arañi, i.e. a stick for kindling the fire by attrition, is made use of in some way or other.

Now if this may be accepted as a vague expression of the general purport of the Sûtra, what is the literal meaning of the words? 'Some (teachers),' it says, '(prescribe) the pradâna of the kindling stick (or, of the kindling sticks).'

What does pradâna mean? Gayarâma says,

'prasabda upasabdârthe. aranyupâdânakam eka âkâryâ ikkhanti'

That is: 'The word pra stands in the sense of the word upa. Some teachers desire that it (i.e. the fire) should have the kindling sticks as its physical basis¹.'

Thus, if Gayarâma is right, Prof. Stenzler's translation would be justified. But can we acquiesce indeed in simply accepting the commentator's opinion? Pradâna is pradâna and not upâdâna, as pradadâti is not upâdatte. Pradadâti means 'he hands over,' and piadâna 'the handing over.' This is an established fact, and an interpreter of a Vedic text should not allow himself to be induced by a statement like that of Gayarâma about the preposition pra standing in the sense of upa, to abate one iota of it. Thus we are obliged, until passages have been discovered which modify our knowledge of what pradâna means—but such passages most certainly will never be discovered—to translate:

5. Some (teachers) say that) the handing over of the kindling sticks (takes place).

We should give that translation even if we were not able to find an explanation for it. It appears that Prof. Stenzler, as far as we can judge from his note, has not even thought of the possibility of disregarding the authority of Gayarâma and Râmakrishna, or of looking through the parallel texts to see whether they do not throw light on what that 'handing over of the kindling sticks' signifies. The text to be consulted first is of course Kâtyâyana's Srauta-sûtra. As the Srauta ritual contains a description of an âdhâna which is in some way the prototype of the corresponding Grihya ceremony, we may possibly expect to discover, in the course of that description, the statements regarding the arani-pradâna for which we are searching. Now *Kâtyâyana*², having described the setting up of the fire in the gârhapatyâgâra, states that at sunset the sacrificer and his wife sit down to the west of the fire which has just been established, and then the Adhvaryu hands over to them the two kindling sticks¹. The Paddhati, in describing that act, goes into further details. The Adhvaryu hands over to the sacrificer the two Aranis, which, as required by custom, are wrapped up in new clothes. The wife takes the adharâraṇi from his hand and puts it on her lap; the sacrificer puts the uttarâraṇi on his lap, and they do homage to them with flowers, saffron, sandal wood, &c.; then, after the performance of some other ceremonies, they put the two Aranis away on a chair or bench. The two Aranis have to be kept by the sacrificer; if they are lost or burnt or destroyed in any other way, other Aranis must be procured, and by their attrition a new fire must be kindled².

² IV, 7, 15 seqq. The corresponding passage of the Paddhati is found at p. 358 of Prof. Weber's edition.

Âpastamba likewise mentions, in his description of the *Agnyâdhâna*³, the handing over of the two Aranis, and indicates a Mantra which the Adhvaryu recites in giving them to the sacrificer, and two other Mantras with the one of which the sacrificer receives them, while he recites the other over the Aranis, after having taken them into his hands.

Finally we may quote here, as bearing witness to the custom of the Araṇipradâna, a passage taken from Nârâyana's commentary on the Sâṅkhâyana-Gṛihya. Though the decisive words in that passage rest only on the authority of the commentator and not of the Sûtrakâra himself, they deserve to be taken notice of, as they are not subject to the suspicion that they could be influenced by a misunderstanding of that very Sûtra of Pâraskara of which we are treating. Nârâyana says, in his explanation of Sâṅkhâyana I, 1, 10⁴: 'To the west of the fire the sacrificer, and southwards (of him) the wife sits down. The handing over of the kindling sticks does not take place. For it is a fire fetched (from a Vaisya's house, &c.) which is inaugurated here¹. Then the commentator goes on to quote a Sloka.

'The handing over of the Araṇis which the Adhvaryu sometimes performs,

'Is not in accordance with the opinion of *Suyagña*²; he does not approve of kindling the fire by attrition³.'

Thus, I think, no doubt can remain as to the real meaning of Pâṭaskara's Sûtra. it means what its words signify and what is in accordance with Kâtyâyana and Âpastamba, and it does not mean what the commentators most gratuitously would make it mean.

Perhaps I have dwelt here too long on the interpretation of a few words which are of no peculiar interest in themselves. But I venture to hope that the discussion on these words will serve as a specimen, by which the fundamental difference of two methods of handling our texts may be discerned. Let us never forget how much we owe to the scholars who have followed the first of these methods, but for ourselves let us choose the second.

Having wiped (around the surface on which he intends to perform a sacrifice), having besmeared it (with cowdung), having drawn the lines thereon, having taken the earth out (of the lines), having besprinkled (the place with water), having established the (sacred) fire, having spread out the seat for the Brahman to the south, having carried forward (the Pranīta water), having spread (Kusa grass) round (the fire), having put down (the different things used at the sacrifice) according as they are wanted, having prepared two (Kusa blades used as) strainers, having consecrated the Prokshant

1, 1. Comp. Sāṅkhāyana-Gr̥hya I, 1; Āsvalāyana-Gr̥hya I, 1, &c. It seems to me that Professor Stenzler is not quite right in giving to the opening words of the text athâtañ, which he translates 'nun also,' the explanation: 'das heisst, nach Beendigung des Srauta-sūtra von Kātyāyana.' I think rather it can be shown that atañ does not contain a reference, to something preceding; thus the Srauta-sūtra, which forms the first part of the whole Sūtra collection, is opened in the same way by the words athâto-dhikārañ.

2. The description of the standard form of domestic sacrifice opens with an enumeration of the five so-called bhūsamskāra (parisamuhya, &c.). On the samūhana (for parisamuhya is derived water, having sprinkled (with that water the sacrificial implements) according to what is needed, having poured out (the Âgya or sacrificial butter into the pot), and having put the sacrificial butter on the fire, he should (lustrate the butter by) moving a fire-brand round it.

3. Having warmed the (sacrificial spoon called) Sruva, having wiped it, having besprinkled it (with water), and warmed it again, he should put it down.

4. Having taken the Âgya from the fire, having purified it, having looked at it, and (having purified) the Prokshant water as above, having taken up the Kusa blades with which he is to take hold (of the Âgya pot) by its under surface, having put pieces of wood on (the fire), and having sprinkled (water round it), he should sacrifice.

5. This is the rite wherever a sacrifice is performed.

KANDIKÂ 2.

1. The setting up of the Âvasathya (or sacred domestic) fire (is performed) at the time of his wedding.

But it is also possible that the expression may refer to the second Sûtra of this chapter, where it is said, prokshantîḥ samskr̥tya. On upayamanân kusân, comp. Kâtyâyana I, 10, 6-8.

As the Gr̥hya ceremonies are included here under the category of mahāyagnās or great sacrifices, they require, according to the teachers whose opinion is stated in Sūtra 5, a form of the Agnyādhāna (setting up of the sacred fire) analogous to the Agnyādhāna of the Srauta ritual, and containing, like that Ādhāna, the act of the Araṇipradāna or handing over of the kindling woods (Sūtra 5).

7. The deities of the Agnyādheya, or of the Srauta ceremony corresponding to the Gr̥hya rite here treated of, are Agni pavamāna, Agni pāvaka, Agni sukī, Aditi. On the Āgyabhāgas, see Sāṅkhāyana I, 9, 7, &c.

8. The verses Vâg. Samh. XXI, 3, 4, the two verses quoted thou, Agni' (Vâg. Samhitâ XXI, 4); 'This, O Varuṇa' (XXI, 1); 'For this I entreat thee' (XXI, 2); 'Thy hundred' (Kâty.-Sraut. XXV, 1, 11); 'And quick, Agni' (Kâty. 1.1.), 'The highest one' (Vâg. Samh. XII, 12); 'Be both to us' (ibid. V, 3)—with (these verses he sacrifices) eight (oblations) before (the oblations of cooked food).

9. Thus he sacrifices also afterwards, after he has made oblations of the mess of cooked food to the deities of the Agnyâdheya.

10. And to (Agni) Svishtakṛit,

11. With (the formulas), 'Into the quick one (has been put) Agni's (sacrificial portion) over which the word vashaḥ has been spoken,' 'What I have done too much;' 'O gods who know the way.'

13. Then food is given to the Brâhmanas.

Kâty. XXV, 1, 11, and fifthly the verse Vâg. Samh. XII, 12, are prescribed for the Sarvaprayaskitta (or general expiatory ceremony), see Kâtyâyana 1.1.

11. Professor Stenzler, following Gayarâma, takes the whole as one Mantra, which he translates: 'Ungehemmet sei Agni's Spende, die durch die That ich überreich machte, bahnschaffende Gotter!' But the words yat karmanâtyarîikam are the opening words of a Mantra quoted Satapatha Brâhmana XIV, 9, 4, 24, (comp. also Âsvalâyana-Grîhya I, 10, 23; the connection in which atyarîikam there stands, shows that the word designates a mistake made in the sacrificial work by doing too much.) The words devâ gâtuvîdâḥ are the Prâtika of Vâg. Samhitâ VIII, 21. Thus I have no doubt that also ayâsy Agner vashaḥkrîtam (or possibly ayâsy Agner (?) and vashaḥkrîtam (?)) is a Prâtika. Of course, the translation of these words must remain uncertain until the Mantra to which they belong has been discovered.

14. The literal translation would be: 'He salves together (samañ-gayati) the two . . . May the waters salve together (samañ-gantu) our hearts.' It was a real anointing of the bridegroom and of the bride, that took place, and we cannot accept Professor Stenzler's translation (based on Gayarâma's note: samañ-gayati parasparam sammukhîkaroti), by which the proper signification of samañ-gayati is effaced: Dann heisst (der Vater der Braut) sie beide zusammentreten. See the note on Sâṅkhâyaṇa-Grhya I, 12, 5. The parallel passage of the Khândîra-Grhya runs thus: apaenâgnim aucûko gatvâ pâṇigrâham mûrdhany avasṛîkēd, vadhûm ka, samañ-ga utv ity avasiktaḥ.

‘May Agni come hither, the first of gods. May he release the offspring of this wife from the fetter of death. That may this king Varuṇa grant, that this wife may not weep over distress (falling to her lot) through her sons. Svâhâ!’

‘May Agni Gârhapatya protect this woman. May he lead her offspring to old age. With fertile womb may she be the mother of living children. May she experience delight in her sons. Svâhâ!’

‘Make, Agni, all ways of heaven and earth blissful to us, O thou who art worthy of sacrifices. What is great, born on this (earth), and praised, (born) in heaven, that bestow on us, rich treasures. Svâhâ!’

‘Come hither, showing us an easy path. Give us bright, undecaying life. May death go away; may immortality come to us. May Vivasvat’s son make us safe from danger. Svâhâ!’

‘This woman, strewing grains, prays thus, “May my husband live long; may my relations be prosperous.” Svâhâ!

‘These grains I throw into the fire: may this bring prosperity to thee, and may it unite me with thee. May Agni grant us that. N. N. Svâhâ!’

3. He then seizes her right hand together with the thumb, with (the verses),

‘I seize thy hand for the sake of happiness, that thou mayst live to old age with me, thy husband. Bhaga, Aryaman, Savitri, Purandhi, the gods have given thee to me that we may rule our house.

21. Sûnkhâyana I, 17, 5. 6, Âsvalâyana I, 8, 10. 11.

9, 1. The expression which I have translated 'beginning from the wedding' is upayamanaprabhṛti. The Indian commentators and Professor Stenzler explain the term upayamana as implying a reference to the Sûtra I, 1, 4, upayamanân kusân âdâya ('having taken up the Kusa blades with which he is to take hold of the lower surface of the Âgya pot'). 'The worshipping of the domestic fire,' says Stenzler, following the native authorities, 'consists in the rites which have been prescribed above (I, 1, 4), beginning from the word upayamana, i. e. in the taking up of the Kusa blades, the putting of wood on the fire, the sprinkling and sacrificing. As the rites preceding that word, such as the preparation of the sacrificial spoon (I, 1, 3), are hereby excluded, the oblations are offered with the hand.' It would be easy to show that the upayamanâḥ kusâḥ have nothing at all to do with the regular morning and evening oblations of which these Sûtras treat. The comparison of Âsvalâyana-Grhya I, 9, 1 (see also Manu III, 67, &c.) leaves no doubt that upayamana is to be understood here as derived from upayakṣati in its very frequent meaning of marrying. I have translated the Sûtra accordingly.

Samh. VIII, 51 a).

2. Having got ready another chariot, he (i.e. the Purohita or the bridegroom) should make the king or the woman sit down thereon with (the formula), 'In royal power' down to the word, 'in sacrifice'

5. Comp. Sâṅkhâya-Gr̥hya I, 17, 9, where the reading and the construction slightly differ. KANDIKĀ 18

1. If she does not conceive, he should, after having fasted, under (the Nakshatra) Pushya, lay down (in his house) the root of a white-blooming Simhi plant, and on the fourth day, after (his wife) has bathed, he should in the night-time crush it in water and insert it into her right nostril with (the verse), 'This herb is protecting, overcoming, and powerful. May I, the son of this great (mother), obtain the name of a father!'

KANDIKĀ 14.

1. Now the Pumsavana (i.e. the ceremony to secure the birth of a male child),

2. Before (the child in his mother's womb) moves, in the second or third month (of pregnancy).

3. On a day on which the moon stands in conjunction with a Nakshatra (that has a name) of masculine gender, on that day, after having caused (his wife) to fast, to bathe, and to put on two garments which have not yet been washed, and after having in the night-time crushed in water descending roots and shoots of a Nyagrodha tree, he inserts (that into her right nostril) as above, with the two (verses), 18, 1. I have translated according to the reading of a similar Mantra found in the Atharva-veda (VIII, 2, 6), which no doubt is correct, sahasvatî instead of sarasvatî.

14, 3. The words 'as above' refer to chap. 13, 1.

'The gold-child' (Vâg. Samh. XIII, 4) and 'Formed of water' (ibid. XXXI, 17);

4. A Kusa needle and a Soma stalk, according to some (teachers).

5. And he puts gall of a tortoise on her lap.

If he desires, 'May (the son) become valiant,' he recites over him (i.e. over the embryo), modifying the rite (?), 'The Suparna art thou' (Vâg. Samh. XII, 4), (the Yagus) before (the formulas called) 'steps of Vishnu.'

KANDIKÂ 15.

1. Now the Sîmantonnayana (or parting of the pregnant wife's hair).

2. (It is performed) like the Pumsavana ;

3. In her first pregnancy, in the sixth or eighth month.

4. After he has cooked a mess of sacrificial food, containing sesamum and Mudga beans, and has sacrificed to Pragâpati, he parts for the wife, who is seated to the west of the fire on a soft chair, her hair upwards (i.e. beginning from the front) with a bunch containing an even number of unripe Udumbara

4. Comp. Sâṅkhâyaṇa-Gr̥hya I, 20, 3.

5. The commentators state that kûrmapitta (gall of tortoise) means 'a dish with water.' I place no confidence in this statement, though I cannot show at present what its origin is. I am not sure about the translation of vikṛityâ (or vikṛitya?). But it seems impossible to me that it should be the name of the metre Vikṛiti. 'Steps of Vishnu' is a name for the Yagus following in the Samhitâ on the one prescribed in this Sûtra. It begins, 'Vishnu's step art thou, &c.' (Vâg. Samh. XII, 5).

15. 2. I.e. the Nakshatra under which the ceremony is performed, should be of male gender; the wife is to fast, &c. (see chap. 14, 3).

6. He ties (the Udumbara fruits, &c.) to a string of three twisted threads with (the words), 'Rich in sap is this tree; like the tree, rich in sap, be thou fruitful.'

7. (The husband) then says to two lute-players, 'Sing ye the king, or if anybody else is still more valiant.'

8. Here some also prescribe a certain stanza (to be sung by the lute-players): 'Soma alone is our king. May these human tribes dwell on thy banks, O (river) whose dominion is unbroken, N.N.!'—here he names the name of the river near which they dwell.

15. The fifth one, looking upwards, should say, 'On-breathing!'

16. Or (the father) may do that himself, going round (his child), if he can find no (Brâhmanas).

17. He recites over the place at which (the child) is born: 'I know, O earth, thy heart that dwells in heaven, in the moon. That I know; may it know me. May we see a hundred autumns; may we live a hundred autumns; may we hear a hundred autumns.'

9. A Gagatī to a Vaisya,

10. Or a Gāyatrī to (persons of) all (castes).

KANDIKĀ 4.

1. Now the putting on of fuel.

2. He wipes with his hand (the ground) round the fire with (the formula), 'Agni, glorious one, make me glorious. As thou, glorious Agni, art glorious, thus, O glorious one, bring me to glory. As thou, Agni, art the preserver of the treasure of sacrifice for the gods, thus may I become the preserver of the treasure of the Veda for men.'

3. Having sprinkled (water) round the fire from left to right, he stands up and puts a piece of wood on (the fire)-with (the texts),

'To Agni I have brought a piece of wood, to the great Gātavēdas. As thou, Agni, art inflamed by wood, thus I am inflamed by life, insight, vigour, offspring, cattle, holy lustre.

'May my teacher be the father of living sons; may I be full of insight, not forgetful (of what I have learned); may I become full of glory, of splendour, of holy lustre, an enjoyer of food. Svāhā!

5. Or (each piece) with (the verse), 'Thine is this' (Vâg. Samh. II, 14).

6. Or (he uses) both (this verse and the formulas given in Sûtra 3).

7. The wiping and sprinkling (of water) round (the fire are repeated) as above.

8. Having warmed his two hands, he wipes his mouth with (the formulas) :

'Agni, thou art the protector of bodies. Protect my body. Agni, thou art the giver of life. Give me life. Agni, thou art the giver of vigour. Give me vigour.

'Agni, what is deficient in my body, that restore to fulness.

'May the god Savitri bestow insight on me, may the goddess Sarasvatî, may the two divine Arsvins, wreathed with lotus, (bestow) insight (on me).'

KANDIKÂ 5.

1. Here (follows the student's) going the rounds for alms.

2. A Brâhmana should beg, addressing (the woman from whom he begs alms) with the word 'Lady' put at the beginning (of his request),

3. A Râganya, with the word 'Lady' inserted in the middle,

4. A Vaisya, with the word 'Lady' put at the end.'

5. Âsvalâyana-Grhya I, 22, 7.

6. From six, twelve, or an indefinite number.

7. From his own mother first, according to some (teachers).

8. Having announced the alms received to his teacher, he should stand, keeping silence, through the rest of the day, according to some.

9. Having fetched fire-wood out of the forest without damaging (trees), he should put them on that fire as above, and should abandon his silence.

10. He should sleep on the ground and eat no pungent or saline food.

11. Wearing the staff, worshipping the fire, being obedient to his Guru, going the rounds for alms—(these are the standing duties of students).

12. He should avoid honey or flesh, bathing (for pleasure), sitting on high seats, going to women, falsehood, and taking what is not given to him.

13. Let him live forty-eight years as a student for the (four) Vedas,

14. Or twelve years for each Veda,

15. Or until he has learnt it.

16. The garment (of a student) should be made of hemp, flax, or wool (accordingly as he is a Brāhmaṇa, a Kshatriya, or a Vaisya).

17. The upper garment of a Brāhmaṇa should be an antelope-skin,

18. That of a Rājanya the skin of a spotted deer;

21. The girdle of a Brâhmaṇa should be of Muṇḍga grass,

22. That of a Kshatriya should be a bowstring,

23. That of a Vaisya, made of Mûryâ (i. e. Sanseveria Roxburghiana).

24. If there is no Muṇḍga (or the other articles prescribed in §§ 22, 23, the girdles should be made) of Kusa grass, of the plant Aśmantakā, or of Balbaga grass (respectively).

25. The staff of a Brâhmaṇa is of Palâsa wood,

26. That of a Râganya of Bilva wood,

27. That of a Vaisya of Udumbara wood.

snâtaka (i. e. a Snâtaka by the completion of his vows), and a Vidyâ-vrata-snâtaka (i. e. a Snâtaka both by knowledge and by the completion of his vows).

33. He who performs the Samâvartana ceremony, after having finished the study of the Veda, but before the time of his vows has expired, is a Vidyâ-snâtaka.

34. He who performs the Samâvartana, after his vows have expired, but before he has finished the study of the Veda, is a Vrata-snâtaka.

35. He who performs the Samâvartana, after having finished both, is a Vidyâ-vrata-snâtaka.

36. Until the sixteenth year the time (for being initiated) has not passed for a Brâhmaṇa,

37. Until the twenty-second for a Râganya,

38. Until the twenty-fourth for a Vaisya.

39. After that (time has passed), they become patitasâvitrika (or persons who have lost the right of learning the Sâvitri).

40. No one should initiate such men, nor teach them, nor perform sacrifices for them, nor have intercourse with them.

41. The general rule here alluded to is, according to the commentators, that given by Kâtyâyana, Śrauta-sûtra XXV, 1, 12. 13. There it is stated which expiatory oblations have to precede, when a rite that has not been performed, or that has been incorrectly performed, is to be performed for good.

42. Those who have not been initiated in due time, may act as from the sacrament (of initiation) and from being taught the Veda.

43. Of such persons those who desire to receive the sacrament, may perform the sacrifice of Vratyastoma and then study the Veda, if they like. For (of persons who have done that) it is said, 'Intercourse with them is permitted.'

KANDIKÂ 6.

1. When he has finished the Veda, he should take the bath (by which he becomes a Snâtaka);

2. Or when (he has gone through) a studentship of forty-eight years;

3. Or also after (a studentship) of twelve years, according to some (teachers).

4. (Let him take the bath only) if his Guru has given his permission.

5. Rules (regarding the performance of sacrifices), (texts) to be used (at the sacrifices according to those rules), and reasoning (on the meaning of the rites and texts): that is the Veda.

6. Some say (that the Veda should be studied) with its six Ângas; stated in Sûtra 41. But if the omission has been perpetuated through three generations, the descendant of such persons is subject to the rules stated in Sûtras 42 and 43.

43. Kâtyâyana, after having given the rules on the Vratyastoma sacrifice (see Weber, Indische Literaturgeschichte, 2nd edition, pp. 73 seq.), says: 'Intercourse with them (who have performed that sacrifice) is permitted' (Sraut. XXII, 4, 28).

The shining one, that I seize here'—with (this formula) he draws water out of one (of the eight vessels);
11. With that he besprinkles himself with (the words), 'Therewith I besprinkle myself for the sake of prosperity, of glory, of holiness, of holy lustre.'
12. (A second time he draws water out of a second of the eight vessels with the formula given in Sûtra 10, putting instead of the words, 'The shining one, &c.,' the verse): 'By which you have created prosperity, by which you have touched surâ, with which you have anointed the eyes, which is your glory, O Asvins.'

3. If the Utsarga ceremony has been performed.

20. On the division of the Sâma-veda into Parva s, comp. Weber, Indische Literaturgeschichte, 2nd edition, p. 72.

11, 1. 'Entire interruption' means, according to the commentators, that not only the study of the Veda itself, but also that of the Vedâṅgas, or even all sorts of worldly instruction are forbidden.

3. I have left the words sarvarûpe & a untranslated. Evidently if clouds appear, . . . , (it shall be interrupted) through a period of three nights or till twilight has thrice passed.

4. After he has eaten, until he has (washed and) dried his hands; while being in water; at night-time; at the time of the morning and evening twilight; while a dead body or a Kandâla is in the village.

5. While running, while seeing a person of bad fame or who has lost his caste, if a miraculous or happy event happens, as long as (that which occasions the interruption of study) endures.

6. If hoar-frost (lies on the ground), if a musical instrument is heard, or the cry of a person in pain, at the border of the village, in a burial ground, or if a dog, an ass, an owl, a jackal, or a Sâman song is heard, or if a learned person approaches, as long as (that occasion) endures.

7. If his Guru has died, let him go down into water (for offering water-oblations) and interrupt (the study) for ten nights.

8. If one who has performed with him the Tânû-naptra ceremony, or a fellow-pupil (has died), for three nights.

9. If one who is not his fellow-pupil, (has died,) for one night.

sarvarûpa is identical with the doubtful word savarûpa which twice occurs in the Sâṅkhyaṇa-Grîhya. See the discussion on that word in the note on Sâṅkhyaṇa II, 12, 10.

4. On antardivâkṛtye, comp. Manu V, 85. Gautama XVI, 19.

8. The Tânûnaptra is an invocation directed to Tânûnaptri (i.e. the wind) by which the officiating priests and the Yagamâna at a Soma sacrifice pledge their faith to do no harm to each other. See Indische Studien, X, 362.

10. After having studied five months and a half, they should celebrate the Utsarga,

11. Or six months and a half.

12. They then mutter this Rik: 'Ye two young sages! The relation which has expired among us, the friendship we dissolve, (turning away) from the condition of friendship.'

13. After having remained together through a period of three nights, they separate.

KANDIKĀ 12.

1. In (the month) Pausha, under (the Nakshatra) Rohiṇī, or at the middle Ashṭakā let them celebrate the conclusion of the study (of the Veda).

2. Let them go to the brink of water and make water oblations to the gods, the metres, the Vedas, the Rishis, the ancient teachers, the Gandharvas, the other teachers, the year with its divisions, and to their own ancestors and teachers.

3. After having four times quickly recited the Sāvitrī, they should say, 'We have finished.'

4. Interruption (of the study) and (continuation of the) teaching as stated above.

12. The reading of the Mantra is doubtful. I think it should stand as Professor Stenzler has printed it, except that I should propose to correct yuvā into yuvānā (comp. Āsvalāyana-Srauta VI, 12, 12). It is probable that the gods addressed are the two Arvins, who are called kavī and yuvānā in several passages of the Vedas.

12, 1. See Āsvalāyana-Gṛhya III, 5, 20; Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛhya IV, 6. On the three Ashṭakās, see below, III, 3, 1.

4. Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛhya IV, 5, 17, where the same expression kshapana for interruptions of the study is used. The words 'as above' refer to chap. 10, 23. 24.

KANDIKÂ 13.

1. On an auspicious day the harnessing to the plough. Or under (the Nakshatra) Gyeshthâ, (because that rite is) sacred to Indra.

2. To Indra, Parganya, the two Asvins, the Maruts, Udalâkâsyapa, Svâtikârt, Sitâ, and Anumati, he offers curds, rice grains, perfumes, and fried grains, and then makes the bullocks eat honey and ghee.

3. He should put them to the plough with (the verse), 'They harness to the ploughs' (Vâg. Samh. XII, 67).

4. With (the verse), 'For luck may us the plough-shares' (Vâg. Samh. XII, 69) let him plough or touch the plough-share.

5. Or (he may) not (do so), because (that verse) has been prescribed for (the erection of) the Agni (-altar), and the act of sowing stands in connection (with it).

6. After the front-bullock has been sprinkled (with water), they then should plough unploughed ground.

13, 1. Indra is the presiding deity over the constellation Gyeshthâ; see Sânkhâyana-Grîhya I, 26, 16, &c.

2. The names of the genius Udalâkâsyapa and of the female genius Svâtikârt occur, as far as I know, only here. Böhtlingk-Roth propose to read Sphâtikârt ('the goddess who gives abundance').

5. At the Agni-ñayana ceremony furrows are drawn with the plough on the Agni-kshetra with the verses Vâg. Samh. XII, 69-72. Afterwards grains of different kinds are sown. See Kâtyâyana XVII, 2, 12; 3, 8; Indische Studien, XIII, 244 seq. Thus in the Srauta ritual the verse Vâg. Samh. XII, 69 stands in a connection which does not conform to the occasion for which it would be used here.

7. He should make oblations of cooked sacrificial food to the same deities as above, when sowing both rice and barley, and at the sacrifice to Sītā.

8. Then (follows) feeding of the Brāhmanas.

KANDIKĀ 14.

1. Now (follows) the Śravanā ceremony,

2. On the full-moon day of the Śrāvana month.

3. He cooks a mess of sacrificial food, fried grains, and a cake in one dish, pounds the greater part of the grains, sacrifices the two Āgya portions, and two (other) Āgya oblations (with the following verses):

4. 'Beat away, O white one, with thy foot, with the fore-foot and with the hind-foot, these seven [children] of Varuna and all (daughters) of the king's tribe. Svāhā !

5. 'Within the dominion of the white one, the Serpent has seen nobody. To the white one, the son of Vidarva, adoration ! Svāhā !'

6. He makes oblations of the mess of cooked sacrificial food to Vishṇu, to Śravana, to the full moon of Śrāvana, and to the rainy season,

7. (And oblations) of the grains with (the verse), 'Accompanied with grains' (Vāg. Samh. XX, 29).

7. 'As above' refers to Sūtra 2. On the Sītā-yagña, see below, chap. 17.

14, 1 seqq. Comp. Sāṅkhāyana IV, 5; Āśvalāyana II, 1; Gobhila III, 7.

4. Āśvalāyana II, 3, 3; Sāṅkhāyana IV, 18, 1. For Vārunaiḥ and rāgabāndhavaiḥ I read Vārunīḥ, rāgabāndhavīḥ. Pragāḥ is an interpolation.

5. Āśvalāyana, loc. cit. One is rather tempted to correct ahir dadamsa kaṣṭhana, but Rāmānandra's Paddhati on Sāṅkhāyana gives the reading dadaḥ sa, as the Pāraskara MSS. do.

8. He sacrifices flour, over which ghee has been poured, to the serpents (with the following Mantras):

9. 'To the lord of the serpents belonging to Agni, of the yellowish, terrestrial ones, svâhâ !

'To the lord of the white serpents belonging to Vâyu, of the aerial ones, svâhâ !

'To the lord of the overpowering serpents belonging to Sûrya, of the celestial ones, svâhâ !

10. The (cake) in one dish he offers entirely (without leaving a remainder for the sacrificer) with (the formula), 'To the firm one, the son of the Earth, svâhâ !'

11. After he has eaten (of the sacrificial food), he throws a portion of the flour into a basket, goes out, besmears an elevated spot outside the hall (with cowdung), says, while a fire-brand is held (before him), 'Do not step between (myself and the fire),' and without speaking (anything except the Mantras), he causes the serpents to wash themselves, (pouring out water for them, with the formulas :)

12. 'Lord of the serpents belonging to Agni, of the yellowish, terrestrial ones, wash thyself !

'Lord of the white serpents belonging to Vâyu, of the aerial ones, wash thyself !

'Lord of the overpowering serpents belonging to Sûrya, of the celestial ones, wash thyself !'

13. Each time after the washing has been done, he offers to the serpents a Bali of flour, picking out

11. The ceremony with the fire-brand seems to stand in connection with the rule given by Âsvalâyana, II, 1, 13, that before the sacrificer has 'given himself in charge' to the serpents, nobody is allowed to step between him and the Bali destined for the serpents. Comp. also below, Sûtra 23.

13. I have translated upaghâtam by 'picking out.' On the full

(portions of it) with (the spoon called) Darvī (with the formulas):

14. 'Lord of the serpents belonging to Agni, of the yellowish, terrestrial ones, this is thy Bali!

'Lord of the white serpents belonging to Vāyu, of the aerial ones, this is thy Bali!

'Lord of the overpowering serpents belonging to Sūrya, of the celestial ones, this is thy Bali!'

15. After he has made them wash themselves as above, he combs them with combs (with the formulas):

16. 'Lord of the serpents belonging to Agni, of the yellowish, terrestrial ones, comb thyself!

'Lord of the white serpents belonging to Vāyu, of the aerial ones, comb thyself!

'Lord of the overpowering serpents belonging to Sūrya, of the celestial ones, comb thyself!'

17. (He offers) collyrium, ointment, and garlands with (the same formulas), putting at their end, respectively, the words, 'Salve thy eyes!' 'Anoint thyself!' 'Put on garlands!'

18. The remainder of the flour he pours out on the elevated spot (mentioned in Sūtra 11), pours water on it out of a water-pot, and worships the technical meaning of the term, which implies the omission of the upastarāṇa and abhigḥāraṇa, see Bloomfield's note on Gr̥hya-saṃgraha I, 111 (Zeitschrift der deutschen Morgenländischen Gesellschaft, XXXV, 568).

15. The words 'as above' refer to Sūtra 11. Pralikhati, which I have translated 'he combs them,' is the same act for which Sāṅkhāyana (IV, 15, 7) says, pharena keshayati. I think Professor Stenzler is wrong in translating: Er scharrt (das Mehl) mit Kämmen zusammen. Gayerāṇa says: pralekhanam ka kramena pratiman-tam balikandūyanam kankatsiḥ. tāni ka vaikankatyāni prādesa-mātrāny ekatodantāni kashāṇi bhavanti.

serpents with the three (verses), 'Adoration be to the serpents' (Vâg. Samh. XIII, 6 seqq.).

19. At that distance in which he wishes the serpents not to approach (the house), he should three times walk round the house, sprinkling an uninterrupted stream of water round it, with the two (verses), 'Beat away, O white one, with thy foot' (Sûtras 4 and 5).

20. He gives away the (spoon called) Darvî (Sûtra 13) and the basket (Sûtra 11), having washed and warmed them.

21. Near the door (of the house) they clean themselves with the three (verses), 'O waters, ye are' (Vâg. Samh. XI, 50 seqq.).

22. Having put away that remainder of flour in a hidden place, he should from that time daily till the Âgrahâyantî, after sunset, when he has performed the service to the fire, offer to the serpents a Bali of flour, picking out (portions of it) with the Darvî (spoon).

23. When he is offering (the Bali), let no one step between (the sacrificer and the Bali).

24. With the Darvî (spoon) he rinses his mouth. Having washed it, he puts it away.

20. According to the commentators he gives these things to the man who holds the fire-brand (Sûtra 11).

22. The Âgrahâyantî is the full-moon day of Mârgaśīrsha, on which the Pratyavarohana ceremony is celebrated. See below, III, 2; Weber, die vedischen Nachrichten von den Naxatra, II, 332. The expression darvyopaghâtam is the same that has occurred above in Sûtra 13.

23. Comp. Ârvalâyana-Grîhya II, 1, 13, and see above, Sûtra 11.

24. Prakshâlya seems to me to refer to the Darvî; see Sûtra 20.

25. They eat the (rice) grains which must not form one coherent mass.

26. Then (follows) the feeding of the Brāhmaṇas.

KANDIKĀ 15.

1. On the full-moon day of Praushṭhapada the sacrifice to Indra.

2. Having cooked milk-rice for Indra and cakes, and having put cakes round (the fire), he sacrifices the two Āgya portions and Āgya oblations to Indra, to Indrāṇi, to Āga Ekapad, to Ahi Budhnya, and to the Proshṭhapadās.

3. After he has eaten (his portion of the sacrificial food), he offers a Bali to the Maruts. For the Śruti says, 'The Maruts eat what is not-sacrificed.'

4. (This Bali he offers) in Asvattha leaves, because it is said, 'The Maruts stood in the Asvattha tree.'

25. Asamsyātāḥ. Comp. Böhtlingk-Roth s.v. saṁ-sīv.

15, 2. After these Āgya oblations follows the chief oblation of the whole sacrifice, the oblation of milk-rice to Indra. In one of Professor Stenzler's MSS. there is a special Sūtra inserted after Sūtra 2, 'Of the cooked food he makes an oblation with (the formula), "To Indra svāhā."' I do not, however, think it right to receive this Sūtra into the text, as the other MSS do not support it, and the commentators did not find it in the text which they read.

3. Professor Stenzler's translation, 'Die Maruts essen kein Opfer,' seems to me not quite exact. I should prefer to say, 'Die Maruts essen Nicht-Opfer.' This passage, taken from Satapatha Brāhmaṇa IV, 5, 2, 16, is quoted as supporting the rule that a Bali offering should be made to the Maruts; for in the technical language the term ahuta is applied to Bali offerings (Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛhya I, 10, 7, huto-agnihotrahomena, ahuto bahikarmāṇā).

4. When Indra called them to his help against Vṛitra. Satapatha Brāhmaṇa IV, 3, 3, 6.

5. (He offers it) with (the texts), 'Brilliantly resplendent' (Vâg. Samh. XVII, 80-85), Mantra by Mantra,

6. And with the (Mantra called) Vimukha.

7. (This Mantra he repeats only) in his mind.

8. For the Sruti says, 'These are their names.'

9. He murmurs, 'To Indra the divine' (Vâg. Samh. XVII, 86).

10. Then (follows) the feeding of the Brâhmanas.

KANDIKÂ 16.

1. On the full-moon day of Âsvayuga the (offerings of) Prishâtakas (are made).

2. Having cooked milk-rice for Indra he sacrifices it, mixed with curds, honey, and ghee, to Indra, Indrâni, the two Asvins, the full moon of Âsvayuga, and to the autumn.

3. After he has eaten (his portion of the sacrificial food), he sacrifices with his joined hands a Prishâtaka prepared with curds, with the words, 'May what is deficient be made full to me; may what is full not decay to me. Svâhâ!'

4. The inmates of the house look at the mixture of curds, honey, and ghee, with the Anuvâka,

5. This Sûtra is identical with the last words of Kâty. XVIII, 4, 23.

6. This is the first part of Vâg. Samh. XVII, 86.

8. Satapathâ Brâhmana IX, 3, 1, 26. There it is said that sukragyotus ('brilliantly resplendent') &c. (the words used in Vâg. Samh. XVII, 80) are names of the Maruts.

9. This Sûtra is identical with Kâty. XVIII, 4, 25.

16, 1. Prishâtaka means a mixture of curds and butter. Comp. Sâṅkhâya IV, 16, 3; Ârvalâyana II, 2, 3; Grihya-saṁgraha-pariśiṣṭa II, 59.

3. Ârvalâyana II, 2, 3.

'May Indra come hither' (Vāg. Samh. XX, 47 seqq.).

5. They let the calves join their mothers that night and the Āgrahāyaṇī night.

6. Then (follows) the feeding of the Brāhmanas.

KANDIKĀ 17.

1. Now (follows) the sacrifice to Sītā.

2. Wherever he sacrifices, be it (on a field) of rice or of barley, of that grain he should prepare a mess of cooked food.

3. One who has sacrificed may, if he likes, prepare elsewhere also a mess of cooked food, either of rice or of barley.

4. (There should be) no doubt (as to whether rice or barley is to be taken), as a rule thereon has been stated above.

5. If it is impossible (to take one of the two species of corn), (that) is excluded.

6. To the east or to the north of the field, on a

5. Sāṅkhāyana IV, 16, 4.

17, 1. The goddess Sītā is, as her name indicates, the rustic deity of the furrow.

3. Perhaps the meaning is that a person who has already once performed the Sītā-yagña on the field, is allowed, when repeating the sacrifice another time, to celebrate it elsewhere, and to choose at his will between rice and barley.

4. A rule has been given in the Srauta-sūtra (Kāty. I, 9, 1: 'Rice or barley, if a Havis [is prescribed]') which shows that it is indifferent whether rice or barley is taken. Thus the sacrificer is free to elect the one or the other. At least this is the traditional meaning of this Sūtra. But possibly we had better understand it otherwise. The sacrificer should offer, according to Sūtra 3, rice or barley. Whether he has to take the one or the other, there can be no doubt, as the rule given above (Sūtra 2) shows that rice should be cooked, if the ceremony is performed for a rice-field, and barley, if for a barley-field.

clean spot that has been ploughed, so that the crop be not damaged,

7. Or in the village, because (there) both (rice and barley) are united, and because no obstacle is there.

8. Where he intends to cook (the sacrificial food), he establishes the fire on a place that has been smeared (with cowdung), which is elevated, and which has been sprinkled (with water), strews (round the fire) Darbha grass mixed with (stalks of) that (sort of corn to which the sacrifice refers), sacrifices the two Âgya portions and Âgya oblations (with the following Mantras):

9. 'For whom earth and heaven, the intermediate points and the chief points (of the horizon) are veiled with light, that Indra I invoke here. May his weapons be friendly towards us. Svâhâ!

'Whatsoever it be that I wish for at this sacrifice, O killer of Vṛitra, may all that be fulfilled to me, and may I live a hundred autumns. Svâhâ!

'May success, prosperity, earth, rain, eminence, excellence, luck here protect the creatures. Svâhâ!

'In whose substance dwells the prosperity of all Vedic and worldly works, Indra's wife Sîtâ I invoke. May she not abandon me in whatever work I do. Svâhâ!

'Her, who rich in horses, rich in cows, rich in delight indefatigably supports living beings, Urvarâ (i. e. the field) who is wreathed with threshing-floors, I invoke at this sacrifice, the firm One. May she not abandon me. Svâhâ!'

10. He makes oblations of the cooked sacrificial food to Sîtâ, Yagâ (the goddess of sacrifice), Samâ (the goddess of zealous devotion), Bhûti (the goddess of welfare).

11. Some say that the giving (of the sacrificial food to the deities) accompanies the Mantras.

12. But this is excluded, as the Śruti says, 'The giving (of the oblation to the deity) accompanies the word Svâhâ.'

13. On the Kusa grass which is left over from the strewing (of grass round the fire), he offers a Bali to the protecting demons of the furrow with (the Mantra), 'They who are sitting towards the east with strong bows and quivers, may they protect thee from the east, and be vigilant and not abandon thee. To them I bring adoration, and I offer this Bali to them.'

14. Then to the south with (the Mantra), 'They who are sitting towards the south, not winking the eyes, wearing armour, may they protect thee from the south, and be vigilant and not abandon thee. To them I bring adoration, and I offer this Bali to them.'

15. Then to the west with (the Mantra), 'The powerful ones, the excellent ones, prosperity, earth, Pârshni, Sunamkuri, may they protect thee from the west, and be vigilant and not abandon thee. To them I bring adoration, and I offer this Bali to them.'

16. Then to the north with (the Mantra), 'The fearful ones, like to Vâyu in speed, may they protect

12. The quotation has not been as yet identified in the Śruti itself, but the words quoted are found in Kâty-Śraut. I, 2, 7.

14. Some words in the beginning of the Mantra are lost. We should probably write: atha dakshinâtâh, ye dakshinâto = nimishâh... varminâ âsate, &c. Of course it is impossible to say which is the word that is wanting before (or perhaps after) varminâh.

15. Pârshni, which means 'heel,' stands here, of course, as the name of a protecting demon.

thee from the north, on the field, on the threshing-floor, in the house, on the way, and be vigilant and not abandon thee. To them I bring adoration, and I offer this Bali to them.

17. Of another (sort of food) as the chief (food used at this sacrifice), and with the remainder of Āgya, he distributes Balis as above.

18. And the women should make accompanying oblations, because such is the custom.

19. When the ceremony is finished, he should feed the Brāhmanas. He should feed the Brāhmanas.

End of the Second Kāṇḍa.

17. See above, chap. 13, 2.

KÂṆDA III, KANDIKÂ 1.

1. (Now shall be explained) the partaking of the first-fruits (of the harvest), of a person who has not set up the (sacred Srauta) fires.

2. He cooks a mess of fresh sacrificial food, sacrifices the two Âgya portions, and two Âgya oblations, (with the formulas),

‘To the hundredfold armed, hundredfold valiant, hundredfold blissful one, the vanquisher of enemies—he who may create a hundred autumns for us, Indra,—may he lead us across (the gulf of) misfortune. Svâhâ!

‘The four paths that go between heaven and earth, trodden by the gods—of these (paths) lead us to that which may bring us freedom from decay and decline, O all ye gods. Svâhâ!’

3. Having made oblations of the mess of cooked food to the Âgrayana deities, he makes another oblation to (Agni) Svishṭakṛt with (the verse), ‘Agni, make this (sacrifice) full, that it may be well offered. And may the god destroy all hostile powers. Come hither, showing us a good path. Bestow on us long life, full of splendour and free from decay. Svâhâ!’

4. He then eats (of the fresh fruits with the

1, 1. The corresponding ceremony of the Srauta ritual is treated of in Kâty. IV, 6.

2. A fresh Sthâlpâka means probably a Sthâlpâka prepared from the fresh grain of the new harvest.

3. The deities of the Âgrayana ceremony, which occupies in the Srauta ritual the place corresponding to the rite described here, are Indra and Agni, the Virve devâs, Heaven and Earth.

'From the good you have led us to the better, ye gods! Through thee, the nourishment, may we obtain thee. Thus enter into us, O potion, bringing refreshment, for the good of our children and of ourselves, and pleasant.'

5. Or with the (verse) sacred to Annapati (the Lord of food).

6. For barley, however, (he uses the Mantra), 'This barley, mixed with honey, they have ploughed through Sarasvatî under Manu. Indra was lord of the plough, the hundredfold wise one; ploughers were the Maruts, the exuberant givers.'

7. Then (follows) the feeding of the Brâhmanas.

KANDIKÂ 2.

1. On the full-moon day of Mârgaśr̥ṣha the Âgrahâyanî ceremony (is performed).

2. He cooks a mess of sacrificial food, sacrifices two Âgya oblations as at the Sravanâ sacrifice, and other oblations with (the following verses):

'The night whom men welcome like a cow that comes to them, (the night) which is the consort of the year, may that (night) be auspicious to us. Svâhâ!

5. The Annapatîya verse is Vâg. Samh. XI, 83.

6. Comp. manâv adhi, Rîg-veda VIII, 72, 2.

2, 2. The two oblations belonging to the Sravanâ ceremony are those stated above, II, 14, 4. 5.

2. The first verses in which the Âgrahâyanî night is called the consort of the year, or the image of the year, occur elsewhere with reference to the Ekâśvaka night. See Atharva-veda III, 10; Taitt.

‘The night which is the image of the year, that we worship. May I reach old age, imparting strength to my offspring. Svâhâ!

‘To the Samvatsara, to the Parivatsara, to the Idâvatsara, to the Idvatsara, to the Vatsara bring ye great adoration. May we, undecayed, unbeaten, long enjoy the favour of these (years) which are worthy of sacrifices. Svâhâ!

‘May summer, winter and spring, the rains be friendly, and may autumn be free of danger to us. In the safe protection of these seasons may we dwell, (and) may (they) last (to us) through a hundred years. Svâhâ!’

3. He makes oblations of the cooked food to Soma, to (the Nakshatra) Mṛigasiras, to the full moon of Mârgaśr̥ṣha, and to the winter.

4. After he has eaten (of the sacrificial food), he throws the remainder of the flour into a basket, (and then follow the same rites that have been stated above) from (the sacrificer’s) going out down to their cleaning themselves.

5. After the cleaning he says, ‘The Bali offering is finished.’

6. After they have spread out to the west of the fire a layer (of straw) and a garment that has Samhitâ V, 7, 2, 1. See also below, Pâraskara III, 3, 5. Samvatsâra, Parivatsara, Idâvatsara, &c. are terms designating the different years of the quinquennial period of the Yuga. See Zimmer, Altindisches Leben, 369, 370.

4. See above, II, 14, 11-21 (not 19-21 as indicated by Professor Stenzler).

6. ‘Redescending’ means that they do not sleep any longer on high bedsteads, which they did from the Śrāvast day till the Âgrahâst, on account of the danger from the snakes, but on the ground. See the notes on Sâṅkh.-Gr̥hya IV, 15, 22; 17, 1.

not yet been washed, they 'redescend,' having bathed, wearing garments which have not yet been washed : the master (of the house) southward, his wife to the north (of her husband, and then the other persons belonging to the house) so that each younger one lies more to the north.

7. Having caused the Brahman to sit down southward, and having placed to the north a water-pot, a Samī branch, an earth-clod taken out of a furrow, and a stone, he murmurs, looking at the fire : ' This Agni is most valiant, he is most blessed, the best giver of a thousand boons, highly powerful. May he establish us both in the highest place.'

8. To the west of the fire he joins his hands (and holds them) towards the east.

9. With the three (verses), ' The divine ship' (Vâg. Samh. XXI, 6-8) they ascend the layer (of straw).

10. He addresses the Brahman : ' Brahman, we will redescend.'

11. The Brahman having given his permission, they redescend with (the words), ' Life, fame, glory, strength, enjoyment of food, offspring !'

12. Those who have received the initiation murmur, ' May a good winter, a good spring, a good summer be bestowed on us. Blessed may be to us the rains, may the autumns be blessed to us.'

13. With (the verse), ' Be soft to us, O earth' (Vâg. Samh. XXXV, 21), they lie down on their right sides, their heads turned towards the east.

10, 11. See the note on § 6.

12. On upeta, which means a person for whom the Upanayana has been performed, see my note, Sâṅkhâyaṇa-Grîhya II, 1, 1.

14. They arise with (the verse), 'Up! with life, with blessed life. Up! with Parganya's eye, with the seven spaces of the earth.'

15. This (they repeat) two other times, with the Brahman's permission.

16. Let them sleep on the ground four months (after the Pratyavarohana), or as long as they like.

KANDIKĀ 3.

1. After the Āgrahāyaṇī (full moon follow) the three Ashṭakās.

2. (The Ashṭakā is) sacred to Indra, to the Visve devās, to Pragāpati, and to the Fathers.

3. (The oblations are made) with cakes, flesh, and vegetables, according to the order (of the three Ashṭakās).

4. The first Ashṭakā (is celebrated) on the eighth day of the fortnight.

5. Having cooked a mess of sacrificial food and having sacrificed the two Āgrya portions, he sacrifices Āgrya oblations with (the texts):

(a) 'Thirty sisters go to the appointed place,

14. The verse occurs, with a few differences, in the Kāṇva Sākhā of the Vāg. Samhitā, II, 7, 5.

3, 1. On the Ashṭakās, celebrated on the eighth days of the three dark fortnights following after the Āgrahāyaṇī full moon, see Sāṅkhāyana III, 12 seqq.; Āśvalāyana II, 4, Gobhila III, 10.

2. As there are four deities named, I think it probable that they are referred to all Ashṭakās indiscriminately; comp. Āśvalāyana II, 4, 12. Thus in the Mantias prescribed for the first Ashṭakā (Sūtras 5 and 6), Indra, the Visve devās, and Pragāpati are named; to the Fathers belongs the Anvashṭakya ceremony.

3. With regard to the order of these substances the Grīhya texts differ.

5. Comp. Taitt. Samhitā IV, 3, 11; Atharva-veda III, 10.

(a) The thirty sisters seem to be the days of the month. As to putting on the same badge. They spread out the seasons, the knowing sages; having the metres in their midst they walk around, the brilliant ones. Svâhâ!

(b) 'The shining one clothes herself with clouds, with the ways of the sun, the divine night: manifold animals which are born, look about in this mother's lap. Svâhâ!

(c) 'The Ekâshṭakâ, devoting herself to austerities, has given birth to a child, to the majesty of Indra. Through him the gods have conquered the hostile tribes; he became the killer of the Asuras through his (divine) powers. Svâhâ!

(d) 'You have made me who am not the younger (sister), the younger; speaking the truth I desire this: may I be in his (i.e. the sacrificer's?) favour, as you are; may none of you supplant the other in her work.

(e) 'In my favour dwelt the omniscient one; he has found a firm standing; he has got a footing. May I be in his (i.e. the sacrificer's?) favour, as you are; may none of you supplant the other in her work.

(f) 'On the five dawns follows the fivefold milking; on the cow with the five names, the five seasons. The five regions (of the sky) are estab-madhyekṣandas, comp. Taitt. Samh. loc. cit. § 1: kṣandasvatī uśasâ pepisâne; § 2: kṣatushomo abhavad yâ tuiyâ yagnasya pakṣhâv rishayo bhavanti, gâyatṛim trishubham gâgatim anushubham brîhad arkam yugânâḥ suvarâbharann idam.

(d) Probably one Ashṭakâ addresses the others, her sisters, as Gayatrî explains this verse.

(f) The explanation by which the 'fivefold milking' is referred to what is called in Taitt. Brâhmana II, 2, 9, 'the milkings of Pragâpati,' seems to me more than doubtful, for 'the milkings lished through the fifteenfold (Stoma); with one common face (they look over) the one world. Svāhā!

(g) 'She who shone forth as the first, is the child of truth. One (of them) bears the majesty of the waters; one wanders in the courses of the sun; one (in those) of the heat; Savitrī shall govern one. Svāhā!

(h) 'She who shone forth as the first has become a cow in Yama's realm. Give us milk, thou who art rich in mi'k, year by year. Svāhā!

(i) 'She, the owner of bright bulls, has come to us with clouds and with light, she who has all shapes, the motley one, whose banner is fire. Carrying on the common work, leading us to old age, come to us thou who art exempt from old age, Ushas! Svāhā!

(k) 'The consort of the seasons, the first one has come to us, the leader of days, the producer of offspring. Being one, thou shinest manifold, Ushas. Being free from old age, thou leadest to old age everything else. Svāhā!'

6. He makes offerings of the mess of cooked food with (the verses):

'May the earth be peaceful, the air friendly to us;

of Pragāpati' are only four: viz. the dark night, the moonlight, the twilight, and the day.

~ (i) Sukra-rishabhā cannot be translated, as Professor Stenzler does, 'die schönste unter den Lichtern' (Mādhava: sukreshu nakshatrādishu sreshhā), for this meaning of rishabhā occurs only in later texts. The word is a Bahuvrīhi compound, as the Petersburg Dictionary explains it.

6. In the first verse I have omitted vyaśnavai, wh. h impedes the construction and violates the metre. The word has found its way into the text, no doubt, in consequence of the phrase dīrgham āyur vyaśnavai occurring in chap. 2, 2. In the second verse may the heavens give us bliss and safety. May the points (of the horizon), the intermediate points, the upper points give us bliss, and may day and night create long life for us. Svâhâ!

'May the waters, the rays protect us from all sides; may the creator, may the ocean turn away evil. The present and the future, may all be safe for me. Protected by Brahman, may I be well guarded. Svâhâ!

'May all Âdityas and the divine Vasus, may the Rudras and Maruts be our protectors. May Pragâpati, the highest lord, bestow on us vigour, offspring, immortality, long life. Svâhâ!'

7. And with (the formula), 'To the Ashtakâ Svâhâ!'

8. The middle Ashtakâ (is celebrated) with (the sacrifice of) a cow.

9. He sacrifices the omentum of that (cow) with (the verse), 'Carry the omentum, O Gâtavedas, to the fathers' (Vâg. Samh. XXXV, 20).

10. On the day following each (Ashṭakâ), the Anvashtakâ day, (he brings a sacrifice) with the left ribs and the left thigh, in an enclosure, according to (the ritual of) the Pindapitriyagña.

11. Also to the female (ancestors he makes Pinda offerings) and pours (for them) strong liquor and water oblations into pits, and (offers) collyrium, salves, and garlands.

12. (He may also make oblations), if he likes, to the teacher and to the pupils who have no children.

akṛītaḍ is corrupt. I have translated abhayam; comp. Âśvalâyana II, 4, 14. In the third verse I have left out mayi, as Professor Stenzler has done in his translation.

13. And in the middle of the rainy season (there is) a fourth Ashṭakâ on which vegetables are offered.

KANDIKĀ 4.

1. Now the building of the house.
2. Let him have his house built on an auspicious day.

3. Into the pits (in which the posts shall be erected) he pours an oblation with (the words), 'To the steady one, the earth-demon, svâhâ!'

4. He erects the post.

'This navel of the world I set up, a stream of wealth, promoting wealth. Here I erect a firm house; may it stand in peace, dropping ghee.

'Rich in horses and cows, rich in delight be set up, for the sake of great happiness. To thee may the young calf cry, to thee the lowing cows, the milk-cows.

'To thee (may) the young child (go), to thee the calf with its companions, to thee the cup of Parisrut, to thee (may they go) with pots of curds.

13. I have stated in the note on Sâṅkhâyana III, 13, 1 my reasons for believing that the true reading of this Sûtra is not madhyâ-varsha (in the middle of the rainy season), but mâghyavarsha (the festival celebrated during the rainy season under the Nakshatra Maghâs). There are no express rules given with regard to the third Ashṭakâ, but I think we should understand this Sûtra as involving a statement on that Ashṭakâ: (The third Ashṭakâ) and the fourth, on the Mâghyavarsha day, are Sâkâshakâs (Ashṭakâs on which vegetables are offered). Sâṅkhâyana (Grîhya III, 13, 1) declares that the ritual of the fourth Ashṭakâ is identical with that of the second.

4, 3. Āsvalâyana-Grîhya II, 8, 15.

4. On gagadaiḥ saha (in the third verse) see my note on Sâṅkhâyana-Grîhya III, 2, 9.

'The consort of Peace, the great one, beautifully attired—bestow on us, O blessed one, wealth and manly power, which may be rich in horses and cows, full of sap like a tree's leaf. May our wealth increase here, clothing itself with prospering'—with (these four Mantras) he approaches the four (posts).

5. Having established the fire inside (the house), having made the Brahman sit down towards the south, having placed a water-pot to the north, and cooked a mess of sacrificial food, he goes out (of the house), and standing near the door, he addresses the Brahman, 'Brahman, I enter (the house)!'.

6. When the Brahman has given his consent, he enters with (the formula), 'To right I advance, to luck I advance!'

7. Having prepared Āgya and sacrificed two Āgya oblations with (the two parts of the Mantra), 'Here is joy' (Vāg. Samh. VIII, 51 a), he sacrifices other oblations with (the verses):

(a) 'Vāstoshpati! Receive us (into thy protection); give us good entering and drive away from us evil. For what we ask thee, with that favour us: be a saviour to us, to men and animals. Svāhā!

(b) 'Vāstoshpati! Be our furtherer; make our wealth increase in cows and horses, O Indu (i.e. Soma). Free from decay may we dwell in thy friendship; give us thy favour, as a father to his sons. Svāhā!

(c) 'Vāstoshpati! Let us be in a fellowship with thee, which may be valiant, joyful, and well proceeding. Protect our wishes when we rest and when we do our work. Protect us always, ye (gods), and give us welfare. Svâhâ!

(d) 'Driving away calamity, Vâstoshpati, assuming all shapes, be a kind friend to us. Svâhâ!'

8. He makes offerings of the mess of cooked food (with the following Mantras):

(a) 'Agni, Indra, Brîhaspati, the Visve devâs I invoke, Sarasvati and Vâgî. Give me a dwelling-place, ye vigorous ones. Svâhâ!

(b) 'To all the divine hosts of serpents, to the Himavat, the Sudarsana (mountain), and the Vasus, Rudras, Âdityas, Îsâna with his companions, to all these I apply. Give me a dwelling-place, ye vigorous ones. Svâhâ!

(c) 'To forenoon and afternoon both together with noon, to evening and midnight, to the goddess of dawn with her wide path, to all these I apply. Give me a dwelling-place, ye vigorous ones. Svâhâ!

(d) 'To the Creator and the Changer, to Visvakarman, to the herbs and trees, to all these I apply. Give me a dwelling-place, ye vigorous ones. Svâhâ!

(e) 'To Dhâtri and Vidhâtri, and to the Lord of treasures together with them, to all these I apply. Give me a dwelling-place, ye vigorous ones. Svâhâ!

(f) 'As a lucky, a happy (place), give me this dwelling-place, Brahman and Pragâpati, and all deities. Svâhâ!'

9. After he has partaken (of the sacrificial food), let him put into a brass vessel the different things which he has brought together, Udumbara leaves with strong liquor, green turf, cowdung, curds, honey, ghee, Kusa grass, and barley, and let him besprinkle the seats and shrines (for the images of the gods).

8 a. Vâgî is, as the name shows, the goddess of quick vigour. Gayarâma explains Vâgî, a name of Sîtâ, as a personification of food.

10. He touches (the wall and the posts) at their eastern juncture with (the words), 'May luck and glory protect thee at thy eastern juncture.'

11. He touches (them) at their southern juncture with (the words), 'May sacrifice and sacrificial fee protect thee at thy southern juncture.'

12. He touches (them) at their western juncture with (the words), 'May food and the Brâhmana protect thee at thy western juncture.'

13. He touches (them) at their northern juncture with (the words), 'May vigour and delight protect thee at thy northern juncture.'

14. He then goes out (of the house) and worships the quarters (of the horizon, the east) with (the formulas), 'May Ketâ (i.e. will?) and Suketâ (i.e. good-will?) protect me from the east.

'Agni is Ketâ; the Sun is Suketâ: to them I apply; to them be adoration; may they protect me from the east.'

15. Then to the south: 'May that which protects and that which guards, protect me from the south.

'The Day is that which protects; the Night is that which guards; to them I apply; to them be adoration; may they protect me from the south.'

16. Then to the west: 'May the shining one and the waking one protect me from the west.

'Food is the shining one; Breath is the waking one; to them I apply; to them be adoration; may they protect me from the west.'

17. Then to the north: 'May the sleepless one and the not-slumbering one protect me from the north.

‘The Moon is the sleepless one; the Wind is the not-slumbering one; to them I apply; to them be adoration; may they protect me from the north.’

18. When (the house) is finished, he enters it with (the formulas), ‘Law, the chief post! Fortune, the pinnacle! Day and night, the two door-boards!

‘Indra’s house is wealthy, protecting; that I enter with my children, with my cattle, with everything that is mine.

‘Hither is called the whole number (of relatives), the friends whose coming is good. Thus (I enter) thee, O house May our dwellings be full of inviolable heroes from all sides!’

19. Then (follows) feeding of the Brāhmanas.

KANDIKĀ 5.

1. Now (follows) the putting up of the water-barrel.

2. To the north-east he digs a pit like (the pit for) a sacrificial post, strews into it Kusa grass, fried grains, fruits of the soap-tree, and other auspicious things, and therein he establishes the water-barrel with (the words), ‘The sea art thou.’

3. He pours water into it with (the verse), ‘Ye

18. Comp. Sāṅkhāyana-Gṛhya III, 3, 7 seq., chap. 4, 10. The comparison of Sāṅkhāyana shows that we have to divide saha prajāyā parubhiḥ, saha yan me kñāid asty, upahūtaḥ, &c. Sādhusamvritaḥ (if the reading is correct) seems to me to be the nom. plur. of sādhusamvrit. I understand this to be a Bahuvrīhi compound, in which samvrit means ‘the approaching.’ In Atharva-veda VII, 60, 4 we have sakhāyāḥ svādusamvudāḥ. After sāle a verb meaning ‘I enter,’ or something like that, has been lost.

waters, rich in wealth, ye possess goods. Ye bring us good insight and immortality. Ye are the rulers over wealth and blessed offspring. May Sarasvatī give strength to him who praises her !—

4. And with the three (verses), 'O waters, ye are' (Vāg. Samhitā XI, 50 seqq.).

5. Then (follows) feeding of the Brāhmaṇas.

KANDIKĀ 6.

1. Now the cure for headache.

2. Having moistened his hands, he passes them over his eye-brows with (the verse), 'From the eyes, from the ears, from the whiskers, from the chin, from the forehead, I drive away this disease of the head.'

3. If (only) one side (of the head aches, he recites the verse), 'Cleaver! Thou with the disfigured eyes! White-wing! Renowned one! And thou with the various-coloured wing! Let his head not ache.'

4. Then it will get better.

KANDIKĀ 7.

1. (Now will be declared) the making water round about a servant who is disposed to run away.

2. While (the servant) is sleeping, he should discharge his urine into the horn of a living animal, and should three times walk round him, turning his left side towards him, and sprinkle (the urine) round him,

7, 1. Utūla-parimeha. It is probable that utūla, as meaning a slave who habitually runs away, is connected with the use of that word as the name of a tribe in the north-west of India.

with (the verse), 'From the mountain (on which thou art born), from thy mother, from thy sister, from thy parents and thy brothers, from thy friends I sever thee.

'Run-away servant, I have made water round thee. Having been watered round, where wilt thou go?'

3. Should he run away (nevertheless, his master) should establish a fire that has been taken from a wood that is on fire, and should sacrifice (in that fire) Kusa plates (used for protecting the hands when holding a hot sacrificial pan) that have been anointed with ghee, with (the formula), 'May the stumbler stumble round thee, . . . may he tie thee with Indra's fetter, loosen thee for me, and may he lead another one up (to me).'

4. Then he will quietly remain (in his master's house).

KANDIKĀ 8.

1. The spit-ox (sacrificed to Rudra).
2. It procures (to the sacrificer) heavenly rewards, cattle, sons, wealth, renown, long life.
3. Having taken the sacred domestic fire to the

3. Ukhâ yâbhyâṁ grîhyate tâv māvau. Comm. on Kâtyâyana, Sraut. XVI, 4, 2.

In the Mantra I propose to read, pari tvâ hvalano, &c. Nivṛt-tendrāvīrudhaḥ seems to be corrupt; it seems to be a compound of nivṛtta, a second member which is doubtful, and vīrudh (the plant). The meaning may have been 'giving it up to consume the plants.'

forest, and having performed the 'outspreading,' he should sacrifice the animal to Rudra.

4. One that is not gelded.

5. Or (it may be) a cow, on account of the designation.

6. Having cooked the omentum, a mess of sacrificial food, and the portions cut off (of the victim), he sacrifices the omentum to Rudra, the fat to the Air, and the cut-off portions together with the mess of cooked food to Agni, Rudra, Sarva, Pasupati, Ugra, Asani, Bhava, Mahâdeva, Îsâna.

7. (Then follows a sacrifice to) Vanaspati

8. (To Agni) Svishtakṛit at the end.

9. Then (follows) the sprinkling round to the different quarters (of the horizon).

10. After the sprinkling has been performed, they sacrifice the Patnî-samyâga offerings to Indrânt, Rudrânt, Sarvânt, Bhavânt, and Agni Grîhapati.

11. The blood he offers in leaves, on (grass-) bunches, as a Bali to Rudra and to his hosts, with (the Mantras),

'The hosts, Rudra, which thou hast to the east, to them this Bali (is given). To them and to thee be adoration!

12. The contents of the stomach and of the entrails, besmeared with blood, he throws into the fire or buries them in the earth.

13. Having placed the animal so that the wind blows from himself to it, he approaches it with the Rudra hymns, or with the first and last Anuvâka.

14. They do not take anything of that animal to the village.

15. Thereby (also) the cow-sacrifice has been declared.

16. (It is combined) with (the offering of) milk-rice ; (the rites) not corresponding (to that special occasion) are omitted.

17. The sacrificial fee at that (sacrifice) is a cow of the same age (as the victim).

KANDIKÂ 9.

1. Now the letting loose of the bull.

2. (The ceremony) has been declared in the cow-sacrifice.

3. (It is performed) on the full-moon day of Kârttika, or on the (day on which the moon stands in conjunction with) Revatî in the Âsvayuga month.

5. With (the verses), 'May Pûshan go after our cows; may Pûshan watch over our horses; may Pûshan give us strength'—he sacrifices of (the sacrificial food) destined for Pûshan.

6. After murmuring the Rudra hymns they adorn a one-coloured or a two-coloured (bull) who protects the herd or whom the herd protects. Or it should be red, deficient in no limb, the calf of a cow that has living calves and is a milk-giver; and it should be the finest (bull) in the herd. And besides they should adorn the best four young cows of the herd and let them loose with this (verse), 'This young (bull) I give you as your husband; run about sporting with him, your lover. Do not bring down a curse upon us, by nature blessed ones. May we rejoice in increase of wealth and in comfort.'

7. When (the bull) stands in the midst of the cows, he recites over it (the texts beginning with) 'Bringing refreshment,' down to the end of the Anuvâka (Vâg. Samh. XVIII, 45-50).

8. With the milk of all (the cows) he should cook milk-rice and give it to the Brâhmanas to eat.

6. Sâṅkhâyaṇa, §§ 6-14. On the Rudra hymns, see above, chap. 8, § 13. Perhaps the words mâ naḥ sâpta are corrupt; the correct reading may possibly be, mâ-vasthâta.

7. Sâṅkhâyaṇa, § 15. There is no Mantra in the Vâgasaneyi Samhitâ beginning with the word mayobhûḥ, but this word occurs in the middle of XVIII, 45 a; the texts which he recites begin at that word and extend down to the end of the Anuvâka. It is clear that mayobhûḥ was intended in the original text, from which both Sâṅkhâyaṇa and Pâraskara have taken this Sûtra, as the Rik-Pratîka, Rig-veda X, 169, 1.

KANDIKĀ 10.

1. Now the water libations (which are performed for deceased persons).
2. When (a child) that has not reached the age of two years dies, his father and mother become impure.
3. The other (relations) remain pure.
4. (The impurity lasts) through one night or three nights.
5. They bury the body without burning it.
6. If (a child dies) during the impurity of his mother (caused by the child's birth), the impurity lasts till the (mother's) getting up (from child-bed), in the same way as the impurity caused by a child's birth.
7. In this case (of the child being younger than two years) no water libations (are performed).

32. They should intermit the standing rites, except those performed with the three (Srauta) fires,

33. And (with the exception of those performed) with the (sacred) domestic fire, according to some (teachers).

34. Others should perform (those rites for them).

35. Those who have touched the dead body should not enter the village until the stars appear.

36. If (they have touched it) in the night-time, (they should not enter) till sunrise.

37. The entering and what follows after it is the same (for these persons) as for the others.

38. (Their) impurity lasts through one or two fortnights.

39. The same (rites should be performed) when the teacher (has died),

40. Or the maternal grandfather or grandmother,

41. Or unmarried females.

42. For those who were married, the others should do it,

43. And they for the (others).

44. If one dies while being absent on a journey, (his relations) shall sit (on the ground, as prescribed for impure persons) from the time when they have heard (of his death), performing the water libation

37. The position of this Sûtra after 35, 36 seems to me to indicate that it refers to those who have touched the dead body; comp. Yâgñavalkya III, 14 - pravesanâdikam kâma pretasamsparśinâm api. I believe that the same persons are concerned also in Sûtra 38.

50. When the Pindas are prepared, the deceased person, if he has sons, shall be considered as the first of the (three) Fathers (to whom Pindas are offered).

51. The fourth one should be left out.

52. Some (make Pinda offerings to a deceased person) separately through one year (before admitting him to a share in the common Pitriyagña).

53. But there is a rule, ' There can be no fourth Pinda '—for this is stated in the Sruti.

54. Every day he shall give food to him (i.e. to the deceased person), and if he was a Brāhmaṇa, a vessel with water.

KANDIKĀ 11.

1. If an animal (is to be sacrificed), let him wash it, if it is not a cow; let him walk round the fires and drive in front (of them) a Palāsa branch into the ground.

2. The winding (of a Kusa rope) round (that branch), the touching (of the animal with the grass-blade), the binding (of it to the branch), and the sprinkling (of the animal with water) should be performed in the way prescribed (in the Srauta-sūtra), and whatever else (is to be done).

3. After he has sacrificed the two oblations before and after the killing of the animal, (he) silently (sacrifices) five other oblations, directed to Pragāpati.

4. And the omentum is taken out (of the killed animal). He should besprinkle it (with water) and name the deity (to whom the sacrifice is directed).

5. (He should name that deity also) at the touching (of the animal with the grass-blade), at (its) being bound (to the branch), at its being sprinkled (with water), and at (the preparation and oblation) of the mess of cooked food.

6. After he has sacrificed the omentum, he cuts off the Avadāna portions,

11, 1. The branch replaces the sacrificial post (yūpa) of the Srauta ritual. As to agreṇa, comp. Kāty.-Sraut. VI, 2, 11 and the commentary.

2. See Kāty.-Sraut. VI, 3, 15 on the parivyayana, ibid. §§ 19, 26 on the upākarana, § 27 on the niyogana, § 33 on the prokshana.

3. Kātyāyana VI, 5, 22 : He sacrifices (Āgya) with the words, 'Svāhā to the gods.' § 24 : He sacrifices (Āgya) with the words, 'To the gods svāhā.' In the commentary on § 25 these two oblations are called pariparavyāhurf.

4. See Kātyāyana VI, 6, 13 ; Āsvalāyana-Grīhya I, 11, 10.

5. See above, Sūtra 2.

7. All of them, or three, or five.
8. He sacrifices the Avadâna portions together with the mess of cooked food.
9. A limb of the animal is the sacrificial fee.
10. At (a sacrifice) directed to a special deity he should sacrifice (an animal) belonging to that deity, should make a portion for that (god), and should say to him (i.e. to the messenger who is to convey that offering to a place sacred to that deity): 'Take care that this may reach that (god).'
11. If there is a river between (the sacrificer and that sacred place), he may have a boat made, or he may dispense with this.

KANDIKĀ 12.

1. Now (follows) the penance for a student who has broken the vow of chastity.
2. On a new-moon day he shall sacrifice an ass on a cross-road (to the goddess Nirrîti).
3. (And) he shall offer a mess of cooked food to Nirrîti.
4. The Avadâna portions are sacrificed into water (and not into fire).

7. The complete number of the Avadânas (i.e. the portions of the killed animal which have to be cut off, such as the heart, the tongue, &c) is eleven; see Kâty.-Sraut VI, 7, 6; Âsvalâyana-Grîhya I, 11, 12.

8. Âsvalâyana-Grîhya, loc. cit. § 13.

10, 11. The way for interpreting these Sûtras is shown by Âsvalâyana-Grîhya I, 12. I do not think that they have anything to do, as Gayarâma states, with reference to Sûtra 11, with the offering due to a relative who has died while being absent on a journey (chap. 10, 44).

12, 1. See the parallel passages quoted by Professor Bühler in his note on Âpastamba I, 26, 8 (S.B.E., II, 85), and besides, Kâtyâyana I, 1, 13 seqq.; Gautama XXIII, 17 seqq., &c.

4. This Sûtra is identical with Kâtyâyana I, 1, 16.

5. The Puroḍāśa (or sacrificial cake), which belongs to the animal sacrifice, is cooked on the ground (and not in the Kapâlas).

6. (The guilty person) should put on the skin (of the ass),

7. With the tail turned upwards, according to some (teachers).

8. He should through one year go about for alms, proclaiming his deed.

9. After that time he sacrifices two Āgya oblations with (the formulas), 'O Lust, I have broken my vow of chastity. I have broken my vow of chastity, O Lust. To Lust svâhâ!'—'O Lust, I have done evil. I have done evil, O Lust. To Lust svâhâ!'

10. He then approaches (the fire) with (the verse), 'May the Maruts besprinkle me, may Indra, may Bṛhaspati, may this Agni besprinkle me with offspring and with wealth.'

11. This is the penance.

KANDIKÂ 18.

1. Now the entering of a court of justice.

2. He approaches the court with (the words), 'Court! Thou that belongest to the Aṅgiras! Troubled art thou by name; vehemence art thou by name. Thus be adoration to thee!'

3. He then enters (the court) with (the words), '(May) the court and the assembly, the two unanirmous daughters of Pragāpati (protect me). May one who does not know me, be below me. May (all) people be considerate in what they say.'

4. When he has arrived at the assembly, he should murmur, 'Superior (to my adversaries) I have come hither, brilliant, not to be contradicted. The lord of this assembly is a man insuperable in his power.'

5. Should he think, 'This person is angry with me,' he addresses him with (the verses), 'The destroying power of wrath and anger that dwells here on thy forehead, that the chaste, wise gods may take away.

'Heaven am I and I am Earth; we both take away thy anger, the she-mule cannot bring forth offspring; N. N. !'

6. But if he should think, 'This person will do evil to me,' he addresses him with (the words), 'I take away the speech in thy mouth, I take away (the speech) in thy heart. Wheresoever thy speech dwells, thence I take it away. What I say, is true. Fall down, inferior to me.'

7. The same is the way to make (a person) subject (to one's self).

KANDIKĀ 14.

1. Now the mounting of a chariot (is declared).

2. After he has given the order, 'Put the horses to it,' and it has been announced, 'They are,' he goes to (the chariot, saying), 'This is the Virāg,' and touches the two wheels,

5. Perhaps we should read gaibhenāsvataryāḥ saha: we take away thy anger together with the offspring of the she-mule (that cannot foal). Comp. Kullavagga VII, 2, 5; S. B. E., XX, 238.

6. It is impossible to give a sure restoration of this corrupt Mantra. Perhaps we should read something like this: ā te vātam āsya ā te hrīdaya ādade. Comp. Hirany.-Gr̥hya I, 4, 15, 6

3. The right (wheel) with (the words), 'The Rathantara art thou'—

4. The left with (the words), 'The Brîhat art thou'—

5. The pole with (the words), 'The Vâmadevya art thou.'

6. He touches the interior of the chariot with his hand (saying), 'The two Aṅkas, the two Nyāṅkas which are on both sides of the chariot, which move forward with the rushing wind, the far-darting one with keen senses, the winged one, may these fires, the promoters, promote us.'

7. With (the words), 'Adoration to Māṇikara,' he drives on the beast on the right side.

8. (If going in his chariot) toward (images of) gods, let him descend (from the chariot) before he has reached them; if toward Brāhmaṇas, just before (reaching them); if toward cows, when amid them; if toward fathers, when he has reached them.

9. A woman or a Vedic student shall not be charioteers.

14, 6. The meaning of ankau and nyankau cannot be determined, as far as I can see. The commentators explain the words as the two wheels and the two sides of the chariot, or as the two right wheels and the two left wheels of a four-wheeled chariot. Professor Zimmer (Altindisches Leben, pp. 251 seq.) compares anka with ἀνκῆ, and says, 'Mit ankau (resp. ankū) wäre daher die obere Einfassung des Wagenkastens (kora, vandhura) bezeichnet, mit nyankau (resp. nyankū) ein zu grösserer Befestigung etwas weiter unten (ni) herumlaufender Stab.' To me it seems that ankau and nyankau are to be understood both as designations of certain parts of the chariot and as names of different forms of Agni dwelling in the chariot.—Comp. Taittirīya Saṃhitā I, 7, 7, 2; Pañkavimsa Brāhmaṇa I, 7, 5.

7. The name of the demon Māṇikara occurs, as far as I know, only here.

10. Having driven a moment beyond (the point to which he intends to go) he should murmur, 'Here is rest, rest here' (Vâg. Samh. VIII, 51).

11. Some add (the words), 'Here shall be no rest.'

12. If the chariot is weak, he should murmur, after he has mounted it, 'May this your chariot, O Asvins, suffer no damage on bad ways or by being overthrown.'

13. If the horses run away with the chariot, he should touch the post (?) or the earth and should murmur, 'May this your chariot, O Asvins, suffer no damage on bad ways or by being overthrown.'

14. Thus he will suffer no harm and no damage.

15. When he has finished his way, and has unyoked the horses, let him have grass and water given to them. 'For thus satisfaction is given to the beast that draws (the cart)'—says the Śruti.

KANDIKĀ 15.

1. Now how he should mount an elephant.

2. He goes to the elephant and touches it (saying), 'The elephants' glory art thou. The elephants' honour art thou.'

3. He then mounts it with (the words), 'With Indra's thunder-bolt I bestride thee. Make me arrive safely.'

4. Thereby it has also been declared how he should mount a horse.

11. If the reading of the text is correct, the meaning would seem to be: We will rest here for a while, but then we will go further.

13. I cannot say what 'the post' (stambha) here means; it may be a part of the chariot. Gayarâma has dhvaga-stambha, i.e. the staff of a flag, which we are to suppose was carried on the chariot. This may be the right explanation.

15. Satapatha Brâhmana I, 8, 2, 9.

5. When he is going to mount a camel, he addresses it: 'Thou art the son of Tvashtri; Tvashtri is thy deity. Make me arrive safely.'

6. When he is going to mount a he-ass, he addresses it: 'A Sûdra art thou, a Sûdra by birth. To Agni thou belongest, with twofold sperm. Make me arrive safely.'

7. A path he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells on the paths. Make me arrive safely.'

8. A cross-road he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells at the cross-roads. Make me arrive safely.'

9. When he intends to swim across a river, he addresses it: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells in the waters. Make me arrive safely.'

10. When going on board a ship, he addresses her: 'The good ship' (Vâg. Samh. XXI, 7).

11. When going to cross (the river), he addresses (the ship): 'The well-protecting' (Vâg. Samh. XXI, 6).

12. A forest (through which he is wandering) he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells in the forests. Make me arrive safely.'

13. A mountain (which he is going to cross) he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells on the mountains. Make me arrive safely.'

14. A burial-ground he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells among the Fathers. Make me arrive safely.'

15. A cow-stable he addresses: 'Adoration to Rudra who dwells among the dung-heaps. Make me arrive safely.'

6. The he-ass has twofold sperm, because he begets both asses and mules. Taittirîya Samhitâ VII, 1, 1, 2.

16. And wheresoever else it be, let him always say, 'Adoration to Rudra.' For the Sruti says, 'Rudra is this universe.'

17. If the skirt (of his garment) is blown upon him (by the wind), he addresses (that skirt). 'A skirt art thou. Thou art not a thunder-bolt. Adoration be to thee. Do no harm to me!'

18. The thunder he addresses. 'May the rains be friendly to us; may (Indra's) darts be friendly to us—may they be friendly to us which thou throwest, O killer of Vṛitra.'

19. A howling jackal he addresses. 'Friendly by name' (Vāg. Samh. III, 63).

20. A shrieking bird he addresses: 'Golden-winged bird who goest where the gods send thee! Messenger of Yama, adoration be to thee! What has the Kārkāṇa told thee?'

21. A tree that serves as a mark (of a boundary, &c.), he addresses: 'May neither the flash of lightning (destroy thee), nor axe nor wind nor punishment which the king sends. May thy shoots grow up; may rain fall on thee, in safety from the wind. May fire not destroy thy root. Blessing on thee, O lord of the forest! Blessing on me, O lord of the forest!'

22. If he receives something (given to him), he accepts it with (the formula), 'May Heaven give thee; may the Earth accept thee.' Thus (the thing given) does not decrease to him who gives it, and what he receives increases.

19. The play on words is untranslatable; 'jackal' is śivā, 'friendly,' śivāḥ.

20. I do not know the meaning of kārkāṇaḥ. Gayarāma takes it for a genitive standing instead of an accusative, and explains it by asmadbādhakam.

23. If boiled rice is given to him, he accepts it with (the formula), 'May Heaven, &c.,' and he partakes thereof twice with (the formulas), 'May Brahman eat thee!'—'May Brahman partake of thee!'

24. If gruel is given to him, (as above) . . . three times with (the formulas), 'May Brahman eat thee!'—'May Brahman partake of thee!'—'May Brahman drink thee!'

KÂNDIKÂ 16.

1. Now each time after a lesson (of the Veda) is finished, in order to prevent his forgetting (the texts he has studied, the following prayer should be recited):

'May my mouth be skilful; my tongue be honey-sweet speech. With my ears I have heard much; do not take away that which I have heard, which dwells in me.

'The Brahman's word art thou; the Brahman's stand art thou; the Brahman's store-house art thou. Fulfilment art thou; peace art thou; unforgetfulness art thou; enter into my store-house of the Brahman. With the voice I cover thee! With the voice I cover thee! May I be able to form the vowels, to produce, to hold fast and to utter the guttural, pectoral, dental, and labial sounds. May my limbs grow strong, my voice, breath, eye, ear, honour, and power. What I have heard and studied, may that be fixed in my mind; may that be fixed in my mind.'

End of the Third Kânda.

End of Pâraskara's Grîhya-sûtra.

16, 1. As to anirâkarana, comp. anirâkarishnu above, II, 4, 3. Possibly we should read, gihvâ me madhumad vâhah.

KHÂDIRA-GR/HYA-SÛTRA.

INTRODUCTION

KHÂDIRA-GRÎHYA-SÛTRA.

AMONG the Grantha MSS. collected by the late Dr. Burnell and now belonging to the India Office Library, there are some MSS. (numbers CLXXII and following of the Catalogue) of a Grîhya-sûtra hitherto unpublished, which is ascribed to Khâdirâkârya. It belongs to the Drâhyâyana school of the Sâma-veda, which prevails in the south of the Indian peninsula¹, and it is based on the Gobhîtya-sûtra, from which it has taken the greater number of its aphorisms, just as the Drâhyâyana-Srauta-sûtra, as far as we can judge at present, is nothing but a slightly altered redaction of *Lâryâyana*². Like the Gobhîla-Grîhya it very seldom gives the Mantras in their full extent, but quotes them only with their Prâtikas, and it is easy to identify these quotations in the Mantrabrâhmaṇa (published at Calcutta, 1873), which contains the texts prescribed by Gobhîla for the Grîhya ceremonies.

The Khâdira-Grîhya has evidently been composed with the intention of abridging Gobhîla's very detailed and somewhat lengthy treatise on the domestic rites. Digressions, such as, for instance, that introduced by the words tatraihad'âhu, Gobhîla I, 2, 10-27, or such as Gobhîla's explication of the terms paurṇamâṣi and amâvâsyâ, I, 5, 7 seqq., or most of the regulations concerning the Sakvaryas, III, 3, or the Slokas, IV, 7, are invariably left out, and in the descriptions of the single ceremonies throughout the principal points only are given, with the omission of all words and of all matter that it seemed possible to dispense with. On the other hand, the arrangement of the Sûtras has undergone frequent changes, in which the compiler clearly shows his intention of grouping together, more carefully than was done in the original text, the Sûtras which naturally belong to each other. Of the Sûtras of the Khâdira-Grîhya which cannot be identified in Gobhila, several are to be traced back to Lâtyâyana, or we should perhaps rather say, to Drâhyâyana. Thus Khâd. I, 1, 14 *mantrântam avyaktam parasyâdigraha-

² Weber, Vorlesungen über indische Literaturgeschichte (2nd edition), p. 87 : 'Almost the entire difference between this Sûtra and that of Lâryâyana lies in the arrangement of the matter treated of, which is in itself very nearly the same in both texts, and is expressed in the same words.' Comp. Ānandaśāndra Vedāntavāgīśa's Introduction to his edition of Lâryâyana (in the Bibliotheca Indica), pp. 2, 3, and his statements on Drâhyâyana in the notes of that edition.

-na vidyât* evidently corresponds to Lâtyâyana I, 1, 3, uttarâdih pûrvântalakshanam, and Khâd. I, 1, 24 avyâvrittîm yagñângaiḥ avyavâyam kekhet is identical with Lâty. I, 2, 15, avyavâyo-vyâvrittis ka yagñângaiḥ.

Upon the whole, though certainly the Khâdira-Grîhya does not contain much matter which is not known to us from other sources, it notwithstanding possesses a certain interest, since it shows by a very clear example how a Sûtrakâra of the later time would remodel the work of a more ancient author, trying to surpass him by a more correct arrangement, and especially by what became more and more appreciated as the chief accomplishment of Sûtra composition, the greatest possible succinctness and economising of words. To an interpreter of Gobhila the comparison of the Khâdira-Grîhya no doubt will suggest in many instances a more correct understanding of his text than he would have been likely to arrive at without that aid, and perhaps even readings of Gobhila which seemed hitherto subject to no doubt, will have to give way to readings supplied by the Grantha MSS. of the Khâdira-Grîhya. Thus, Gobhila III, 8, 16, I do not hesitate to correct asamsvâdam, on the authority of Khâd. III, 3, 13, into asamkhâdam or *asamkhâdan*¹.

As the text of the Khâdira-Grîhya is very short and has not yet been published, it has been printed at the foot of the page, together with references to the parallel passages of Gobhila. For further explanations of the single Sûtras, I refer to my translation of Gobhila which will form part of the second volume of the Grîhya-sûtras, where I shall also hope to give some extracts from Rudraskanda's commentary on the Khâdira-Grîhya.

8. Having besprinkled his feet (with water), let him besprinkle his head.

9. Let him touch the organs of his senses (i.e. his eyes, his nose, and his ears) with water (i.e. with a wet hand).

10. When he has finally touched (water) again, he becomes pure.

11. (If) sitting, standing, or lying down (is prescribed), he should understand (that it is to be done) on northward-pointed Darbha grass, with the face turned to the east, to the west of the fire with which the sacrifice is performed.

12. If the word Snâna (or bathing) is used, (this refers to the whole body) with the head.

13. (The different ceremonies are) performed with the right hand, if no special rule is given

14. If it is not clear where a Mantra ends, one should discern it by (adverting to) the beginning of the next Mantra.

15. The Mantras have the word svâhâ at their end, when offerings are made.

16. The term Pākayagña is used of every sacrifice that is performed with one fire.

17. There the Brahman is (present as) officiating priest, with the exception of the morning and evening oblations.
